"And We Aren't Coming Back!"

At Geneva in 1933 the Japanese delegates walked out of the League of Nations. As the angry delegation neared the door, one of them turned back and shouted to the silent, watching membership:

"And we aren't coming back!"

History has a curious way of working out its own decisions, even as Shakespeare said of destiny that it shapes our ends, rough-hew them though we may.

The Japanese came back to the League of Nations, now the United Nations, by signing on Saturday, in humility and gratitude, a peace treaty with 48 other anti-Communist nations, and pledging themelves to peace and democratic processes.

It was a long, harsh road the Japanese took and the Russians, who walked out of the treaty meeting at San Francisco, might reflect on it. To be sure, there are some points along the way from which the Japanese of that period of great upsurge and aggression could look over into a promised land of victory and dominion over much, or all, of the world. It was enough to excite those with ambition for power and conquest. And for a long, long time there were none to regret those insolent, arrogant, words, "And we won't come back!" Or, if there were those with regret they kept quiet about it, since power-madness was loose in Japan, roaming its streets, villages and farmlands, taking the young men for the army and calling on the women to come to the cities and toil in the factories producing weapons.

Story

Acquisition of Formosa in 1894-95 was not enough. The Tsar's Russia was defeated in 1904-5 and this gave Japan undisputed possession of Korea. And behind Korea was China's Manchuria. There were shrewd men in Japan who bided their time. In 1915 Great Britain, France and Russia were busy in a desperate struggle for existence and could not intervene when Japan made her ruthless and infamous "21 demands" on China. They gave her control of Shantung and special rights in Manchuria. The United States did sternly demand an open door policy in China and obtain reluctant agreement.

It was 1931 before Japan was ready for her greatest gamble. The United States was out of the League of Nations and the Japanese sensed she would not willingly enter another "foreign war." On the night of September 17, 1931, Japanese troops moved from Korea to the border of Manchuria. On the 18th there was a dynamite blast on the rail tracks just north of Mukden. The Japanese troops marched in. Secretary of State Stimson sought to have Great Britain and the United States oppose. He received no support. This was a pivot of history.

There was fighting around Shanghai in 1932 and a truce was made, giving Japan further concessions. "We won't be back," they said in 1933. In 1936 Japan signed an agreement with Nazi Germany. Italy joined early in 1937. But it was July of that year before the emperor's men made their next gamble. They staged a riot at the Marco Polo bridge near Peiping. There was fighting. Japanese troops followed the old pattern. Stalin had just purged his army and cabinet. Britain was worried by Hitler. So Japan kept going deeper into China, and taking islands along the coast.

Climax

On Sunday morning, December 7, 1941, their bombs fell on Pearl Harbor and smashed most of the U. S. Pacific fleet.

It was August, 1945, when the first atomic bomb exploded over Hiroshima. On September 2 the Japanese surrendered.

And, at a little after noon on Saturday, September 8, 1951, they were "back" again, as they defiantly had said they would not be, that fateful day in 1933.

A lot had happened. In the less than 20 years since the Japanese gamble in Manchuria, millions of soldiers died in war and of disease. Millions more of noncombatant women and children had died of bombs, shell-fire, exposure, hunger and sicknesses that go with wars—typhus and plague.

Yet, on the afternoon of September 8, 1951, historians could say, "This is where we came in." Russi has walked out, furious and angry.

Today Russia clutches her territorial gains and plots incidents to add to that of Korea, to see what progress she can make along the road of conquest.

There are a few comforts. One of them is that in these later years God seems to become bored with tyrants.

Big 3 Ready For Capital Peace Talks

German 'Contract' First Objective

By JAY WALZ
New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—With a peace treaty for Japan brought to successful conclusion, the Foreign Ministers of the United States, Britain and France, will begin meetings here Monday looking toward completing new peace arrangements in Europe.

A new partnership with Western Germany is the first objective of the meetings, and the Big Three have been reported in virtual agreement over a plan to put relations with this former enemy country on a "contractual," rather than treaty, basis.

However, in the wake of the San Francisco conference which approved a treaty with Japan without Russia, it is believed possible that the Foreign Ministers this week may discuss concluding a separate peace treaty with Austria, and a revised treaty with Italy.

ACHESON RETURNS

Arriving by air force plane from the West Coast Sunday night, the three foreign ministers agreed the discussions of the coming week had been on their minds during the continental crossing. The plane, carrying Dean Acheson, Secretary of State; Herbert Morrison, British foreign secretary, and Robert Schuman, French foreign minister, arrived at National airport at 9:20 (Atlanta time). All had participated in the signing of the Japanese Treaty Saturday.

"We had useful conversations on the plane which outlined what our conferences will be in the coming week," said Acheson.

Morrison nodded that Acheson "covered the ground pretty well."

"Our solidarity is complete and I cannot add a single thing," said Schuman.

Acheson will meet with Morrison Monday, and with Schuman on Tuesday. All three will meet together beginning Wednesday, according to the present schedule.

John J. McCloy, U. S. High Commissioner to Germany, is in Washington for the talks, accompanied by Benjamin Buttenweiser and Chauncey G. Parker, the two assistant commissioners. Sir Ivone Kirkpatrick and Andre Francois-Poncet, Commissioners in Western Germany for Britain and France, respectively, are also to take part in the discussions.

JAPAN IS PATTERN

The "contractural arrangement" for Germany, details of which are to be worked out, is expected to follow in broad pattern the generous, non-vindictive spirit of the treaty for Japan. It would supplant occupation forces with defense troops, and look toward bringing Germany soon into the western defense plans to thwart Communist aggression.

The three-power Allied Commission would be abolished, and the Bonn Government would be given full sovereignty subject only to specific security safeguards for the western powers.

Some officials said there was reason to hope that Western Germany could be brought into the general Western Europe defense program within two months.

There was some feeling here over the week end that the Big Three powers should now make a new move to conclude a peace treaty with Austria, without Russia if necessary, to give that country the same economic and political advantages Japan has been accorded, and that Germany may shortly expect.

A general peace treaty with Austria has been held up for years because of differences with Russia, and the whole matter is complicated by the presence of Soviet troops in certain Austrian occupation zones.

AILING KING—LONDON, Sept. 9—Pictures of the tired, taut face of ailing King George brought newspaper speculation Sunday in London that the monarch was suffering from a serious illness. Greece Votes Right Wing's Papagos In ATHENS, Monday, Sept. 10—On the basis of nationwide election returns published at a late hour Sunday night, Field Marshal Alexander Papagos, head of the rightist Greek rally, appeared so far in the lead that when final results are known he may well be able to form a government of his own.

In Athens and Piraeus the 69-year-old marshal had captured something like 40 per cent of the votes which under the prevailing complex proportional electoral system assures him of an easy victory. The Athens and Piraeus area is traditionally more leftist than any other part of Greece.

Surprise Possible

It is likely that his stock will be considerably higher in other communities. Most of the country has not yet been heard from and many surprises are possible.

Marshal Papagos is trailed by Gen. Nicholas Plastiras, head of the National Progressive Union, who has about 25 per cent of the votes. Sophoeles Venizelos, head of the liberal party, made a showing far under what was expected, polling only about 11 per cent in Athens and the Piraeus area. Populist Constantine Tsaldaris, who was favored by the electorate in the March 5, 1950, elections, appeared almost eliminated and George Papandreou, head of Democratic Socialists and Alexander Svolos, socialist leader, seem virtually removed from the political arena.

Reds' Showing

EDA, which is the Communist organization, made a fair showing again in the Athens-Piraeus area, polling in the vicinity of 17 per cent. In March, 1950, elections the Communist or near Communist organizations polled more. The Communist strength is usually accepted as considerable in larger towns but negligible in the rural communities.

Results from rural areas began to pour in towards the close of the day. Generally Marshal Papagos appeared to be holding the lead established in the capital. He was closely followed by Plastiras and Venizelos.

Acheson Wins Praise Of Truman

Critics Called Outsmarted

By W. H. LAWRENCE
New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP) — President Truman flew back to Washington late Sunday with high praise for Secretary of State Acheson, who, he said, had outsmarted his domestic critics by blocking Soviet efforts to wreck the Japanese peace treaty conference.

Truman told reporters that he had congratulated Acheson upon the outcome of the San Francisco conference, where 48 of the 51 participating Allies signed the treaty with Japan on Saturday.

With reference to the firmness and skill with which Acheson presided over the treaty conference and blocked Soviet efforts to delay and disrupt the meeting, the President told reporters that the proceedings demonstrated that his Secretary of State "is smarter than any of the guys who have been attacking him."

With this single statement, Mr. Truman challenged again the combined Republican leadership in Congress and the members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, among others, who have been demanding Acheson's dismissal from the cabinet on grounds he was soft toward communism and had followed policies which led to the conquest of China.

The President made it clear that he had no intention of dispensing with Acheson's services because he regards him as one of the ablest secretaries of State in American history. He appeared confident too that a nation which had been able to view the dramatic conference on television would agree with him that there was no truth in pro-Communist charges levelled against his Secretary of State by Sen. McCarthy (Rep. Wis.), among others.

As the President arrived in Washington at 6:05 p. m. (Atlanta Time), after four days of work mixed with rest and relaxation at his Independence, Mo., home, it was indicated that he may be planning a limited "whistle stop" campaign shortly after Oct. 1, if Congress meets its current target date for adjournment. He wants very much to speak at a western Democratic rally in Los Angeles on Oct. 8, and there are tentative plans to make this trip by train, rather than airplane, so as to provide additional speaking opportunities in which he can carry his program to the people again.

Bridal Suite Opens Again For Barkleys

Vice President and Mrs. Alben Barkley will occupy their bridal suite at the Ansley Hotel when they come to Atlanta Monday in support of the Fall drive to sell bonds of the Israel government.

Alben Barkley

The Vice President will address some 350 Georgians, including Jewish leaders in Atlanta, at a dinner at 6:30 p. m. at the Standard Club. He is expected to urge support for the new state of Israel and for the $500,000,000 Israel bond drive. Funds from the drive will be used in a three-year program to strengthen Israel's economy, making way for additional immigrants.

UN Probing In Kaesong; Reds Flee Tank Smash

Nam Protests Again Planes Flew Sorties

By DON HUTH

TOKYO, Sept. 10—(AP)—Four United Nations liaison officers flew to Kaesong Monday to investigate the communists' 11th and latest charge that the Korean truce city's neutrality had been violated.

The new Communist charge was that Allied warplanes had machine-gunned Kaesong. The United Nations investigators were dispatched from the UN peace camp at Munsan, Korea, 18 miles south of the truce city.

Earlier Lt. Gen. Nam Il, chief Communist negotiator to the now suspended truce talks, charged in a broadcast over Peiping radio that Allied planes flew 139 sorties over the Kaesong neutral zone from Sept. 1 to 8. He demanded that the flights stop.

The Communist request for an investigation was received in the UN base camp at 3:35 a. m.

4-MAN TEAM

Col. Don O. Darrow, Tacoma, Wash., headed the four-man investigating team which flew to Kaesong by helicopter. It was the first UN command trip into the truce city since Sept 1 when the liaison officer investigated and rejected Red charges that Allied planes dropped bombs near the residence of General Nam.

The three other UN officers were: South Korean Lt. Col. Lee Soo Young, Lt. Col. Lawrence G. Hill, Birmingham, Ala., and Lt. Col. Howard S. Levie, Falls City, Nebraska.

It is an entirely new investigating team.

Five UN war correspondents, including Associated Press correspondent Robert Tuckman, accompanied the officers.

The 15-vehicle motor convoy with UN personnel was ferried across the Imjin River in assault boats.

RIDGWAY IGNORED

Officially thus far the Communists have ignored Gen. Ridgway's proposal that the talks be resumed in a new location.

A Peiping broadcast said a Communist correspondent at Kaesong was asked his views on the future of the Kaesong neutral zone. It gave as his reply:

"It is obvious that Kaesong will again play its proper part as the conference site in the continuation of the armistice negotiations, if only the United Nations forces side end their policy of obstructing and undermining the progress of the negotiations."

The Peiping broadcasts, quoting Wilfred Burchett of Paris ce Soir, French leftist paper, said:

"A mere choice of a new conference site will not eliminate chances of new incidents if the American attitude remains the same as hitherto."

98-Jet Fight Costs Enemy Three Planes

By PHIL NEWSOM

TOKYO, Monday, Sept. 10—(U.P.)—Communist troops broke and fled on one sector of the blazing western Korean battlefront Sunday as tank-led Allied troops advanced up to three miles along a 25-mile front.

The West Korean drive was touched off to upset a Red offensive buildup by three armored divisions with more than 100 tanks. The Allied drive, in the Chorwon-Yonchon-Korangpo area due north of Seoul, swept back into the Imjin valley where three Allied units fought their way out of Red traps last week.

LONG AIR BATTLE

Far to the north, along the Manchurian border, American Sabrejet pilots shot down two Migs and damaged another in a 34-minute, 98-plane jet battle, the longest in history. All of the 28 F-86s returned safely from the clash with 70 Migs, despite the Reds' numerical superiority.

United Press correspondent LeRoy Hansen reported from the western front that revenge-seeking Allied forces drove to the top of one hill south of Pyongang in a nine-hour attack and then launched heavy attacks at Red forces entrenched on a second.

Hansen said Communists broke under ceaseless United Nations air and artillery bombardment and that between 200 and 300 were seen fleeing to the northwest from the mountaintop. The UN troops had fought nine hours to capture the peak.

STAND OR DIE

Three units converged on the second enemy-held hill from different directions but were held up by heavy machinegun fire from stand or die Communist troops on the top.

The mountain tops overlook the broad plains leading to Pyonggang, apex of the old "iron triangle." Allied units attacked them with support of low-flying UN planes that whipped in and hit the enemy with rockets, napalm bombs and machinegun fire.

Other attacking UN forces were held up by staunchly resisting troops on high ground north-northeast of Yanggu.

Strafing Accident Perils Thousands in Long Beach

LONG BEACH, Calif., Sept. 9—(AP)—An Air Force fighter plane accidentally strafed an exclusive residential section Sunday, endangering thousands and terrifying the community.

But fortunately there were no apparent casualties. None had been reported hours later.

The F-51 Mustang fighter plane of the 188th Fighter Squadron, a unit on constant emergency alert, was on the ground at Long Beach Municipal Airport, its base, being checked routinely for the day's flights.

The Long Beach Air Force Base, commanded by Col. Lee Q. Wasser, in a brief statement said "malfunction of armament" (a short circuit) caused the firing of "a large number" of .50-caliber machine gun bullets at 5:45 a. m. A police report said 1,750 rounds were fired.

The deadly stream of bullets coursed in a northwesterly direction from the airport to the Virginia Country Club section nearly two miles away. This is an area of expensive houses, some in the $50,000 class, adjoining Virginia Country Club. It is on ground considerably higher than the airport.

The trajectory of the bullets carried them over thousands of houses between the airport and the Country Club area. Police and newsmen estimated that about 20 houses in the exclusive area were hit. The Country Club's 17th fairway was in direct line of fire and scores of bullets plowed into the grass.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar J. Wells was hit by eight or 10 lead slugs. Their sons, Wayne, 24, and Dick, 17, were sleeping in a bedroom where one bullet hit a window casing.

The Wells family ran into the street, and found 30 or 40 neighbors piling out of their houses in night clothing.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam McGill counted 18 slugs in their house, one above the front door knob.

Rain Forecast, But It Won't Dent Drouth

Atlanta may see scattered thundershowers Monday, but the drizzles won't make a dent in the seven weeks drought that is seering trees and grass in Atlanta and burning crops over the state, the weatherman predicted.

The little rain that has fallen in the last 49 days has been measured by the Weather Bureau in the hundredths of inches, or listed just as "a trace."

Pitcure of rocks in Chattahoochee River on Page 19.

A total deficiency for the past seven weeks of 4.45 inches of rain was noted in Atlanta, with similar conditions existing throughout the state, the bureau reports.

Normal rainfall for the period since July 29, when the city saw 2.07 inches of rain fall, is 5.93 inches. Actual precipitation since then has been 1.48 inches.

Official forecast for Atlanta is "partly cloudy and warmer Monday and Tuesday, with scattered thundershowers Monday afternoon or night."

In Atlanta, the city water system has dumped rock into the Chattahoochee River at the pumping station intake to bring the water level to the correct level on the intake box.

Temperatures are expected to climb from a Monday low of 62 to a high of 90. Tuesday's low is expected to be 66, the high, 88. Sunday's low was 58, the high, 86.

Slip in High Chair Fatal to Youngster

Nine-month-old Garey Wayne Jones of 199 Sisson Ave., N. E., died of strangulation Sunday when his father, James Ellis Jones, interrupted the child's high-chair feeding to answer the phone.

Garey's mother was at work as a telephone operator when the tragedy occurred. Ptl. F. O. Bishop and D. S. Harris said when Jones returned, Gary had slipped down—pinning himself between the seat and plate board.

Other survivors are grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Jones of Fitzgerald, and Mr. and Mrs. Rudie Clark of Gallup, N. M. Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

4 Children Found Asphyxiated In One-Room New York Apartment

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP)—Four children were found dead in a one-room westside Manhattan apartment Sunday, apparently asphyxiation victims of gas pouring from one jet of a kitchenette stove.

The bodies were found by Mrs. Harry Armstrong, 44, mother of three of the young victims. Police said Mrs. Armstrong had been away from the apartment since 7 p. m. Saturday night.

The dead were identified as:

John Armstrong, 9, William Armstrong, 11, and Patricia Eakins, 16, all children of Mrs. Armstrong, and Kathleen Houghton, 14, a friend.

Police said Mrs. Armstrong found the two girls lying on a bed and the bodies of the boys on the floor. The single window in the room was closed.

Fields Assumes Duties As Managing Editor

William H. Fields today assumes the duties of Managing Editor of The Atlanta Constitution, succeeding Lee Rogers, who has resigned to enter another field, Ralph McGill, Editor of The Constitution, announced today

Fields has been Associate Editor for four years, having come to The Constitution from the Savannah Morning News. He is a native of Edison, and is a graduate of the University of Alabama. His wife, the former Miss Hazel Cobb, of Bainbridge, attended Georgia State Teacher's College at Statesboro. They have two children.

George Boswell, former editor of the Cartersville Herald, and for about a year on The Constitution staff, will move to the editorial department under Leo Aikman, Editorial Assistant. Boswell is a native of Robinson, and is a graduate of the University of Georgia. Mrs. Boswell is the former Miss Mary Ross, of Birmingham, Ala.

Jack Tarver, who is assistant to the President of Atlanta Newspapers, Inc., has been given additional duties of management connected with both newspapers and because of these increased responsibilities, has been forced to discontinue his column.

Senate Tax Debate Faces Week's Delay

Raising Extra $6 Billion Involves Knotty Problems

By CLAYTON KNOWLES
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—Hope for adjournment of the Congress by Oct. 1 suffered another jolt Sunday as it was announced that Senate debate on the tax bill, a major item of legislation, probably will be deferred for a week.

Sen. Ernest W. McFarland, Democratic leader of the Senate, said the delay was occasioned by the inability of the Senate Finance Committee to resolve all points of difference on the measure, raising $6,000,000,000 in new taxes.

Several knotty questions, including taxation of farm co-operatives, remained to be dealt with when the committee ended an all-day session late Saturday. At the conclusion, Sen. George (Dem., Ga.) and finance chairman, informed the leadership the bill probably could not be sent to the floor until a week from Monday.

MORE "MUST" BUSINESS

With Senate debate originally scheduled to start this week, the postponement means the Senate, once it disposes of the record peacetime $61,103,856,030 appropriations bill for the Armed Services, will be making time, for all practical purposes, on "must" legislation for the balance of the week.

This outsized money bill, Sen. McFarland expects, will be approved by Tuesday night at the latest despite the fact that debate does not begin until Monday. Unanimously approved, both in the full Appropriations Committee and in subcommittee, the measure contains $5,000,000,000 for expanded air power that the House-approved military bill had not contained.

Sen. George expects his committee will complete action on tax bill Monday, perhaps with the help of a night session, but the report that must accompany the bill remains to be written. The committee's experts, the chairman said, probably cannot finish the report in time for action this week.

REPORT COMPLICATED

"There are so many complicated provisions it will take a lot of careful work to explain them in the report," he said.

Action on the bill possibly could have been completed in committee Saturday except for wrangling that developed over a provision, tentatively adopted earlier, to tax farm co-operatives to the extent of $30,000,000 annually.

There has been a flood of mail from rural areas protesting the earlier action, eliminating the tax exemption now enjoyed by some of the large co-operatives and tightening up provisions on patronage dividends from these sources.

These dividends would remain nontaxable, insofar as the co-operatives are concerned, but they would have to be paid in cash within two years after they are announced. It has been argued that co-operatives retain these dividend monies indefinitely and use them for expansion purposes.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(UP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft (Rep., Ohio) said Sunday the Senate should increase taxes this year about one billion dollars more than the $6,000,000,000 traget of the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee.

Sokolovsky of Politburo Warns Tito

By HARRISON E. SALISBURY
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

MOSCOW, Sept. 9—For the third time within about six weeks Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia has been placed on warning by an authoritative spokesman of Russia that the life of his regime is numbered and that the end is rapidly drawing near.

The third and newest warning was delivered Saturday night at Sofia in a memorial address on the seventh anniversary of Bulgaria's liberation by the Red army given by the Soviet's vice minister for war, Marshal V. D. Sokolovsky. Previous warnings to Tito were given by two members of the Politburo, the highest organ of the Communist party—V. M. Molotov, speaking at Warsaw, and Marshal K. E. Voroshilov, speaking at Bucharest.

The language employed by Marshal Sokolovsky was no less grave and impressive than that used by Molotov and Voroshilov. Sokolovsky declared there was "no doubt" that the Tito regime will be destroyed and emphasized "there is coming to an end the patience of the peoples of Yugoslavia, tortured and plundered by the clique of Tito."

Marshal Sokolovsky laid particular stress upon the border clashes between Yugoslavia and her neighbor states charging Tito with deliberately seeking to create an atmosphere of tension and conflict in the Balkans by provoking clashes and incidents along the boundaries of adjacent countries which include not only Bulgaria but Romania and Hungary.

Calling Tito a "trusted slave," "bloody executioner," "Judas," and "imperialist agent," Marshal Sokolovsky charged that Tito, with the full backing of the United States, was seeking by every means "to poison the political atmosphere of the Balkans."

Marshal Sokolovsky's language recalled the declarations of Molotov and Voroshilov both of whom said in almost identical words that the Tito regime "cannot continue long" and that "the peoples of Yugoslavia will find a way to freedom and the liquidation of the Tito Fascist regime."

This series of three warnings to Marshal Tito are the sharpest and most closely co-ordinated which have been directed against the Yugoslav regime since the break between Belgrade and Moscow some three years ago. Regardless of the sharpness of the language employed, however, there was a tendency among Moscow diplomats to discount the possibility of any action involving Yugoslavia at the present time.

70,000 SCHOOL CHILDREN

First Atomic Age Pupils Enter Grades This Week

By BETTY WILKISON

Teachers calling first-graders to order Monday may be in for some unusual activity for the first of the Atomic Age babies are going to school. They will be among the 70,000 Atlanta youngsters involved in the "back-to-school" move.

Like Eddie Covington, 109-B Emory Park, born Aug. 16, 1945, just 10 days after the first A-bomb fell on Hiroshima, these kids already have an educational start resulting from the swift pace of the "Atomic Age" and nurtured by the introduction of television and the stepping up of newspapers and radio. These tykes will bear watching.

Of course, they aren't a lot different. They're just kids, and some of them like Eddie will tell you, "I don't like school." Mama Dot Lovington says what he doesn't like is a new, strange routine. And Papa Ed, who's winding up his Ph. D. at Emory, tells him, "It isn't really so bad son."

But it develops that even high schoolers may evidence a little difficulty embracing the first few days of bell-ringing calling them from class to class.

Those sleep-filled mornings and the afternoons with the "gang" at drug store or swimming pool are gone with the Summer.

And high school kids being transferred from the county to the city will find their social clubs gone too. Atlanta's Board of Education has ruled it will crack down on Greek letter organizations in these schools as it has already done in the city's schools.

But school is inevitable and some of these little ones, like the older ones, can't resist the gregarious urge and they are anxious to get to the classroom and the playground.

World Jewry Executive Parley Opens

Special to The Atlanta Constitution

GENEVA. Sept. 9—The Executive of the World Jewish Congress will begin its annual meeting here Monday. Described by its members as the most representative body of world Jewry, the Executive will discuss and try to formulate policy on a number of matters of pressing interest for Jewish groups throughout the world.

According to leading members, far and away the most important matter is the resurgence of Germany as a leading independent power.

"We are strongly and firmly opposed to the early emancipation of Germany from Allied control and to German rearmament," Dr. Maurice Perlzweig, of New York, who represents the western hemisphere Jewish communities, said Sunday. The leaders expect to send to the foreign ministers of the western powers the specific views of the world Jewish community on the German question.

Among the points likely to be stressed are the failure of Germany to take responsibility for crimes against humanity committed by Germans during and before World War II, the need for greater protection than now exists against revival of Nazism and anti-Semitism and the failure of Germany adequately to compensate the victims of the Nazi terror.

"Up to now reparations have in fact been paid by Jews," Perlzweig said, referring to the fact that world Jewry has borne most of the cost of resettling the Jews outside Germany.

The Executive will also consider giving the Zionist movement a fuller participation in all aspects of Jewish life.

German Red Who Accused Mother Slain by Father

BERLIN, Sept. 9 —(U.P.)— An East German youth who denounced his mother to Communist police was slain by his father who then committed suicide, it was reported Sunday.

"Information Bureau West," a West Berlin agency which gathers news in East Germany, said Mrs. Walter Gerstungen was arrested after her 15-year-old son denounced her for destroying Communist propaganda he brought home.

The father then killed the boy and took his own life, the bureau said.

Crisis Cited In Building of Schools

Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—Willard E. Givens, executive secretary of the National Education Association, served notice Sunday of an increased school construction crisis, containing a grade school teacher shortage, and an "extremist" attack on the public school system itself.

Dr. Givens told a press conference to supplement his annual report that schoolhouse construction has been "especially hard hit" by the materials scarcities caused by the defense program. Despite the combined efforts of about 85 educational organizations, he said, steel allocations for schools were "far too small to start with and the schools had difficulty in getting part of what they should get.

"In addition to that, by the time a bond issue was passed and the money made available, cost of materials had so changed that the amount sought was not at all adequate," he said. "There has been a tremendous cost increase per unit foot. What's going to happen is anybody's guess. We are in a tough spot."

Dr. Givens' report, titled "Schools for Our Times" said: "At least a quarter of a million children are attending school only on a half-day basis and many thousand others are attending school in basements, rented store buildings, and other quarters not suited for school purposes." Increased enrollment over the single school year just past, it was stated, created a need for 27,000 additional classrooms over replacements.

Yet, he pointed out, allocations of steel for school building for the fourth quarter of the year was so curtailed that work must stop on some buildings now under construction, and no new building can be started.

While the Givens report did not mention the source of the attack on the public schools by "extremists" which was answered in detail in its pages, a NEA staff member at the press conference named Allen A. Zoll, executive vice president of the National Council for American Education (the NEA attacks this organization also in the current issue of the NEA Journal). Also mentioned was Frank Chodorov, author of a pamphlet, "Private Schools the Solution to America's Educational Problem." The staff member said that an intensive campaign in behalf of private schools had recently been conducted in the State of Virginia.

Newsprint Plant Planned For Tennessee

Sir Eric Vansittart Bowater, chairman of the big Bowater Newfoundland Pulp and Paper Mills, made the disclosure Saturday at the company's headquarters here.

He said a reply is being awaited from the United States Government to a request for a certificate of necessity—required before a start can be made on the project.

Sir Eric said the plant, an integrated newsprint and kraft sulphite mill, would be built near Chelston, in eastern Tennessee.

The development would have an annual capacity of 1,300,000 tons of newsprint and 50,000 tons of kraft sulphite. Sir Eric declined to estimate cost of the project.

The Bowater's chairman said the establishment of the Tennessee plant would have no effect on sales to the United States by the Newfoundland mills.

He added that several details still have to be worked out and a favorable reaction from the U. S. Government would not necessarily mean an immediate start on the plant.

Collision of 2 Hurricanes Spares Bermuda Big Blow

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Sept. 9—(AP)—Bermuda was hit lightly by the fringes of a tropical hurricane Sunday but was spared from damage by a strange, diverting encounter of two hurricanes at sea.

The weather bureau said this was the first recorded instance of such a battle of the elements.

The unique duel dissipated the power of both hurricanes and saved Bermuda from a straight blow from the hurricane code-named "Easy."

"Easy" was headed for Bermuda when it tangled with hurricane "Fox."

The island's shores were swept by winds varying from 25 to 50 miles an hour, but there was no damage. The only signs of the storm after it passed were a few flattened banana trees.

"Easy" was bearing down on Bermuda with 160-mile-an-hour winds when it encountered the smaller "Fox." The brush turned "Easy" so that only its edges touched Bermuda.

At Miami, Fla., the weather bureau plotted the course of "Easy" beforehand. On meeting with "Fox" the bigger blow was turned from its northerly course to a path going east-northeast.

Chief Forecaster Grady Norton said in Miami the encounter diminished the size of "Easy" and reduced its top winds to about 100 miles an hour.

"Bermuda was saved from one hurricane by another hurricane," Norton said. "The island would have been hit hard except for the effect of hurricane 'Fox' on 'Easy.'"

While it is not uncommon for two of these tropical storms to be roaming the Caribbean or Atlantic at the same time, this is the first recorded instance of two of them meshing. "Fox" formed and was located some time after "Easy" but its forward progress was faster and its curving course made it intercept the larger and more dangerous storm.

Ordinarily the course of these storms is clockwise but the collision imparted a counter-clockwise rotation which made "Easy" loop a path south of Bermuda rather than slamming head-on into the island's shore.

Ike Calls Self A Republican, Editor Asserts

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(U.P.)—Roy A. Roberts, editor of the Kansas City Star, said Sunday Gen. Eisenhower "has told me" that he is "a good Kansas Republican, like all his forebears."

Roberts, a leading GOP figure and one of the most power backers of Eisenhower for president, made the statement in a National Broadcasting Company radio symposium which also featured predictions of three other prominent newspaper editors on 1952 politics.

Jonathan Daniels, editor of the Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer, said President Truman will be the democratic candidate and there will be "no Dixiecrat revolt" against his candidacy as there was in 1948.

Paul Smith, editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, predicted that "morality and ethics in government" will be a major campaign issue.

William T. Evjue, editor of the Madison, Wis., Capital Times, asserted that "McCarthyism" has passed its peak as a political force, and that Sen. McCarthy (Rep., Wis.), "is being maneuvered from an offensive into a defensive position."

Roberts declared that Eisenhower would defeat any other candidate if nominated for president next year, but added that "events in Europe will determine whether he will run."

2 Missing, Third Safe As Fishing Boat Capsizes

FIRE ISLAND, N. Y., Sept. 9—(AP)—A commercial fishing trawler keeled over in rough seas in Fire Island Inlet Sunday. Two persons were missing and a third rescued.

The Ethel capsized 30 minutes after its three-man crew set out on a commercial fishing trip. The accident occurred a half mile off shore.

The survivor was identified as Reijier Steketee of Nisconset, N. Y. The Coast Guard said the missing men are Gerard Lamens of West Sayville, owner of the craft, and crewman Theodore Safar of Bohemia, N. Y.

Two planes and several launches are searching the area.

The Coast Guard said no storm warnings had been hoisted in the area but that fresh winds had whipped up heavy seas.

Saturday, near Ocean City, N. J., the 40-foot party fishing boat Moonlight turned over in rough water, killing one man and leaving two of its nine occupants missing.

German Vets Ask Share in Europe Defense As Rival Associations Seek Members

By DREW MIDDLETON

BONN, Sept. 9—The Association of German Soldiers, formed Saturday to represent nine veterans groups in West Germany, urged German participation in European defense under "conditions of equality" in its first policy statement.

The newly formed association also withstood its first attack when a spokesman for the Returned Prisoners of War Association, which is meeting here this weekend, condemned it as "too much a body of generals."

There are one or two privates and noncommissioned officers in the group meeting here which formed association, but it is heavily weighted by ex-generals and ex-admirals headed by former colonel generals Heinz Guderian and Hans Friessner, who has been named chairman. The Prisoners of War group is headed by a former private first class.

The policy statement rejected claims to membership in the association by Otto Ernst Remer, leader of Neo-Nazi Socialist Reichs Party, and by Communist war veterans and emphasized that it intends to be a democratic organization.

This assurance may quiet some of the fears entertained by liberal elements in the federal government and by Allied officials, notably the French, that the veterans association might become the national advocate of a new German militarism. The association's statement declared that the group is "willing to stretch out its hands in mutual respect to all soldiers of the free world and to work in loyal co-operation for the maintenance of peace."

In addition to calling for a German share in European defense and demanding conditions of equality for the federal republic the seven point program also:

1. Stressed that the association intends to remain above party politics and will work for the strengthening of a democratic state.
2. Appeals to all Germans who served in "military comradeship" and who accept its rules to join.
3. Aims at the unity of Germany in a free and united Europe.
4. Stands for justice and freedom for all former soldiers including those still held in foreign countries.
5. Urges the restoration of all rights not yet returned to former soldiers, members of the armed forces and their dependents.

DeKalb Enters 20 In Calf Contest

More than 20 DeKalb County boys and girls will compete for $500 in prize money to be awarded at the 1951 Farm Bureau calf contest to begin at 4 p. m. Saturday at the Lithonia recreation center.

Each boy or girl will show the beef or dairy calf he trained, with "valuable awards" to be made in each class. A barbecue will follow the judging.

October 9-12 are dates set for the annual State 4-H Club Congress in Atlanta when district champions in around 20 projects meet to compete for state titles which mean free trips to Chicago for the National Congress.

Double U. S. Air Power, Solon Urges

O'Mahoney Backs Big Defense Fund

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP)—Senators talked Sunday of expanding United States air power until this country can demand that Soviet Russia decide between real peace and war.

"That's the real issue before the Congress and the people," Sen. O'Mahoney (Dem., Wyo.) told a reporter as he asked quick passage by the Senate Monday of a record - size $61,103,856,030 military spending bill.

O'Mahoney headed the appropriations subcommittee which took secret testimony on the defense fund. He will be floor manager for the bill in the Senate.

Included in the huge money measure are many billions to more than double the striking power of the Air Force and the Navy's air arm.

O'Mahoney has promises of support from Senate Republican Leader Wherry of Nebraska and many other Senators including Lodge (Rep., Mass.), and Maybank (Dem., S. C.)

CARRIERS IMPERATIVE

"There is no use to speed up development of such things as atomic weapons and not at the same time develop an Air Force to carry them," Maybank said in a separate interview. "That would be like having a wagon without a horse."

As the bill comes to the Senate it carries an extra $5,000,000,000 for expanding "air power." That is in addition to the amounts asked by President Truman and voted by the House.

An unknown—at this time—part of the money is to be spent on new weapons described by President Truman as "fantastic" and by various Senators as "stupendous," "startling" or "amazing." At least two Senators in on the secrets, said the weapons are not atomic and are not guided missiles.

Sen. Lodge urged the Appropriations Committee at closed-door hearings to surpass Communist Russia's air power, saying the Soviets have between 16,000 and 20,000 first-rate planes.

RUSSIANS STILL AHEAD

"The Russians are ahead of us," Lodge testified in hearing records made public this weekend after censoring.

"We are in an arms race and we are losing," Lodge continued. "The sooner we win, the better it will be for democracy."

At the same session Senators Wherry, Bridges (Rep., N. H.), and Knowland (Rep., Calif.) backed Lodge's plea for emphasis on air power.

O'Mahoney said he wanted enough money in the bill "to give us a military establishment and expanded air power that will be able to support our government in an ultimatum to the Russian government: We are going to have peace or we are going to have war.

"I think it is folly to drift."

Secretary of the Air Force Finletter told Senators that the Air Force now has plans for expanding to 150 wings. He added that it probably would take 18 months to get delivery of new aircraft to reach the 95-wing initial goal.

OLD AND NEW MISS AMERICA

Yolande Betzbe Crowns Colleen Hutchins of Utah as her successor

New Miss America to Use Prize Cash in Drama Study

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 9—(U.P.)—The new Miss America broke her usual Sabbath routine of teaching Sunday School to begin a busy schedule as queen of American beauties

Wearing a home-made dress because she is too big to wear ready-made ones, Colleen Kay Hutchin told reporters Sunday that she will use the $5,000 scholarship she won Saturday night to study serious drama.

The tall Mormon beauty from Salt Lake City, Utah, won a talent victory Thursday night when she read a scene from Maxwell Anderson's play, "Elizabeth the Queen." Saturday night, she was crowned before 19,000 spectators after showing she could do all right in a bathing suit.

Miss America met reporters and photographers three hours late Sunday after a foul-up which had members of the press waiting impatiently while the new queen slept. When she finally appeared, she was wearing a rose of sharon dress which her mother had knitted.

Miss Hutchin, who is 5 feet, 10 inches tall and weighs 143 pounds, explained that she has a hard time finding her size. She said as a result she makes many of her own clothes.

The new queen set several records in winning. At 25, she is the oldest contestant to hold the title. She is also the tallest, except for Bess Myerson of New York, who won in 1945. She is the first blonde to win since 1938.

Miss Hutchin said she usually spends Sundays teaching Sunday School. Sunday she slept late after being up until the wee hours with all the pageant excitement. She said she was sorry she was late.

The new winner is a woman of many accomplishments. Besides giving interpretive dances, playing the piano and sewing, she serves as life guard during the Summers. "I've saved quite a few men," she blushingly admitted.

Mrs. Duncan — Mrs. Creel

SUBMITS TO EXAM

Mrs. America Denies She Used Falsies

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Sept. 9 (U.P.)—Honey-blonde Mrs. Penny Duncan was crowned Mrs. America Sunday and 15 minutes afterward retired backstage with a girl reporter to disprove a whispering campaign that she had been aided in her triumph by the use of falsies.

The 22-year-old entry from New York City proved her measurements, 36-24-36, were not false. Her music student-husband Maynard staunchly defended her.

"Believe me," he said, "any story about my wife ever wearing such silly things is just plain ridiculous."

Mrs. New York City defeated 31 contestants to become officially the year's most beautiful housewife. Second place was taken by Mrs. Marcella Marder, an Allentown blonde representing Pennsylvania, and third place went to Mrs. Peggy Creel, a brown-haired contender from St. Petersburg, who represented Central Florida.

The back stage rebellion over falsies occurred as the curtain closed over 17 contestants to be eliminated from the married beauties sweepstakes. Several irate hopefuls charged that at least eight of the girls smuggled amplifiers into their bathing suits for the walk down the runway.

Wood Notes Betterment In Loyalty

Warns Against Red 5th Column

A "great improvement" has been made in the loyalty situation "in all fields," Rep. John S. Wood, of Georgia said Sunday.

Rep. Wood, chairman of the House un-American activities committee, returned to his home at Canton late Sunday prior to leaving Tuesday for Los Angeles to direct a week of hearings on un-American influences in the movie industry.

He said his committee expects to hear "at least 50 witnesses" during the hearings, which begin Sept. 17. He disclosed that investigators have been at work in Los Angeles and Hollywood for several weeks.

Wood said the committee had been centering its investigation on Communist and un-American activities in the movie industry, defense production centers and in labor unions.

While reporting "great improvement" in the loyalty situation Wood warned that "the Communist party has a well-organized fifth column in this country" and urged all Americans "to be on the alert."

"Any citizen," he added, "who has reasonable suspicion of a Communist, or other disloyal movement and who is able to furnish names and substantial facts should promptly notify the FBI or send information direct to the committee in Washington."

Praise was given labor unions by the Congressman for "self-conducted house cleaning," and he said "we feel that in the federal government employment the worst elements have been removed, but we are maintaining a close watch."

In his warning Wood said "there is no doubt but that Communists have a well-formed plan to disrupt our defense preparations.

7 Are Killed As Cars Crash

BUTLER, Mo., Sept. 9—(AP)—A two-car collision three miles north of Butler Sunday claimed the lives of seven persons, including an entire family of five, and injured three others.

The highway patrol listed the dead as:

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wright; their three children, Mary Joan, 10, Pearl, 4, and Warren, 1, all of near Butler; the Wrights' nephew Charles Dietrich, 15, Kansas City, Kans., and Ernest Cordero, 16, Kansas City.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright were killed instantly, the others died later in a Butler hospital.

Cordero was in a car with his brother, Vincent, 18, Barney Caudillo, 21, and Darlene Moles, 18, who were injured. All are from Kansas City.

U. S. Launches New Drive On World Cartels

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

GENVEA, Sept. 9—The United States has launched a new attack on the problem of international cartels.

By a resolution to be introduced Monday in the economic and social council, the United States is asking for the establishment of a committee of seven nations to study and submit recommendations on methods to be adopted by international agreement for preventing the growth of restrictive business practices. Among the practices listed as objectionable are those which restrain international competition, limit access to markets or foster monopolistic control. Both public and private commercial enterprises are included within the scope of the proposed action.

Behind this new move is the conviction of the United States government that some kind of international action to expose, deter and ultimately to prevent the restrictive practices commonly associated with international cartel agreements is essential both in the immediate interest of United States business and, in the long run, in the interest of international commercial stability and economic development. Having failed to get approval of a charter of the international trade organization which contained provisions for international action in the cartel field the United States now believes some alternative mode of procedure must be initiated. This resolution is the first move.

British Get New Iran Ultimatum

Mossadegh Again Denied Faith Vote

By MICHAEL CLARK
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

TEHRAN, Monday, Sept. 10—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh was unable to extract a vote of confidence from the Majlis Sunday. For the second time in four days, opposition deputies managed by their absence to prevent a voting quorum.

At the end of a long address, Mossadegh announced that his government would nevertheless go ahead with plans to expel British technicians from Abadan if Britain did not agree within two weeks to resume oil negotiations on Iranian terms.

The Iranian ultimatum, or as the Premier said, aide memoire, would be conveyed to Britain through W. Averell Harriman, who had acted as mediator during the recent abortive British-Iranian oil negotiations. Hussein Fatemi, assistant to the Premier, said later that Nasrollah Entezam, Iranian ambassador to the United States, would hand the document to Harriman Tuesday.

Mossadegh gave the opposition deputies until then to step forward if they dared and state their objections or vote against the government in a special session of the Majlis. Opposition group deputies, believed to number about 15, are expected to meet privately Monday to determine what action if any should be taken in this respect.

Last Wednesday, the Senate with less than half its members present, gave Mossadegh a vote of confidence on the basis of the government's oil nationalization policy including the decision to expel British technicians if Britain failed to respond to the Iranian demand for further talks. There were no dissenting votes.

In his address Sunday, Mossadegh expressed concern over the foreign exchange crisis resulting from the absence of oil revenues.

"I believe that the British government, by its procrastination, wants to bring the Iranian nation and government to their knees and thus impose its own conditions on the country," the Premier declared. "This would be against international harmony and would even be damaging to Britain, because when the Iranian nation is forced to its knees there will be powers other than Britain and stronger than Britain to snatch Iran away."

Puerto Rico Raises Self By Bootstrap, Survey Finds

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP)—Puerto Rico's experiment in economic self-improvement was held up Sunday by the National Planning Association as an example of successful business-government co-operation.

Economist Stuart Chase termed it the "new dimension," in which political ideologies are ignored, and a guide for the U. S. "point four" program of aid to other under-developed nations.

Chase is author of an exhaustive report—titled "Operation Bootstrap"—undertaken for NPA on Puerto Rico's 10-year industrialization program.

The NPA is a private research organization, describing itself as independent, non-political and non-profit. Funds for its Puerto Rican project were provided by the Puerto Rican government.

The island's improvement program was started to overcome under-industrialization, under-employment, rock bottom standards of living and a zooming birth rate.

As an inducement to business, Puerto Rico put through a tax abatement plan to remain in effect until 1960. It also provided such services to private enterprise as recruiting and testing workers, planning transportation, and building housing, schools and hospitals for workers.

By April, 1951, 106 new plants had been established. Additional plants are in the negotiation stage which could add some $50,000,000 of industrial investment to Puerto Rico's economy.

In making public the report, Chase lauds Puerto Rico's "gallant experiment." His report concludes:

"Puerto Rico has shown that it is possible for government men and businessmen to enter a new dimension, where ideologies are ignored, and each respects the function of the other."

GI Armor Developed; Test in Korea Planned

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP)—The foot soldier of tomorrow may go into battle wearing armor like a knight of the middle ages.

But instead of the heavy metal in which the knight of old clanked around, the American infantryman would be garbed in 20th century plastics, light in weight but "capable of stopping a .45-calibre bullet at point-blank range."

The Army Quartermaster Corps disclosed Sunday that it has developed sesveral types of armored clothing and plans to test it under battle conditions in Korea in the near future.

Litter bearers, many of whom have become casualties while evacuating wounded from the battlefield, will be the first to wear the new protective helmets and jackets. At present, the bearers work without protection of any kind.

WILL MAKE TESTS

Field tests will be conducted later for armored seats, to be used in Army liaison airplanes, and for eye armor to be used by troops engaged in mine clearing.

Studies by the Army medical service have shown that most battle wounds are caused by shell fragments and small arms fire which have lost most of their "punch."

The Army hopes such missiles will bounce more or less harmlessly off a soldier wearing the new lightweight armor. Officers said, however, that the armor will give little protection against high velocity missiles such as rifle or machine gun fire.

TWO JACKET TYPES

Two types of armored jacket, weighing anywhere from five to 15 pounds, have been developed in several years of research.

One is a rigid type known as the Doron (D) jacket. This is made of cotton into which stiff panels of glass fibre and plastic, about one-eighth of an inch thick, are fitted.

The other, more flexible type is made of several layers of nylon fabric pressed together. The heaviest of these models covers the entire body trunk as well as the shoulders and upper arms.

One big question is how much this armored clothing would interfere with a soldier's ability to move fast. Officers said its greatest value may be for troops not on "sustained mobile missions"—in other words for vehicle operators, photographers, snipers, mine clearing troops, medical personnel and many others.

S. Korean Media Under Censorship

PUSAN, Korea, Sept.9—(AP)—All South Korean news media were placed under strict military censorship Sunday.

Gen. Lee Sun Keun, South Korean army information chief, issued a directive which he said was an effort to tighten censorship on Korean military affairs.

The directive states that all news reports regarding military affairs, whether official announcements or otherwise, must be censored before publication. It covers reports on the now - suspended Korean truce talks at Kaesong.

Not Peace, But Not Yet a Sword!

Solemn agreements between nations do not bring peace, but the Japanese treaty, signed by 48 nations and Japan, comes nearest yet to guaranteeing peace — save for one important, gloomy fact. The Soviets did not sign it.

Therefore, Soviet Russia is still at war with Japan. True, she did not move into that bitter contest until the atomic bomb was dropped. Then she hurried in to be able to argue for a place in the occupation and in the treaty decisions and ever since she has sought to prevent peace.

So she is not a party to the treaty. But little else has changed.

All the world knew she would not sign. The choice before her is as before—to go to war or not to go to war.

Her objectives remain the same. She must have Germany and the Ruhr to dominate Europe. She cannot dictate to all of Asia unless she occupies and controls Japan. That was true before she walked out at San Francisco, where in 1945 she pledged herself to the United Nations and to world peace in agreements broken cynically and ruthlessly in the months that followed. Russia then revealed that she will agree only if the agreement is everything she demands and if the benefits are all hers.

So the fact she walked out has changed little. Her propaganda will continue. She will attempt to picture the United States as backing Japan in a military recovery so that the Japanese can resume an imperialistic campaign against the countries and peoples of Asia.

Russia's propaganda will not be as easily accepted as before. There were Asiatic peoples at the treaty. They spoke out. There were Arab peoples there. They signed. The delegate from Ceylon left words in the air which will be heard again and again when he said of the Russian treaty proposals that Russia advocated freedoms for the Japanese which the Russian peoples would like to have for themselves.

India was not even present and, in a sense, her absence was more serious than Russia's walk-out.

India is the key to Asia. Her prime minister, Nehru, has followed an inconsistent and puzzling line since he first stood boldly against Russian aggression in Korea. He chose to remain away from San Francisco rather than be present and debate. This fact, plus the Russian withdrawal, makes the treaty no more than a step toward attaining a genuine and lasting peace.

The gulf remains. The issues are as they were. But there were some changes.

For one thing, the people of the United States saw through the printed word and the TV screens and heard by radio the great ability of their very able Secretary of State, Dean Acheson. At all times he was the master of parliamentary procedures. He kept the Russians off balance and on the defensive.

All the followers of the "McCarthyism" line saw that here was a man able and intelligent to a degree that he incurred the hatred of the Communist forces who came to wreck the peace treaty but who were balked by the shrewd American Secretary of State. America saw that Dean Acheson is not an appeaser as McCarthy's lies have it.

As Mr. Acheson said, this is a treaty which should guarantee peace. There is nothing hidden in it. There are no reservations, secret or implied. There are no private agreements.

It allows the Japanese people to follow new leadership and to grow and to join the free nations of the world in the democratic concept of free peoples.

The treaty reflects the integrity of John Foster Dulles, Republican leader whose appointment by the President testified to the Administration's good faith, as well as of the Secretary of State and all others who had a hand in its creation.

It is a good, humane, civilized treaty.

The Japanese praised it. They apologized for the spirit of the nation which attacked at Pearl Harbor while their envoys talked peace. They pledged themselves to peace, democracy and good will.

So we turn and there is the Soviet nation—bent on world conquest and the destruction of individual freedom and will. There she sits—with sole determination of the future. She can go to war, or she can have peace. The odds are she will take neither for the moment. She will prepare for war, the while she seeks to confuse, divide and weaken.

The free nations must continue their united front. They must grow stronger so that when the Soviets again face the issue, they will be forced to decide against war.

We must conquer, finally, with ideas and by demonstrating that our own ideas and ideals are superior. But they must have the strength of our protecting arm while the battle of nerves and ideology goes on.

Prayer as School Begins

School begins today for most of the children of our community and state. It begins, too, for the parents. For them there is the business of getting clothing ready, of arranging a schedule which will fit into the arrival of the school bus or the riding pool car. There are lunches to prepare, faces and hands to scrub, small change to have on hand for bus fares in the cities where there are no friendly yellow school buses.

It is wonderful to be with and to see happy, excited children, as it is tragic to see miserable ones. One understands better the meaning of the Nazarene's remark, "Suffer little children to come unto me for of such is the kingdom of Heaven," when one is with children at play or about the home.

Knowledge is a great tool and weapon, and we properly should concern ourselves with our schools and try to make of them agencies in which interested, well-paid, trained teachers go happily about their vital job of training the citizenship of the future.

School is a time, too, for reflecting that after all the people who drive automobiles are not nearly as important as they seem to think they are, nor is there any reason for them to be in such a hurry they annually kill and maim thousands of children over the nation. We might seriously think on more severe laws, and mandatory loss of a driver's license for a considerable period of time, for each speeding conviction.

So, we prepare to send our children off to school with a prayer in our hearts that somehow the world may avoid war and that they may bring to their adult years their ideals and their knowledge to make of it a better world for the generations to come.

Milk Diet

The Editors: A certain Mr. G. H. Heath-Gracie from Birmingham, England, and a choirmaster of Derby Cathedral, is quoted in a news story as follows:

"Cow's milk pumped into our youth at an ever-increasing rate may possibly have an effect not fully discernible by ordinary logic of the analytic chemist and dietitian. Anyway I suggest that our boys have lost much of their punch."

Perhaps so, and we in America do not care for what happens to his British boys; but when the same gentleman further remarks "that milk drinking prolongs the period of infancy," and then cited the U. S. A. as an example by adding: "One finds there (in the U. S. A.) an abnormally high proportion of adults who are still in some ways adolescents," then it is time to inform Mr. Heath-Gracie that we in America are not what he thinks, but on the contrary are a nation of healthy, smart, strong, stable and good people; much more so than his countrymen; and that our boys drink milk and grow up sane, vigorous and intelligent; and that our 'adult-adolescents' are bigger and better men and women than his smartest adults in his country.

Mr. Heath-Gracie must have drunk jackass' milk for making such remarks.

About Jim Lawson

I feel sure that Mr. Campbell doesn't know Jim's side of the story or he would never have printed such a biased view. This is Jim's side as I understand it:

Jim Lawson believes in a higher loyalty than the loyalty to his country, namely the loyalty to God as He is interpreted through Jesus Christ. Jesus said, "Love your enemies." "Do good to them that persecute you and despitefully use you." "Thou shalt not kill." "Overcome evil with good."

Jim and over 14,000 other Americans love their country and what it stands for enough to go to any length of personal sacrifice to keep her out of war.

Jim could have registered for the draft as a conscientious objector to war and he would not have been called. But he chose the harder way of fighting for his country and was sentenced to three years in prison.

The Methodist youth re-elected Jim Lawson, not because they agree with the stand he took, but because they admire his courage to stand up for his personal conviction.

Would Mr. Campbell go so far to witness for Christ?

Conant Sees No Atomic War Danger

WASHINGTON—Coming from a man of his eminence and scientific knowledge, the country can find some reassurance in the statement the other day by Dr. James Bryant Conant, president of Harvard University, that he sees no danger of the world being convulsed by an atomic war.

After gazing into his crystal ball, Dr. Conant, in a speech before the American Chemical Society in New York, said in effect that the Russians will dare not plunge the world into an atomic war so long as the possibility exists their own industrial power being destroyed by counter atomic attacks.

The Harvard president was obviously referring to the Soviet Union, though he did not mention it by name, when he made this prediction: The industrialized nations of the world will avoid "deindustrializing each other with atomic bombs only by the narrowest of margins," because "time and again when one side or the other was about to take the plunge . . . the expert military advisers could not guarantee ultimate success."

Strong Deterrent In other words, as he sees it, the power of destruction a nation such as ours has, when armed with atomic weapons, is so great that it may be relied on as a successful deterrent against an aggressor nation launching another world war that might involve us.

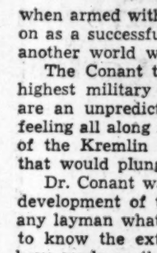

The Conant thesis is one that is known to hold favor in the highest military circles of the government. While the Russians are an unpredictable lot and have done many crazy things, the feeling all along in these circles has been that the military advisers of the Kremlin would never allow them to take the final step that would plunge the Soviet Union into an atomic war with us.

Dr. Conant was one of the group of scientists that aided in the development of the atom bomb. Hence he knows far more than any layman what its war potential is. Moreover, he is in position to know the extent of our present stockpile, what progress we have made on the mightier hydrogen bomb, and how far we have gone in the development of other atomic weapons.

Experienced Hand Even if the Russians were as far along the road of progress in atomic developments as we are—and they are by no means near us—there would still be little cause for concern—as the eminent Harvard scientist sees it. No nation headed by men in their right minds deliberately invites self-destruction. What else may be said of old Joe Stalin, no one has ever accused him of not knowing what he was doing. He has ruled Russian with an iron hand too long for that sort of accusation to apply.

Looking further into his crystal ball, Dr. Conant made another interesting prediction. He foresaw where the present rearmament program of the democratic nations will result in a "great settlement" of the issues now disturbing world peace. Here is the way he puts it:

"To my mind the prospects today are far more hopeful than they were two years ago. The peoples of the free world have been awakened from their dreams of an easy peace; they have faced up to the realities of the mid-twentieth century. Before long they will be armed and ready. When that day comes, one can begin to talk about a real settlement of the international situation."

HAROLD MARTIN

On Top of Old Oglethorpe

TATE MOUNTAIN—"C'mon," he said. "Putcha book down an' les do somep'n." Ordinarily, when a small boy tells me to put my book down and do something with him I am very quick, mentally. I can think up many things for him to do, usually in company with other small boys. Then I go placidly back to my book. But this time he had me. We were alone—batching it, so to speak, for a whole week end together.

"Play with him," his mama had said when she left, carrying the other youngun's. "He's crazy about you, but he hardly knows you. You're gone so much you're a stranger."

I thought about this. I thought about what we could do that would place little strain upon an aging fat man's softening muscles.

"O. K.", I said. "We'll go swimming."

"O. K.", he said. "We'll go swimming and you can dive offa the high tower."

"On second thought," I said hastily, "let's don't go swimming." Some years ago his older brother had talked me into diving off the high tower. It left me with a stiff neck for a month. "Let's take a hike."

His Boots "Whoopee," he said. "Lemme get my boots." He got his boots. They were boots he had inherited from his bigger brother. They were about three sizes too big for him.

For the first half mile it was fine. He went through the woods like a spikehorn buck. It was good to walk in the woods. Another mile and I began to tire, but when we sat down to rest at an old cabin that had once been a firewatcher's cabin, he didn't rest. He climbed around up in the rafters. We went on.

"Look," I said. "Not far ahead is the place where the Appalachian trail starts. There's a monument there on top of a big mountain, and from the top of the mountain you can see for miles and miles and miles. I was there when they dedicated it a long time ago. It's a beautiful spot. We can lie on the green grass and watch the clouds march by. It's like being on top of the world."

We walked on, but he was tiring now. His too-big boots were dragging at his feet. He took his shirt off and began to trail it behind him. I'd look back and he'd be far behind, resting. I kept urging him to come on. I was getting weary, too. I'd forgotten how far five miles could be. But far away on the top of Oglethorpe we could see the slim pencil of the tower dark against the sky. Finally we got there.

Disappointing It was a disappointing spot. The cleared place around the monument was grown up in weeds and briars. The roof of the little shelter, put there for campers staying overnight, was falling in.

On one side of the monument was a sculptured head of Oglethorpe in high relief. Some moron had shot Oglethorpe's nose off with a pistol. On the other side was a carved map of Georgia. Somebody had defaced it with a blast from a shotgun.

We sat for a moment on the base of the monument. The sun beat down and there was not a cloud in the sky. There was no inspiring panorama of hills to see, for the brush had crowded so close to the once-cleared hilltop that the view was cut off.

Long Drag It was a long drag back. We'd walk half an hour and rest five minutes. Sometimes at the end of the rest halt, I'd have to lift him from the ground.

When we finally did drag in, it was nearly night. He was hardly able to drag along. I was in that state of swimmy-headed exhaustion in which the breath comes fast and shallow and the eyes stare blankly. We had walked nearly 12 miles.

We went to bed early that night. He slept like a fed puppy. I lay there, too tired to sleep, feeling myself becoming petrified, like an old tree.

Finally I dropped off. It seemed like only five minutes when I was awakened by the violent springing of the bed. He was standing up on it, jumping into the air like a frog and coming down on his bottom. I gazed blearily out the window. It was only a little past sunrise. The sun had not yet burned the morning mist out of the valley.

He leaped into the air and bounced on the bed again, causing every bone in me to ache. He was as alive and limber as a chipmunk.

After All These Long Years

Cats come back and sometimes so do alligators. Mr. Ezell S. Goolsby who lives on Cedar Creek in Jasper County lost a six-inch alligator about 40 years ago when a freshet washed the miniature amphibian away. Now he thinks he's found his lost pet. A neighbor who had seen strange tracks along the creek set a trap for critter that made 'em—"be he reptile, fish, crocodile or hippopotamus." The Monticello News reports. When the man pulled his baited basket from the water, in it was an alligator six feet long and a hundred pounds heavy. Acting on the theory that the catch is his little seagoing lizard grown up, Mr. Goolsby took him home, penned him up in the hog lot and has been administering careful attention against the day when he may need a sturdy traveling bag.

It must have been "Old Home Week" in Jasper, for in the same county, the weekly paper's Winfred correspondent, Mrs. John A. Stone, reports, "The well at the old T. M. Payne home was cleaned out and a compact containing powder and a 50-cent piece was found in the well, where it had been dropped more than 25 years ago by Mrs. Glenn Simpson who, as Miss Sally Minter, was then visiting Mrs. Payne. The compact and its contents were well preserved."

The powder still may have been good, but one thing is sure, the 50-cent piece is not worth nearly as much today as it was 25 years ago when Sally Minter dropped it in the well.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

What Determined the Choice?

NEW YORK—So that you may better appraise the conduct of Time, Life and Fortune and of Henry Chinaboy Luce, their proprietor, I present information and comment on the selection of Margaret Bourke-White to make photographs of airplanes of the Strategic Air Command which were published in Life. I have already presented an incomplete but abundant statement of this woman's connections with Communist fronts, as reported to Congress by the House Committee on Un-American Activities. There is no flat statement that she ever was a member of the Communist Party and the reason for her association with Communist fronts is left unexplained. Miss Bourke-White could be truly loyal to the United States and still be regarded as a poor security risk in this particular case if her emotional sympathies and her judgment were untrustworthy. Repeatedly the point has been made in debates on the reliability of individuals that a person who associates with Communists might disclose information inadvertently.

If there were surplus photographs which Life did not publish, who has custody of them? Would that person be equally tolerant of Communist fronts? How many prints were made of such shots and are they all accounted for and are they now in reliable hands? Could they have been left unguarded long enough to permit some untrustworthy person to photograph them in an art room or to make an expert eye appraisal of details of great American aircraft?

The value of this magazine feature to the American lay public, who would see it in barber shops and dentists' anterooms, may not have been sufficient to justify the Air Force in permitting anyone outside the most trustworthy limited group within the corps to get that close to the B-47 and the B-36, and to reveal the mechanics of the refueling device shown so plainly in the Life layouts.

In 1936, Fred S. Ferguson, the chief executive of Acme News-Pictures and of the Newspaper Enterprise Association, had an experience with Miss Bourke-White which he recalled today under prompting. Mr. Ferguson had hired her under an agreement which he believed to be exclusive. Her career of association with organizations which the House committee designated "fronts" was already under way, but Mr. Ferguson was not conscious of this fact and hired her as he would have hired any other photographer to do certain jobs. She has a reputation as a good photographer and this was why he wanted her exclusively.

Mr. Ferguson believed this indicated a breach of contract and asked her to explain.

"She said, 'Oh, the poor things, they haven't got any money, so when they asked me to make some pictures I made them for them,'" he recalled. "These were ordinary portrait heads. Anybody could make them but they got her to do them."

I asked Mr. Ferguson whether Miss Bourke White's work was so good that this particular assignment by Life justified her selection above all others.

He said Miss Bourke-White had a practice of shooting hundreds of shots of a given object or situation whereas most others would be content with two or three. This fact led back, of course, to the question of what became of the unpublished shots.

But the tag-line of this discussion must be: Why did the Communist Party in 1936 choose Margaret Bourke-White out of thousands of photographers in the United States to make portraits of its candidates for President and Vice President, and why did she feel so kindly toward "the poor things" who were so hard up for campaign money?

Not Peace, But Not Yet a Sword!

Solemn agreements between nations do not bring peace, but the Japanese treaty, signed by 48 nations and Japan, comes nearest yet to guaranteeing peace — save for one important, gloomy fact. The Soviets did not sign it.

Therefore, Soviet Russia is still at war with Japan. True, she did not move into that bitter contest until the atomic bomb was dropped. Then she hurried in to be able to argue for a place in the occupation and in the treaty decisions and ever since she has sought to prevent peace.

WASHINGTON—Coming from a man of his eminence and scientific knowledge, the country can find some reassurance in the statement the other day by Dr. James Bryant Conant, president of Harvard University, that he sees no danger of the world being convulsed by an atomic war.

After gazing into his crystal ball, Dr. Conant, in a speech before the American Chemical Society in New York, said in effect that the Russians will dare not plunge the world into an atomic war so long as the possibility exists their own industrial power being destroyed by counter atomic attacks.

The Harvard president was obviously referring to the Soviet Union, though he did not mention it by name, when he made this prediction: The industrialized nations of the world will avoid "deindustrializing each other with atomic bombs only by the narrowest of margins," because "time and again when one side or the other was about to take the plunge . . . the expert military advisers could not guarantee ultimate success."

Strong Deterrent In other words, as he sees it, the power of destruction a nation such as ours has, when armed with atomic weapons, is so great that it may be relied on as a successful deterrent against an aggressor nation launching another world war that might involve us.

The Conant thesis is one that is known to hold favor in the highest military circles of the government. While the Russians are an unpredictable lot and have done many crazy things, the feeling all along in these circles has been that the military advisers of the Kremlin would never allow them to take the final step that would plunge the Soviet Union into an atomic war with us.

Dr. Conant was one of the group of scientists that aided in the development of the atom bomb. Hence he knows far more than any layman what its war potential is. Moreover, he is in position to know the extent of our present stockpile, what progress we have made on the mightier hydrogen bomb, and how far we have gone in the development of other atomic weapons.

Experienced Hand Even if the Russians were as far along the road of progress in atomic developments as we are—and they are by no means near us—there would still be little cause for concern—as the eminent Harvard scientist sees it. No nation headed by men in their right minds deliberately invites self-destruction. What else may be said of old Joe Stalin, no one has ever accused him of not knowing what he was doing. He has ruled Russian with an iron hand too long for that sort of accusation to apply.

Looking further into his crystal ball, Dr. Conant made another interesting prediction. He foresaw where the present rearmament program of the democratic nations will result in a "great settlement" of the issues now disturbing world peace. Here is the way he puts it:

"To my mind the prospects today are far more hopeful than they were two years ago. The peoples of the free world have been awakened from their dreams of an easy peace; they have faced up to the realities of the mid-twentieth century. Before long they will be armed and ready. When that day comes, one can begin to talk about a real settlement of the international situation."

HAROLD MARTIN

On Top of Old Oglethorpe

TATE MOUNTAIN—"C'mon," he said. "Putcha book down an' les do somep'n." Ordinarily, when a small boy tells me to put my book down and do something with him I am very quick, mentally. I can think up many things for him to do, usually in company with other small boys. Then I go placidly back to my book. But this time he had me. We were alone—batching it, so to speak, for a whole week end together.

"Play with him," his mama had said when she left, carrying the other youngun's. "He's crazy about you, but he hardly knows you. You're gone so much you're a stranger."

I thought about this. I thought about what we could do that would place little strain upon an aging fat man's softening muscles.

"O. K.", I said. "We'll go swimming."

"O. K.", he said. "We'll go swimming and you can dive offa the high tower."

"On second thought," I said hastily, "let's don't go swimming." Some years ago his older brother had talked me into diving off the high tower. It left me with a stiff neck for a month. "Let's take a hike."

His Boots "Whoopee," he said. "Lemme get my boots." He got his boots. They were boots he had inherited from his bigger brother. They were about three sizes too big for him.

For the first half mile it was fine. He went through the woods like a spikehorn buck. It was good to walk in the woods. Another mile and I began to tire, but when we sat down to rest at an old cabin that had once been a firewatcher's cabin, he didn't rest. He climbed around up in the rafters. We went on.

"Look," I said. "Not far ahead is the place where the Appalachian trail starts. There's a monument there on top of a big mountain, and from the top of the mountain you can see for miles and miles and miles. I was there when they dedicated it a long time ago. It's a beautiful spot. We can lie on the green grass and watch the clouds march by. It's like being on top of the world."

We walked on, but he was tiring now. His too-big boots were dragging at his feet. He took his shirt off and began to trail it behind him. I'd look back and he'd be far behind, resting. I kept urging him to come on. I was getting weary, too. I'd forgotten how far five miles could be. But far away on the top of Oglethorpe we could see the slim pencil of the tower dark against the sky. Finally we got there.

Disappointing It was a disappointing spot. The cleared place around the monument was grown up in weeds and briars. The roof of the little shelter, put there for campers staying overnight, was falling in.

On one side of the monument was a sculptured head of Oglethorpe in high relief. Some moron had shot Oglethorpe's nose off with a pistol. On the other side was a carved map of Georgia. Somebody had defaced it with a blast from a shotgun.

We sat for a moment on the base of the monument. The sun beat down and there was not a cloud in the sky. There was no inspiring panorama of hills to see, for the brush had crowded so close to the once-cleared hilltop that the view was cut off.

Long Drag It was a long drag back. We'd walk half an hour and rest five minutes. Sometimes at the end of the rest halt, I'd have to lift him from the ground.

When we finally did drag in, it was nearly night. He was hardly able to drag along. I was in that state of swimmy-headed exhaustion in which the breath comes fast and shallow and the eyes stare blankly. We had walked nearly 12 miles.

We went to bed early that night. He slept like a fed puppy. I lay there, too tired to sleep, feeling myself becoming petrified, like an old tree.

Finally I dropped off. It seemed like only five minutes when I was awakened by the violent springing of the bed. He was standing up on it, jumping into the air like a frog and coming down on his bottom. I gazed blearily out the window. It was only a little past sunrise. The sun had not yet burned the morning mist out of the valley.

He leaped into the air and bounced on the bed again, causing every bone in me to ache. He was as alive and limber as a chipmunk.

After All These Long Years

Cats come back and sometimes so do alligators. Mr. Ezell S. Goolsby who lives on Cedar Creek in Jasper County lost a six-inch alligator about 40 years ago when a freshet washed the miniature amphibian away. Now he thinks he's found his lost pet. A neighbor who had seen strange tracks along the creek set a trap for critter that made 'em—"be he reptile, fish, crocodile or hippopotamus." The Monticello News reports. When the man pulled his baited basket from the water, in it was an alligator six feet long and a hundred pounds heavy. Acting on the theory that the catch is his little seagoing lizard grown up, Mr. Goolsby took him home, penned him up in the hog lot and has been administering careful attention against the day when he may need a sturdy traveling bag. It must have been "Old Home Week" in Jasper, for in the same county, the weekly paper's Winfred correspondent, Mrs. John A. Stone, reports, "The well at the old T. M. Payne home was cleaned out and a compact containing powder and a 50-cent piece was found in the well, where it had been dropped more than 25 years ago by Mrs. Glenn Simpson who, as Miss Sally Minter, was then visiting Mrs. Payne. The compact and its contents were well preserved."

The powder still may have been good, but one thing is sure, the 50-cent piece is not worth nearly as much today as it was 25 years ago when Sally Minter dropped it in the well.

HINT TO HIGHWAY DEPT.: With visitors from Florida and South Georgia coming through this evening in the U. S. Highway 41 Association parade, couldn't you all cut the weeds in the center strip of 41-E from the Northside Drive junction to Marietta? Right now the view down the middle is pretty ragged. One swath with a sharp sickle blade would do the trick.

"Though not one of us, he lived amongst us for 75 years
And died a true and faithful citizen."

WHAT'S WRONG with this paragraph from "briefed," the magazine for "the busy executive"?

"OPS loopholes are steadily being discovered/utilized. Example: Huron, S. D., butcher found curbs made no mention of catalo (cross between steer and buffalo cow). Quite legally he's selling catalo steaks at whatever traffic will bear.—Barron's, p. 8, July 2."

WESTBROOK PEGLER

What Determined the Choice?

NEW YORK—So that you may better appraise the conduct of Time, Life and Fortune and of Henry Chinaboy Luce, their proprietor, I present information and comment on the selection of Margaret Bourke-White to make photographs of airplanes of the Strategic Air Command which were published in Life. I have already presented an incomplete but abundant statement of this woman's connections with Communist fronts, as reported to Congress by the House Committee on Un-American Activities. There is no flat statement that she ever was a member of the Communist Party and the reason for her association with Communist fronts is left unexplained. Miss Bourke-White could be truly loyal to the United States and still be regarded as a poor security risk in this particular case if her emotional sympathies and her judgment were untrustworthy. Repeatedly the point has been made in debates on the reliability of individuals that a person who associates with Communists might disclose information inadvertently.

If there were surplus photographs which Life did not publish, who has custody of them? Would that person be equally tolerant of Communist fronts? How many prints were made of such shots and are they all accounted for and are they now in reliable hands? Could they have been left unguarded long enough to permit some untrustworthy person to photograph them in an art room or to make an expert eye appraisal of details of great American aircraft?

The value of this magazine feature to the American lay public, who would see it in barber shops and dentists' anterooms, may not have been sufficient to justify the Air Force in permitting anyone outside the most trustworthy limited group within the corps to get that close to the B-47 and the B-36, and to reveal the mechanics of the refueling device shown so plainly in the Life layouts.

In 1936, Fred S. Ferguson, the chief executive of Acme News-Pictures and of the Newspaper Enterprise Association, had an experience with Miss Bourke-White which he recalled today under prompting. Mr. Ferguson had hired her under an agreement which he believed to be exclusive. Her career of association with organizations which the House committee designated "fronts" was already under way, but Mr. Ferguson was not conscious of this fact and hired her as he would have hired any other photographer to do certain jobs. She has a reputation as a good photographer and this was why he wanted her exclusively.

During the presidential campaign that year, Mr. Ferguson recalled, he received about a hundred letters from clients of his picture service all referring to photographs of Earl Browder and James W. Ford, a Negro, the Communist candidates for President and Vice-President. These pictures bore the credit line, "Photograph by Margaret Bourke-White."

Mr. Ferguson believed this indicated a breach of contract and asked her to explain.

"She said, 'Oh, the poor things, they haven't got any money, so when they asked me to make some pictures I made them for them,'" he recalled. "These were ordinary portrait heads. Anybody could make them but they got her to do them."

I asked Mr. Ferguson whether Miss Bourke White's work was so good that this particular assignment by Life justified her selection above all others.

He said Miss Bourke-White had a practice of shooting hundreds of shots of a given object or situation whereas most others would be content with two or three. This fact led back, of course, to the question of what became of the unpublished shots.

But the tag-line of this discussion must be: Why did the Communist Party in 1936 choose Margaret Bourke-White out of thousands of photographers in the United States to make portraits of its candidates for President and Vice President, and why did she feel so kindly toward "the poor things" who were so hard up for campaign money?

JOHN MARVIN RAST

"Every spirit that confesseth not Jesus is not of God: and this is the spirit of the anti-Christ." (I John 4:3).

A young man professed faith in Christ the Savior and was quite active in the work of the church.

During the summer he worked in a lumber camp. A friend asked him about his experiences there, inquiring especially if he found it difficult to keep his religion on a high level.

"Oh, it was easy," he replied; "they didn't find out I was a Christian."

In the Master's program there is no place for secret discipleship. His call is to those who will gladly give up all, openly, to follow Him.

GRACIOUS REDEEMER, HAVE MERCY upon us that so timidly we ally ourselves with Thee. Impart to us Thy courage of conviction, Thy will to persevere whatever the cost.

BOB CONSIDINE

Tuna Tournament Is Rugged Go

NEW YORK—One of the biggest, roughest, costliest and least-watched international sports events will take place later this month in a stretch of turbulent water about the size of two city blocks—a stretch named Soldier's Rip, near Wedgeport, Nova Scotia. It is the eighth annual Tuna Cup match, contested this year by teams from the U. S., Cuba, Argentina, Peru, Chile, Britain and the Scandinavian countries. At stake is the Alton B. Sharp Trophy, roughly equal in amateur tuna fishing circles to the Holy Grail. The rugged Cuban team late last week took a short cut from Havana to Nova Scotia through a secret pass named the 21 Restaurant, on 52nd Street, and their hosts in New York—Irving Feist and Adam Gimbel, two well-known tuna tormentors—invited me to listen in.

With the resignation of nuclear physicists attempting to explain atomic energy to Dagmar, the crack Cuban fishermen set about their task:

It's hard to pick a winner in advance, said Cuco Collado, one of the strong men of the team, because the monstrous mackerel (a tuna is a mackerel with pituitary trouble) are ornery. They'll pull your arms out by the sockets, or drop to the bottom and lay there like a boiler full of BB shot. They weigh as much as 700 pounds.

A competitor who hooks a tuna in this competition is on his own from there in. A one-hour battle is considered very short, and a seven-hour battle not unusual. He must not be touched by another member of the team, and can seek aid only when the denizen is brought to the side of the boat.

A team is penalized if the fish snaps a pole, snips a line (39 thread), or is wounded by other fish or by the propeller of the boat. On the credit side, teams are given points for the numerical size of each day's catch, total weight, and day's largest victim.

The competition begins each morning at 7 and no lines may be baited (with herring, by the way) after 4 p. m. But is a strike is made at, say 3:59 p. m., the fellow must stick with it—for better or worse. There is one case (not in this particular competition) where 27 hours were needed to land a tuna.

The Cuban team, captained by Casimiro Tellaeche, and made up, in addition to Cuco, of Paco Bonet, Bebo Kuhly, Pepin Aizcorbe and Jose Macia, has been training off Havana on marlin and outboard motorboats. Yes, outboard motorboats.

"It is simple," said Cuco, simply. "We hook a seven-horsepower outboard, let out half the thread, then pull it back to us, for the muscles." When the team reaches Soldier's Rip, he hastily explained, it will practice only on tuna.

Cuco then attempted to explain why Soldier's Rip is populated almost exclusively with tuna, but our eyes began to water. Sensing our helpless bewilderment, he dropped the conversation to a level nearer my own.

"There's only been one breath of scandal in this competition," he said. "A couple of years ago the British team sold their catch instead of giving it to the boatmen. For dollars."

Mr. Gimbel looked at his watch and suggested that the Yankee ball game, which the Cubans wanted to see, was about to start. And Mr. Feist, an old hand at the sport, braced himself and pulled in a 700-pound check, a record for the day.

JOSEPH ALSOP

Korea, Manchuria or Maybe Siberia?

WASHINGTON—Without exception, the American leaders still believe that the Soviet leaders do not want a general war, and they are "holding that thought," as the pep lecturers used to say. None the less, it is also true that the fever chart is currently rising continuously and perceptibly, because of the increasing signs that the enemy in Korea means to end the Kaesong truce talks with another all-out offensive.

The signs are not conclusive. The offensive, if it comes, may perhaps be limited in scope. But on the whole, if the Chinese and North Koreans resume fighting in deadly earnest, it is expected to be a vastly more serious matter than the mere dragging continuation of the war on the old, pre-Kaesong basis. At the very least, there will be many heavy pressures on the side of widening the Korean fighting into a full-scale Far Eastern war.

For one thing, if the hopes raised by the Malik proposal and the Kaesong talks prove to be false, American public opinion is likely to be so outraged that the whole precarious concept of limited war will come apart at the political seams. Yet the main danger is undoubtedly in the air, and it is a greater danger than most people think.

If the air danger materializes, it will do so in two stages, as it were. The first will be simple enough. The 400 to 500 Soviet jet fighters, and the 500 to 700 older model Russian fighter bombers and medium bombers now in Manchuria will be thrown into the battle at the beginning of the enemy offensive. This Chinese and North Korean force (which is quite probably piloted largely by Eastern European "volunteers") may well achieve substantial initial successes, since our troops in Korea have no experience of enemy air action. In any case, the issue of counter-attacking the enemy air bases in Manchuria will at once be squarely posed.

Thus the second stage of the danger will open. Last December, when Prime Minister Attlee flew to Washington to plead with the President to limit the Korean War, his greatest fear was that Gen. Douglas MacArthur would be allowed to attack the Manchurian air bases. At that time the British participants in the White House talks claimed to have "hard intelligence" that American air attacks on Manchurian targets would bring the Soviet Air Force in Siberia into the fighting.

Since that close-to-hysterical White House meeting last December, a lot of water has gone over the dam. For one thing, the American Chiefs of Staff have thrashed out with their British and French opposite numbers the hypothetical question, "What to do if enemy air enters the Korean fighting in heavy force?" The agreed answer, decided upon, to be sure, some time before the Kaesong truce talks, was that counter-attacks beyond the Manchurian border would then become unavoidable. Thus it is now official policy, if need arises, to take the action that British "hard intelligence" said would bring the Russians into the war.

Perhaps knowledge of the Anglo-Franco-American agreement may also have altered the Soviet intentions reported by Prime Minister Attlee last December. High-level Pentagon opinion at the moment is that even after all-out air fighting begins, the Soviets will not send in their own Siberian air power unless the Chinese and North Korean air units sustain a severe defeat.

Finally, if the Soviet air power in Siberia is thrown into the fight, it will be an incalculably serious business in the simplest, most local military sense.

In short, the Soviet air power in the Far East today is greater than our own. In the light of all these facts, the risks of a serious renewal of the Korean War ought to be plain to anyone. Yet perhaps the greatest danger is that these risks may not be plain to the Kremlin.

The Soviet rulers may be pressed by the Chinese, or tempted by the hope of a knockout blow, or ready to gamble on the obvious possibility that a full-scale Far Eastern war will isolate America from the other Western allies.

'Funny Papers' Even Before the Comics

There's an old saying that you don't have to be crazy to be a newspaper man, but it helps. Looking back at some of the names of Atlanta papers in the early days certainly proves the wheeze to be correct. "The Luminary" was founded in 1846. The sheriff wasn't an editor, but he took over in '47. "The Miscellany" was moved to Atlanta from Madison in 1847. Two years later it suspended publication "because of smallpox breaking out in the city." Whether it was responsible for the epidemic or not, the record doesn't say. "The Whig Reveille" didn't arouse the people so it blew up in four months. "The Knight of Jericho" commenced publication in 1855. The walls came tumbling down a year later. "The Discipline" was something the people weren't ready for. "The Olive Branch" waved briefly in 1857. "The Locomotive" wrecked itself in 1858 before it got a good start. "The Cherokee Baptist and Landmark Banner,"—with that one we give up! "The Examiner" was established in 1854. Dr. Ramsey, its editor, must have been dissatisfied with its examination, as he committed suicide shortly thereafter. "The Miscellany" was revived later and set some sort of newspaper record when at the end of three months it still had only one subscriber. Dr. Joseph Thompson, a gentleman who had recently moved to Atlanta, so probably he didn't know any better. "The Miscellany's" sensational motto was—"Go Ahead." "The Atlanta Republican," an anti-Democratic paper, was founded in 1852 and for a time was the official organ of the city of Atlanta!

Georgia Dental Convention Scheduled Here Sept. 23-26

More than 1,500 dentists, dental hygienists and dental assistants are expected to attend the 84th annual convention of the Georgia Dental Association and concurrent meetings of other dental groups here Sept. 23 through 26.

Dr. J. Ross Tucker of Atlanta, president of the association, has completed the appointment of committees in charge of arrangements. Dr. Irwin T. Hyatt of Atlanta is program chairman.

A Day Worth Waiting For!

Standard equipment, accessories and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.

There are but few times in a man's life when he gets a thrill that matches the one he gets when he takes delivery of his first Cadillac.

We've watched it happen many, many times—and it never ceases to be a heart-warming experience to participate in.

You see—a man isn't simply buying a motor car when he gets his first Cadillac. He is marking a milestone in his life.

For years—perhaps as many as five or ten—he has been saying to himself that, some day, he would step up to a Cadillac.

All this time, he has seen it as something he wanted to do for his family . . . and as a sort of personal reward for the effort and planning that have gone into his own work.

And when you watch him slide over behind the wheel—well, it's a thrill just to be there.

He's a proud and happy man as he turns the key in the ignition switch—and hears the deep-throated answer of the powerful engine.

* * *

If you are one who has been looking forward to a Cadillac—we think you would be well advised to come in and place your order now.

There's a little delay these days before a Cadillac can be delivered—and, obviously, the sooner you place your order, the sooner you'll get your car.

And when the great day comes, you'll know at once that it was well worth waiting for—because all the things you've heard about a Cadillac are doubly true.

It isn't just a motor car. It's a wonderful contribution to a wonderful way of life!

Businessmen to See Armed Forces Show

On hand to welcome industrialists and manufacturers from eight Southern states to Atlanta Monday for the Southeastern Armed Forces Small Business Exhibit will be six pretty representatives of the Navy, Army and Air Force, including "Miss Wave of 1951."

WAVE OF 1951
Virginia Crowley

Virginia Crowley, seaman, USN, chosen "Miss Wave of 1951" at the fifth national WAVES reunion in Philadelphia, will head the group of pretty service women who will register all businessmen attending the "largest Armed Forces exhibit ever held in the Southeast."

The three-day exhibit, planned to help small businessmen seeking defense contracts, will open at 11 a. m. at the Biltmore Hotel. Visiting hours for the businessmen will be from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Monday and Wednesday and from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Tuesday.

Production men for 27 companies that have prime defense contracts and staff members of 13 government agencies worked late Sunday night to put everything in readiness for the opening.

GUIDE FOR CONTRACTS

"We are primarily interested in having our prime defense contractors and prospective sub-contractors get acquainted and to learn what is needed for defense," said Capt. D. T. Giles, USN, acting chairman of the Armed Forces Regional Council, host organization for the affair. "Secondly, we hope to explain to the businessmen coming here the procedure they should follow to obtain defense contracts. Should contracts be signed on the exhibit floor—as was the case at the Pittsburgh exhibit—it will be a happy by-product."

Capt. Giles will open the affair with a short get-acquainted program at 11 a. m. R. R. Snodgrass, vice president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, will introduce visiting dignitaries.

Featured speaker Monday will be William T. McBrian of Washington, D. C., vice chairman of the Munitions Board, who will discuss "Business in Relation to Military Procurement."

PLAN DAILY BRIEFINGS

Briefings on small business procurement problems will be held daily. At 2 p. m. Monday Lt. Col. David W. Allison will speak on "Practical Selling to the Services" and at 10 a. m. Tuesday Comdr. T. W. Chellis, USN, will discuss "Common Pitfalls Encountered in Defense Contract Performance." Other subjects to be discussed include "Financing Your Defense Contract" and "Sub-contracting Pointers."

In addition, high-ranking naval and military personnel will be here for the event, including Lieut. Gen. John R. Hodge, Rear Adm. E. W. Sylvester and Rear Adm. Glenn B. Davis.

A highlight of the program will be a luncheon given Monday by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

FIGHT REDS

Georgians Head Three Vet Groups

Election last week of Paul Ginsberg as National Commander of the Jewish War Veterans makes Georgia the home state of three national commanders of major veterans' organizations.

Charles W. Bernhardt, also of Atlanta, was elected commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans at its annual encampment at Grand Rapids, Mich., last month. And Erle Cocke, Jr., is national commander of the American Legion.

All of the three commanders from Georgia have promised to lead their groups against subversives in this country.

Ginsberg, of Atlanta, said one object of his administration will be to fight Communism. Cocke repeatedly has spoken out against Communistic influences in the United States and abroad. And Bernhardt, in his inaugural address at Grand Rapids, pledged to continue his organization's efforts to "arouse the people from an apathy as to governmental affairs," warning that when even a minority of eligible voters fail to go to the polls it is "easy for subversive elements to overturn the government."

University Adds 3 to Staff Here

Three additions to the staff of the College of Business Administration at the Atlanta Division, University of Georgia, have been announced by Dr. George M. Sparks, Director.

Dr. John P. Gill will head the Division's program in economic statistics. He received his A.B. and M.A. degrees from the University of Alabama and his Ph. D. degree from the University of Texas.

Dr. W. R. Knight Dr. J. P. Gill

Dr. Willys Raymond Knight has been appointed to serve on the economics staff of the College. A specialist in agricultural economics, he received his A.B. and M.A. degrees from the University of Wisconsin and his Ph.D. degree from the University of Maryland. He also has done graduate work at the University of Illinois and the Graduate School of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Dr. H. L. Johnson

Dr. Harold L. Johnson will serve on the staff of the Division of Transportation and Traffic Management. He received his B.B.A., M.B.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Texas. Dr. Sparks said in bringing Dr. Johnson to Atlanta, the Atlanta Division was strengthening its transportation program and giving recognition to Atlanta as "a transportation center."

Hospital Treating King Size Ailments

LONG BEACH, Calif., Sept. 9. (AP)—J. O. Minattra, 32, is nursing a sore leg in Seaside Hospital Sunday and suffering from what doctors called "a king-sized stomach-ache."

Minattra, who weighs a good husky 480 pounds, had a bad accident Saturday night.

Georgians In The News

Judge Jesse M. Wood, Fulton Superior Court, swore in the September-October investigating Grand Jury Tuesday and called for "eternal vigilance" on the part of the jurors against organized crime. Wood feels "our city and county are freer of organized crime . . . than any other city of comparable size in the country."

James Aldredge, Fulton commissioner, attacked a $20-a-month across the board pay raise voted for virtually all county employees, saying the county should apply the money to the "empty" county pension fund and transfer it to the city. Only dissenter in a four-to-one vote, Aldredge said the wage hike would mean higher taxes.

William Wofford, city building inspector, says the new heating and plumbing code Mayor Hartsfield has asked a 12-man committee to draw up would replace the outmoded 1941 code. Preparation of the new ordinance by the group composed of architects, engineers and heating and plumbing experts will take several months.

Fulton Lovell, director of the Georgia Game and Fish Commission, left for New York to sign a reciprocal agreement with North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida to license commercial fisherman and shrimpers. The pact will be signed during a meeting of the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Conference.

Ralph Huie, chairman of City Council's Finance Committee, said the 27-man council, which the Plan of Improvement will give Atlanta "might become top-heavy and some reduction might be preferable" following Mayor Hartsfield's proposal to reapportion Atlanta's wards to reduce number of council members.

Dr. Roy W. McGee, Fulton County Health Dept., will head the new combined City-County Health Dept. as commissioner of public health. County Health commissioner since 1938, Dr. McGee was unanimously elected to the post Thursday by members of the new joint Health Dept. board of directors.

Gordon Pupils are Transferred

To avoid double sessions at Gordon School this year, the Atlanta Board of Education has transferred 145 children to Faith School. They are from "within a circled area" in order that a special transit company bus can transport them more easily.

First bus leaves Braeburn Avenue and Maynard Terrace, S. E., at 8:18 a. m. Monday, going Braeburn to Clifton Road, north on Clifton Road to Clifton Way and then west on Clifton Way to Clifton Road to Faith School.

Second bus leaves Flat Shoals Way and Jobeth Street, S. E., at 8:43 a. m., circling west onto Cecile Avenue, on Cecile to Clifton Road, then south on Clifton Road on to Faith School.

DC-3 Lands Safely With Engine Afire

(U.P.)—A New York-bound Northeast Airlines plane crashed-landed here Sunday after one of the engines caught fire and the cool-headedness of the three-man crew was credited with saving the lives of the 16 passengers.

The right engine of the two-engine DC-3 caught fire over Duxbury shortly after taking off from Logan Airport at 12:07 p. m. (EST). It was scheduled to stop at Hyannis and Nantucket before continuing to La Guardia Airport, New York.

Pilot Capt. Wallace Robbins and co-pilot Ray Jacobs, both of Jackson Heights, New York, headed the plane toward the South Weymouth naval air facility where it belly-landed with the landing gear up.

Airlines Vice President Robert Turner said Robbins, Jacobs and Stewardess Ruth Watkins, also of Jackson Heights, did a "marvelous job."

"It takes considerable skill to land a plane that way but they did it and deserve a lot of credit," Turner said.

Turner said there was no panic or confusion among the passengers which included a 15-year-old boy. Miss Jenkins, he said, evacuated the passengers in orderly fashion through the passenger door after the craft landed.

Gambling Den Raided Near Executive's Home

NANTICOKE, Pa., Sept. 9—(AP). Police arrested four men Saturday night and charged them with operating a gambling establishment less than two blocks from the home of Gov. John S. Fine.

Forty-three other persons were fined $7.50 for patronizing the gambling place.

14 Polling Places Listed For Special City Primary

By HERMAN HANCOCK

The voters of the newly created Seventh, Eighth and Ninth Wards will cast their ballots in the special primary Wednesday for 18 officials to represent them when the Plan of Improvement becomes operative next January. Fourteen precincts will be open for voting. There are 27,997 residents qualified to vote.

Polls will open at 7 a. m. and will close at 7 p. m. Only the voters of the respective wards will cast ballots in the primary. Those nominated will be elected in a general election set for December. They will hold office until January, 1954.

The 39 aspirants will wind up their campaigns Tuesday night. Practically all have pledged support to the improvement plan under which the three new wards will be annexed to Atlanta. Although there have been some charges that certain candidates are suported by one group or another, there have been no violent recriminations. The campaigns have been pitched generally on a high plane.

Since the contests are confined to the wards, there have been few general meetings, most of them being held in the affected areas.

One alderman, two councilmen, one member of the Atlanta Board of Education, and two members of the City Democratic Executive Committee will be selected from each of the wards.

Following is the location of the 14 voting precincts:

C—E. Rivers School, 2334 Peachtree Rd.

D—Mt. Vernon School, Alma St., Northwest.

Wrench-Whipped After Snipping Worker's Tress

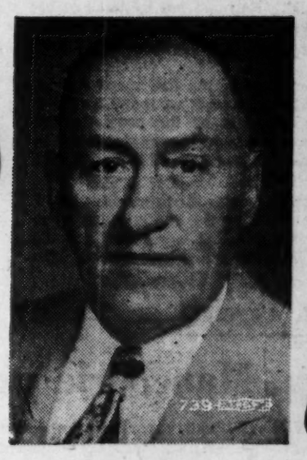

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 9—(AP). A 35-year-old man playfully snipped a lock of hair from a dozing fellow-worker Sunday, and wound up with a head wound requiring 37 stitches to close.

Joe Livers, a crane operator at a scrap metal plant, told police he snipped the lock of hair from Theodore McAtee, 32, while McAtee dozed in the boiler room.

Livers said McAtee got angry and struck him with a wrench. But McAtee said Livers had quarreled with him after the hair-cutting. And McAtee claimed he first was hit with the wrench by Livers.

Livers was treated at a hospital and then released. McAtee was charged by police with malicious striking and wounding.

A Dilemma At Vanderbilt

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 9—Bill Edwards, looking ever so much a double for late-movie gagman Edgar (Slow Burn) Kennedy, with hair, sat behind his desk at Vanderbilt University and considered his dilemma. There just seemed to be no way of saying how he felt about his new crop of Commodores.

He'd lost several good men, no questions about it. They'd be missed. Yet he didn't want to broadcast the fallacious idea that he didn't have broad expectations for the young men who were coming along. There would be some elements better and some not as good as last season, but there was no way of getting the point across without leaving an erroneous impression.

BISHER

First thing, the Vanderbilt team of 1950 was the surprise of the SEC year. The Commodores had come through the swinging doors with fists flying. Auburn, Alabama and Ole Miss had fallen before you could call a cop. Florida rushed in and stopped the riot. But the Commodores already were an unqualified success.

No man in his right mind would expect seven victories of this 1951 team, and yet Edwards wouldn't be surprised if his men weren't looking about as good now as they were a year ago this time.

"Inexperience—that's the difference," he said, sitting up straight in his swivel chair. "Lots of difference in experience. That's our big fault now. We're going to be playing lots of sophomores and freshmen on defense. For instance, when Bob Werckle, our captain, goes out at right tackle his replacement will be Walt Waddey, a freshman."

One should have to make few apologies for young Waddey, a 200-pound son of the great Georgia Tech end, Frank Waddey. He is one of the finer rookie prospects around this blood and thunder league.

"Nobody dreamed last year that we'd ever have such a getaway. We passed on them and they didn't think we could do it. They caught us before they knew what we could do, but pretty soon they were on to us. They covered Bucky Curtis with two men and rushed Bill Wade into hot water.

"We'll play them all game by game this year, no emphasis on anybody. We can't afford to. We'll go into every SEC game the underdog, except against Auburn. I couldn't see it last year and I can't see it this year, and yet there's not much difference in the way I'm feeling about our team then and now."

Wade Bigger and Better Than Ever

If anything, there should be a small new sprig of confidence sprouting on the Nashville campus that gave Ralph McGill to The Constitution and Grantland Rice to sports. These Commodores are beefier than last year's crop. Their running game will be better because the main ground operatives are veterans who know more about where and how to maneuver. These would include juniors Dick Foster, Terry Fails, Mickey Lakos and Allen Drash at the halves, and R. C. Allen at fullback.

Lakos, a student candidate who came out for football and won a scholarship, was a defensive specialist last year. He and Foster are the two leading hoofers in camp now.

At three positions, the Commodores will pay homage to nobody. They figure that with Wade they're as well equipped as anybody at quarterback. They figure Werckle to be an all-conference tackle. They figure sophomore Bob Farris to be as fine a center as there is in a season of only moderate SEC center prospects.

Wade, one of four seniors remaining from his freshman class of 14, is, as they say about new model refrigerators, bigger and supposedly better than ever this year. He weighed in opening day at 220. He's now down to 205, still looking as fierce as a bull. With another season of experience and a new coach to help him co-ordinate his mental and physical activities, he should have his bumper year.

Edwards brought in George Terlep, one of those Notre Dame quarterbacks snowed under by Johnny Lujack, from South Carolina to work with the backs. Terlep took one look at Wade and said: "As good as I ever saw." Remember, he saw Lujack.

Eight Might Go All the Way

Farris, premed student from Montgomery, Ala., already is booked for both offensive and defensive duty. He and another sophomore, fullback Charley Newman, promised the Commodores that linebacking will be the most improved operation on the team.

With the incomparable Curtis, greatest Vandy end since Dick Plasman, graduated, there arises the question of whom Wade will have to throw to. At first chance it appears to be Malcolm Cook, same name as the Georgia quarterback but no relation; Ben Roderick, stringbean Ted Kirkland and Charley Hawkins. As a group, they offer targets prospectively as good as a year ago, but there's no individual to match Curtis.

From tackle to tackle, the Commodores will double up on offense and defense, Werckle at his tackle, Paul Billings at the other, each weighing in at 215; John Cheadle and Dick Philpot, out of Cedartown, at the guards, and Farris at center. Even Wade is booked for defense. He's the best safetyman in the house. Lakos and R. C. Allen will stay on with the defensive backfield, completed by Newman.

Thus, eight of 11 starters stand to do the bulk of the Commodore business this Fall. This will hold, probably, only until additional sophomore and freshman agents rap for attention.

One of these sophomores is John Dodd, out of LaGrange. The 180-pound fullback has charmed the circle of Vanderbilt coaches with his rough-house manners backing up the line. He's a determined, hard-working boy who will be playing much football before he leaves Vanderbilt.

The day wore on into the afternoon and time arrived for practice, but still no decision from Edwards. He wouldn't be caught crying, because that was what everybody expected of him, a wall of tears. He wouldn't be gay and fancy free, for he'd only be fooling himself. He'd just be Edwards and meet each individual problem as it arose.

He figured that by Oct. 6 he'd know just where he stood. That's the date of the Alabama game, and no Edwards team has ever lost to Alabama. If these Commodores get by the Red Elephants again, he might begin to believe in miracles.

How They See Themselves

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 9—Bill Edwards positions and measures Vanderbilt:

"Our ends are as good as last year, more balance on offense. We'd be stronger defensively, if we hadn't lost Doyle Kugler (Atlanta boy) and Dick Walton to the service. Our offensive tackles are as good as a year ago. We lost our captain, Russ Faulkinbury, you know. Defensively, we don't know what to expect. Our guards are weaker on offense, about the same defensively.

Bill Edwards

"At center, we're better all ways with this boy Farris."

"Wade speaks well enough for quarterback. He should be better with another year's experience. Our halfbacks are offensively about the same as last year, with not much change in defense. We should have better linebacking as we go along, but our offensive fullback play won't be as good. We'll miss Jim Tabor a lot."

Coaltown Goes Into Retirement

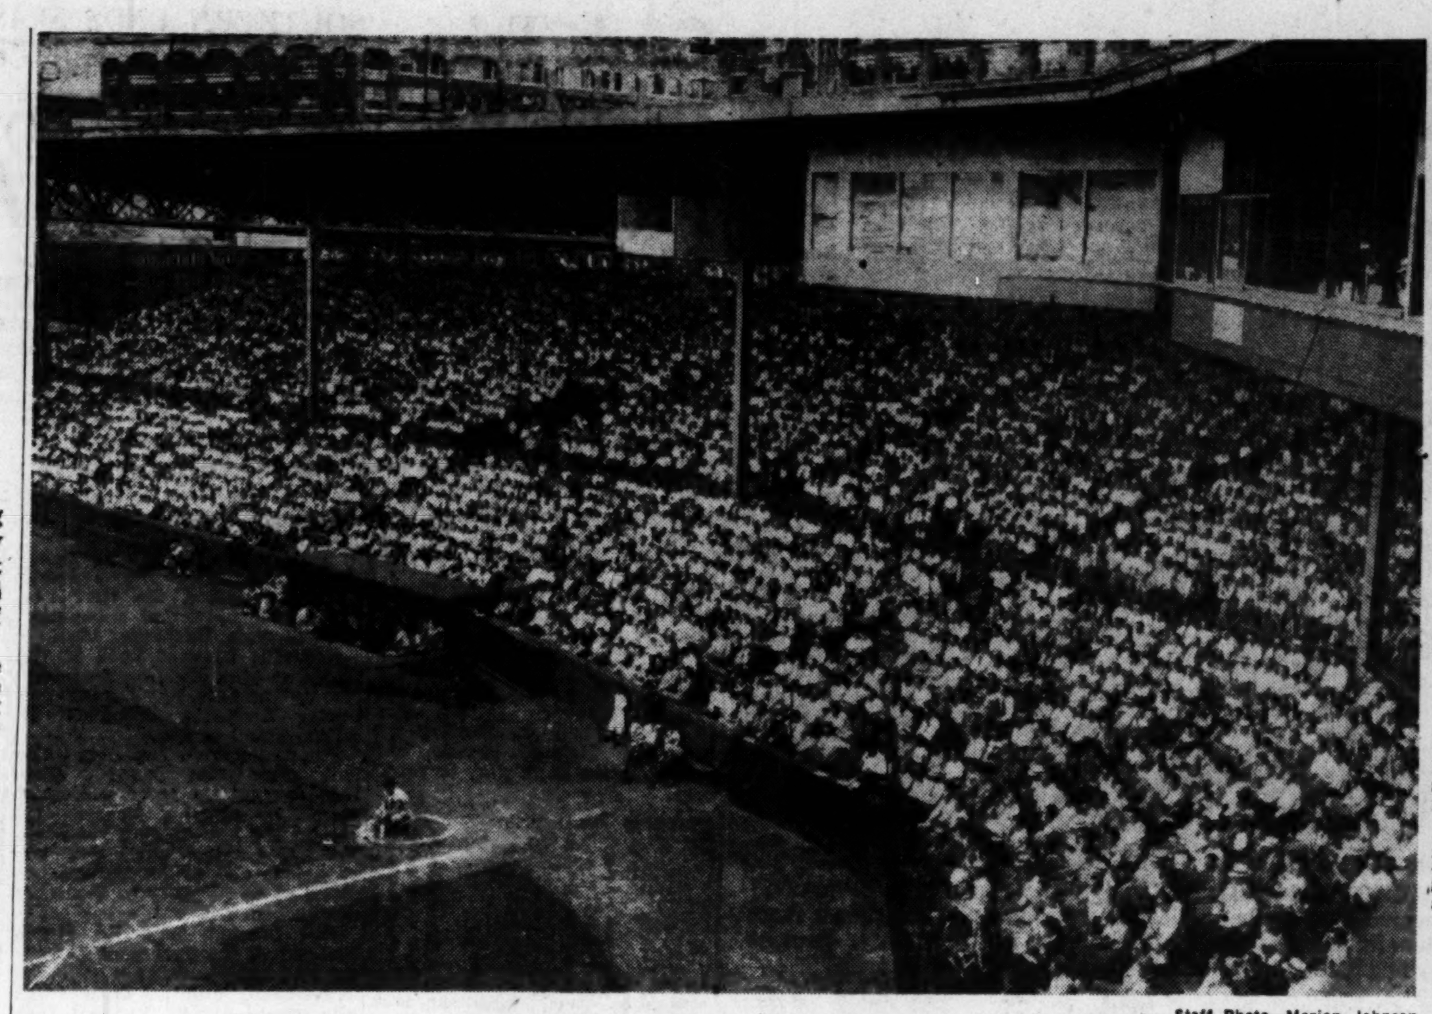

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP)—Jimmy Jones, trainer of the famed Calumet Farm, announced Sunday the retirement of Coaltown, once half of the Stable's deadly one-two punch along with Citation.

Citation's retirement was announced this summer after he won the Hollywood Gold Cup and became the first race horse to earn $1,000,000.

Ex-Notre Dame Star Succumbs

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 9—(AP)—Frank E. Coughlin, 55, Indiana deputy attorney general and former Notre Dame football player, died of a heart ailment in St. Vincent's hospital Saturday.

A 228-pounder, six feet three and three-fourths inches tall, he served as both captain of the Notre Dame football team and president of the senior class in 1920. Knute Rockne, his coach at Notre Dame, called him one of the greatest tackles of all time.

Sal Maglie Wins 20th Over Bums

BROOKLYN, Sept. 9—(AP)—Sal Maglie Sunday became the first National Leaguer to register 20 victories, pitching the New York Giants to a 2-1 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers. The win enabled the runner-up Giants to cut the Dodgers' first-place lead to five and a half games and cling to their slim flag hopes.

Sal Maglie

A homer by Monte Irvin followed a fourth-inning single by Don Mueller accounted for all the winners' runs off loser Ralph Branca. The blow, Irvin's 20th, was his fourth off Branca and boosted his league-leading runs-batted-in total to 103.

Maglie, who has lost only five this year, allowed only seven hits but was in constant hot water due to faulty control. He loaded the bases in the first inning with three walks but fanned Gil Hodges to end the threat.

The Brooks missed two more scoring opportunities before finally snapping Maglie's shutout string in the eighth. Duke Snider doubled with one out and crossed the plate when Jackie Robinson tripled to right center.

Robinson, however, was rubbed out on a great play by Bobby Thomson. The lanky third baseman knocked down Hodges' wicked smash down the third-base line, tagged Robinson before he could scramble back and threw to first to complete the double play.

The victory was only the ninth for the Giants over the Dodgers as the interborough rivals concluded hostilities for the season. The Dodgers won 13.

Casagrande Team Ace In Playoffs

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 9—(AP)—There's a new Fordham Flash rising to stardom in baseball.

He's young Tom Casagrande, who was given a $40,000 bonus to sign a contract with the Philadelphia Phillies upon graduation from Fordham University.

Saturday night, Casagrande pitched Wilmington to victory in the Governor's Cup playoff series with Hagerstown, winner of the Interstate League pennant. It was young Tom's ninth straight victory, including two in the playoffs.

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 9—(INS)—The Chicago Cardinals beat the Los Angeles Rams, 36-21, Saturday night in a pro-football exhibition at Salt Lake City.

The Cards, paced by ten former Notre Dame stars, were too charp for their West Coast rivals. The Rams' passing attack was good for two touchdowns, but failed to function most of the game.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9—(AP)—The spoiling Philadelphia Athletics darkened Boston's pennant hopes Saturday by sweeping a doubleheader from the Red Sox, 10-4 and 3-2. Home runs supplied the punch in both games, Eddie Joost connecting in the opener and Gus Zernial and Dave Philley in the aftermath.

Little Bobby Shantz, who defeated the New York Yankees last Monday, halted the Sox in the second game on only three hits to record his 15th victory of the year for the sixth place Athletics.

All the A's runs came on four-baggers, Philley hitting for the distance in the second and Zernial, the league's leading home run hitter, smashing out his 30th in the sixth with one on.

Philadelphia's first game triumph was achieved on a six-run outburst in the eighth inning, featured Joost's three-run homer, hit on the first pitch offered by reliefer Rae Scarborough.

Charlie Stobbs also allowed only three hits in the second game but two of those were home runs.

Boston's runs off Shantz came in the top half of the sixth as Shantz walked Dom DiMaggio with one out. Johnny Pesky then tripled to score Dom while Ted Williams cuffed a single past first to admit Pesky.

Ferris Fain, the American League's leading batsman, went for the collar in both games. He was hitless in eight chances as his average dipped to .332. He's now nine points ahead of Williams.

CRACKER DIARY

Gate Droops 102,696 from '50 Season

Place the blame on taxes, TV or a sixth-place club, but Atlanta Cracker attendance dipped 102,696 this season. Last year's pennant winner packed 395,696 into Ponce de Leon. Sunday it took 10,422 to hike this season's total to 293,000.

Cracker Pres. Earl Mann leaves Monday for Boston and a conference with John Quinn, Boston Brove general manager. Future of the Cracker-Brave working agreement will be decided among other things.

Announcement by Mann Saturday that Dixie Walker will be back in 1952 confirmed The Constitution story of Aug. 11.

Jack Dittmer, perhaps the most improved player in the Southern Association, was the only Atlantan to cop a loop title. Jack whacked 42 doubles, four more than Nashville's Bob Ludwig.

Taking a cue from the Braves, Cracker officials passed out questionnaires Sunday asking fans what can be done to make things more enjoyable at Ponce de Leon.

The answer should be easy, when you consider that the Crackers have finished in the upper bracket only once in the past five seasons.

Coast Ace Injures Arm

SEATTLE, Sept. 9—(AP)—The arm that was expected to pitch Washington into the Rose Bowl went dead with shocking suddenness when All-America quarterback Don Heinrich suffered a shoulder separation in practice Saturday.

HOLD SLIM LEAD

Yankees Bounce Nats In Two Tilts, 7-5, 2-0

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 — (AP) — New York's defending champion Yankees boosted their first-place hold over Cleveland to four percentage points Sunday, sweeping both ends of a doubleheader from Washington, 7-5 and 2-0. Vic Raschi permitted only one hit in the second game, halted at the end of five and a half innings because of darkness. The double triumph left the Yankees even in games won and lost with the Indians, who defeated the St. Louis Browns, 4-3.

The Yankees whipped two former teammates as they closed the season with the Senators after winning 16 of the 22 games. Dick Starr, whom the Yankees tagged for four of their five homers, was the first-game loser.

The Yankees made only four hits off Don Johnson in the second game but one of them was a homer by Yogi Berra, his second of the day and his 23rd of the season. The other run resulted from a walk to Mickey Mantle in the third and a double by Phil Rizzuto.

Crackers Gain Split in Finale

Break Even With Barons Before 10,422 Farewell Fans

By JESSE OUTLAR

Atlanta and Birmingham administered final rites to the 1951 season Sunday at Ponce de Leon Park by swapping victory punches in a doubleheader.

The Barons cemented the Crackers in their sixth-place vault, 9-3, in the opener and then bowed, 3-2, in the second game. A surprising turnout of 10,422 fans, partially attracted by a free auto and other gifts, looked on.

Birmingham, which finished in second place for the third straight year, snapped out of a 15-inning scoreless fog to take the first affair.

Then, to add a bit of color, the Barons sent outfielder Marv Rackley to the mound in the second game and installed Bobo Newsom as temporary manager.

Surprisingly, Rackley battled John Maldovan on even terms before wilting in the sixth when the Crackers put across their winning run. He probably could make a permanent switch from the outfield to the mound as a reliefer.

Shutout by Don Liddle Saturday night, it took Birmingham seven innings to solve Reardon's slants in the first game. But once the Barons found the range, they really lowered the boom.

The Crackers had jabbed John Gilbert, collaborater with Norman Brown on a five-hitter, for all three scores in the third. A wild pitch sent Chuck Ehlman over, and Jack Dittmer's titanic triple to left-center accounted for two more.

Fluke infield hits by George Wilson and Jim Piersall and pinch singles by Rackley and Red Mathis started the late Birmingham spree in the seventh.

Piersall supplied the clincher in the following round, when he unloaded an inside-the-park homer with two on. The ball bounced past Country Brown in center and onto th bank.

Andy Elko replaced Readon after Mathis rapped a double in the ninth and was the victim during a four-run rampage. Howie Anderson finally came on to quell the riot in which nine Barons batted.

As the Barons did all their slugging in the last three frames, Norman Brown entered the winner's circle for the 14th time. The ex-Cracker, who has dropped 16, yielded only one hit after Gilbert

Dixisteel Hangs On In National

By LAWRENCE STOLLE
Special to The Constitution

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 9—Atlanta Dixisteel clung to its hopes for the 38th National Amateur Baseball Federation tournament crown here Sunday afternoon by eliminating Barberton Ace Printers, 6-2.

Seven errors and a like number of walks eased Atlanta's cause. Atlanta was out-hit, 12 to 9, but pitched R. Cooper was extremely effective in the clutch. He walked only two and struck out five batters.

Atlanta broke into the scoring column in the first inning, loading the bases. The best Atlanta could do was tally one run on an error. After Barberton deadlocked the score in the second, Atlanta moved ahead and stayed out front.

In the third, Red McFarland broke the 1-1 tie by slamming a triple behind Eason, who had singled. In the sixth inning Atlanta added another tally on two singles and an error. Doubles by James McWilliams and Red Schoening and an error produced two more Atlanta markers and extended the count to 5-1. In the eighth Atlanta cashed in another run.

Eason, McWilliams and Coffer paced Atlanta's attack with two hits apiece.

After Saturday's 4-3 11-inning loss to Lorain National Tube, Atlanta looked impressive, committing a harmless error. Schoening and McFarland each drove in two runs.

Eagles Ram Bears As Reid Scores

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 9—(AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles racked up a pair of first half touchdowns and then hung on grimly Sunday to defeat Green Bay, 14-10, in a National Football League exhibition game before 19,282 fans at State Fair Park.

The Packers lost two aerial touchdowns, both recalled on penalties, to outplay the favored Eagles, but could not score when the chips were down.

The Eagles rolled up to a 14-0 lead early in the second quarter on a 17-yard sprint by Bosh Pritchard and a nine-yard pass from Adrian Burk to Pete Pihos. Steve Van Buren place-kicked both extra points.

Green Bay scored its lone touchdown on an 80-yard drive in the second period during which Bobby Thomason hit on nine of 10 passes and connected with Floyd (Breezy) Reid for the tally. Ted Fritsch kicked the point.

Moments later Fritsch booted a 27-yard field goal after a Thomason toss into the end zone to Jack Cloud was recalled by a holding penalty.

Green Bay made 18 first downs to the Eagles' five and rolled up 250 yards to Philadelphia's 170.

Groza Kicks Four Goals; Browns Win

CHICAGO, Sept. 9—(AP)—The Cleveland Browns, sparked by Lou (Golden Toe) Groza's four field goals maintained their record of never losing to a Chicago team in six years of play by beating the Chicago Bears 32-21, Sunday before 67,342 fans.

But the Bears scored three times in the third quarter—once on an 80-yard punt return by Wilford (Whizzer) White—to close a 26-0 gap.

The Browns began their scoring parade when Carl Toseff returned the opening kickoff to his 32. Eight plays later Dub Jones scampered nine yards for the first Cleveland touchdown.

Groza laid down a barrage of three field goals from 19, 30, and 23 yards in the second period. Otto Graham threw in a nine-yard scoring pass to Dante Lavelli to climax a 60-yard march to make it 23-0 at the half.

Bear rookie Bob Williams had three passes intercepted in the first half.

Groza added his fourth 3-pointer from 45 yards in the third quarter.

was pulled for a pinch-hitter in the seventh.

In the second game, Roy Jarvis singled home the deciding tally in the sixth, just before Manager Newsom sent Rackley to a shower in favor of Roger Higgins. A walk to Jack Dittmer and Mathews' single preceded Jarvis' blow which came with none out.

Birmingham tapped Maldovan for the lead in the second, when singles by Bob Dipippo and Mathis and a fielder's choice supplied a run.

In the home half, Jarvis booming triple, which almost fell into the leftfield seats for a homer and Hank Ertman's single tied the score. Buddy Hicks followed with a double-play hopper to Rackley, but Marv threw wildly to second. Ertman scooted to third, whence he crossed on Maldovan's single.

Dipippo's single, Mathis' sacrifice, an infield out, and Hick's error enabled Birmingham to deadlock the count 2-2 in the sixth.

It looked as though Rackley might succeed at that juncture, for, with the aid of a double play, he had retired eight straight. However, he weakened in the sixth.

By taking the series 2-1, the Crackers broke even in 22 games with the Barons this season. They dropped seven of eleven in Birmingham, turned the tables here.

White Sox Win Over Tigers, 4-3

CHICAGO, Sept. 9—(AP)—Eddie Robinson batted in three runs with his 27th home run and a fifth inning double as the Chicago White Sox defeated the Detroit Tigers, 4-3, before 13,844 persons here Sunday. The victory was credited to starter Saul Rogovin for his 12th triumph.

Rookie Wayne McLelnd, recently recalled from Toledo, started for the Tigers and was charged with the loss. The Tigers used three pitchers to finish up after McLeland was belted out in the fifth.

Rogovin retired in favor of Luis Aloma after pitching seven innings. It marked his third straight victory over his former Tiger teammates.

Robinson opened the fourth inning by poling his homer on a drive into the lower rightfield stands. The big first baseman is now within two of tying Gus Zernial's all-time White Sox record of 29 home runs set last season.

Floyd Baker, playing at second base, singled across the first of three White Sox runs in the fifth before Robinson unloaded his double for the final pair.

After Orestes Minoso's throwing error paved the way for Detroit's first two runs in the sixth, Vic Wertz blasted his 22nd home run with two out in the seventh for the Tiger's final score.

BATTLE FOR FULLBACK

Raber Injects New Life Into Georgia Backfield

By BILL COULTER
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

ATHENS, Sept. 10—The running of hard-driving Dick Raber, a veteran Georgia fullback, was one of the few bright spots Coach Wallace Butts found in Georgia's game-length scrimmage Saturday.

The Bulldog senior packed the mail eight times for 73 yards and an average of 9.1 yards per try. He also found time to throw a few timely blocks down field.

Dick Raber

Game action is nothing new for Raber. He picked up 71 yards last season in 29 rushes for two touchdowns and a 2.4-yard average.

Coach Butts says of Raber, "Dick has the determination and desire to play that makes a good player."

With his Saturday performance, Raber let it be known that the fight for opening honors at that position against George Washington Sept. 22 is still on.

Dublin Wins In Playoffs

Special to The Constitution

DUBLIN, Sept. 10—Dublin's Green Sox held on to their chances for a Georgia State League playoff victory by downing Eastman, 5-4, Sunday after the Dodgers took a 9-0 decision Saturday night.

Raul Villimia pitched four-hit ball for Dublin, who now trails 3-2 in the series best 4-of-7.

Baltimore Pilot Quits Following Season's Finale

BALTIMORE, Sept. 9—(AP)—Nick Cullop Sunday night resigned as manager of the Baltimore Orioles of the International League.

In a prepared statement, Cullop said: "In the belief that I am acting for the best interests of all concerned, I hereby submit my resignation. . . ."

Owner Jack Dunn accepted Cullop's resignation.

Cards Take Double Bill From Bucs

Run String To 13 of 14

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9—(AP)—Wally Westlake's two-run homer in the second game of Sunday's doubleheader with Pittsburgh gave St. Louis its winning tallies in the Cards' 7-4 nightcap victory. The visitors broke a tie in the 10th inning of the first game to take the opener 2-1 with an unearned run.

The victories were the Cards' fifth and sixth in a row and their 12th and 13th in the last 14 games.

The first-game triumph came on Stan Musial's first hit of the contest, a single through the indrawn Pittsburgh infield. The score was made on Musial's hit by Solly Hemus. Hemus had bunted into a force play to reach base.

LEADERS DOWN OUR WAY

Vols' Barna Captures Southern Hit Title

Jim Piersall, Birmingham, is closest to Barna at .346. Other top hitters: Bama Ray, Nashville, .336; Jack Dittmer, Atlanta, .333; and Bob Ludwig, Nashville, .327.

Department leaders: Dittmer, 47 doubles; Piersall, Dixie Upright, Memphis, and Ed White, Memphi., 12 triples each; Jack Harshman, Nashville, 46 homers and 298 total bases; Hal Simpson, Little Rock, 120 runs scored; Russ Rose, Mobile, 31 stolen bases; Ludwig, 206 base hits; Walt Moryn, Mobile, 146 runs batted in.

Al Yaylian, Little Rock, heads pitchers with 16 victories stacked against four setbacks. Bobo Newsom, Birmingham, has worked the most innings, 232, and completed the most games, 17. Milo Johnson, Little Rock, ranks the pack in strikeouts with 137.

Mrs. Julius Boros Dies in Boston

BOSTON, Sept. 9—(AP)—Mrs. Judith Boros, 23, Southern Pines, N. C., nationally known in golfing circles as "Buttons Cosgrove," died Sunday at St. Elizabeth's Hospital three days after giving birth to a son. She was the wife of Julius Boros, also a nationally known golfer and pro at the Mid Pines Club in Southern Pines.

Mrs. Boros won the Charlotte Open in 1949 and the Silver Foils tournament at Pinehurst in 1950.

Boros finished fourth in the National Open in Detroit in June.

NINE GAMES TO PLAY

The New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox still have nine games to play, a figure that gives Cleveland an edge in the American League pennant race.

SOUTHERN ENDS SEASON

Memphis Snares Play-off Berth

By BILL FERGUSON
United Press Sports Writer

The Memphis Chicks grabbed the one remaining spot in the Southern Association playoffs Sunday by splitting a double-header with Nashville in the seasons wind-up and crowding the Vols into fifth-place.

With the 154-game schedule past history, pennant-winning Little Rock, Birmingham, Mobile and the Chicks emerged as top four and will jump into a best-four-out-of-seven playoff series immediately.

The Chicks had to go right to the wire to cinch fourth place. Memphis locked the spot by taking the opener of a double-header from Nashville, 10-4.

Nashville bounced back in the second to win, 13-2, on four-baggers by Ted Lotz, Ray Damato and Buster Boguskie. Memphis Ed Wilson also lost one.

The Little Rock Travelers—who took their first pennant since 1942—wound up their successful season by clipping Chattanooga, 4-1, in the opener of a twin-bill. The slated second game was called at the end of six innings because of darkness with the score deadlocked, 3-3.

Bill Connelly and Ed March combine in the first game to scatter nine Lookout safeties while the Travs made better use of the seven hits passed out by Lookout Dick Welteroth.

Braves Win Twin Games From Phillies

BOSTON, Sept. 9—(AP)—The Boston Braves won both games of a double-header from the Philadelphia Phillies Sunday, 5-4 and 4-1.

Left-hander Warren Spahn won his 19th of the season in the opener and young Dave Cole won his third in the nightcap, his first complete major league game in which he hit his first homer.

Suggs Captures Carrollton Meet

Edges Babe by Stroke; Pat Lesser Low Amateur

By BERT PRATHER
Constitution Sports Writer

CARROLLTON, Ga., Sept. 9 — Little Louise Suggs, golfing Internationalist, saved her greatest shot for the home-folks here Sunday afternoon and it paid off by netting her first-place money in the second annual $3,000 Carrollton Women's Invitation golf tournament over a star-studded field of professionals and a sprinkling of top-flight amateurs.

Louise, playing over her Dad's Sunset Hills Country Club course, turned in cards of 77-74-70—221 to nose out golf's great Mildred (Babe) Zaharias of Tampa, Fla., by a single stroke.

Unlike her usual workmanlike triumphs of the past, Carroll County's first lady carved out Sunday's victory in spectacular fashion. Trailing La Babe and Ex-National Women's Amateur champion Bey Hanson of Pasadena, Calif., by three strokes going into Sunday's final round, Louise came through with a brilliant final effort of 35-35-70, ringing the curtain down on the final hole with a four wood second that just barely missed holing out for a men's eagle duece or a ladies' double eagle. As it was, the ball stopped just six inches from the cup from where she got down for a birdie three by men's standard.

Mrs. Zaharias was still on the course, but try as she may, she just couldn't match Louise's sensational finish to gain a tie. The Babe, who fared poorly in this tournament last year when Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., eased in first ahead of Suggs by a stroke at 216, made a determined bid for this one, but her three-day effort of 77-71-74—222 was just shy of forcing the tournament into a Monday playoff.

Bev Hanson, last year's National amateur queen, new playing professionally, faltered badly on her final round to wind up in 10th place with a 74-74-81—229.

Thirty-seven players, including all the leading professionals, took part in the tournament, which is strictly by invitation. Carrollton businessmen who foot the bill for this tournament were so pleased with the results that they plan to make it an annual affair if possible.

The victory, Suggs' first since last Spring's win in the New York leg of the cross-country Weathervane tournament netted her $750, brought her year's tournament earnings to $5,-237.50, third highest among the touring pros. The Babe's $500 second place check brought her take for the year to $13,687.50, tops for the tour. Berg is second with $12,787.50.

The entire field moved out of here for Atlanta where they will get in three days of practice before teeing off in the big National Women's Open at Druid Hills Golf Club Thursday.

Results:

Louise Suggs, Carrollton, 77-74-70—221 ($500); Mrs. George Zaharias, Tampa, Fla., 77-71-74—222 ($500); Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Texas, 76-74-74—224 ($300); x—Pat Lesser, Seattle, Wash., 77-75-74—226; Helen Dettweiler, India, Calif., 77-73-76—226 ($250); x—Mary Lena Faulk, Thomasville, 73-78-76—227; Patty Berg, St. Andrews, Ill., 76-76-75—227 ($200); Betsy Rawls, Austin, Tex., 80-74-74—228 ($175); Marlene Bauer, Midland, Tex., 81-77-70—228 ($175); Beverly Hanson, Pasadena, Calif., 74-74-81—229 ($150).

Reds Divide Two Games With Cubs

CINCINNATI, Sept. 9—(AP)—Home runs by Bobby Usher and Ted Kluszewski drove in five of Cincinnati's seven runs Sunday as the Reds' Hermie Wehmeier kept Chicago throttled 7-0 in the night-cap of a doubleheader. The Cubs won the opener 7-3 to hand Ewell Blackwell his 14th loss.

Wehmier limited the Bruins to six hits, Gene Hermanski's double being Chicago's only extra-base blow. Herm batted in the first run himself with a single in the second inning.

STATE PREPARADE

Jesup's Eleven Faces Glynn in Top Game

By BILL McGROTHA

Tiny Jesup, bully boy of South Georgia's Class B gridders, goes gunning for Georgia's AA runnerups of two seasons ago, Brunswick's Glynn Academy, in one of the top tussels on the second week prep football slate this week.

Coach Ben Parks' Yellow Jackets had an all-or-nothing-at-all season in 1950. Seven foes were shutout victims. None of the seven Jesup defeated came within less than four-touchdowns range. Losses were to Glynn, 34-14, Valdosta, 27-20, Fitzgerald, 6-0.

Unscored upon in B competition, Jesup lost the state crown when West Point took a 34-12 finals playoff triumph. Year before, Cook County beat Jesup, 26-13, in the playoff semifinals.

Actually, since the introduction of the regional setup three years back, Jesup has never lost a regular season game in its classification.

Five offensive starters return, six defensive regulars. Burley Davis, all-state guard last season, has been switched to end, and Leland Smith has also gone to end from tackle. All-state Dean Madray is back at the quarterback helm.

"We have the best nucleus for an outstanding ball club that we have had in the four seasons I've been here," says Coach Parks, with admitted optimism. "We are not kidding ourselves about Glynn Academy, however. Hear they have a bunch of big boys and a new formation, designed along University of North Carolina lines."

With 15 lettermen around to mann every position, Jesup stands good to wind up its fourth straight undefeated campaign in its classification.

Stranahan in 9th Bid For National Amateur

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Sept. 9—(AP)—Frank Stranahan opens his ninth bid for the United States Amateur golf championship Monday with a new grip and a new philosophy—"Easy does it."

"In the past I've played what I thought was very fine golf in the earlier rounds only to blow up somewhere in the middle of the tournament," the 29-year-old spark plug heir from Toledo, said Sunday.

This time I think it's going to be different. I hope I can go along easily all the way through—never real hot and never real cold—and if I get to the finals this time I promise I won't lose."

Stranahan's greatest bid for the national crown he has never won was punctured on the 39th hole of the final round last year at Minneapolis by a youngster named Sam Urzetta.

Urzetta, the pride of Rochester, N. Y., will be the defender when the field of 200 sets out over the 6,979-yard, par 71 Saucon Valley country club course, but a lot of sentiment will be riding with the hard-luck millionaire from Toledo.

Now he's bringing a new grip—an overlapping hold on the club he picked up from Alex Morrison in the spring. And with it a load of confidence.

"I'm playing better than I have in recent years," the Toledo muscle man commented.

It's going to be far from easy.

Jim McHale, the big Philadelphian, is hotter than a stove lid. He shot a six-under-par 65 Saturday.

British Amateur champion Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., also is playing fine golf, with a weekend 67 to his credit.

Urzetta is fussing over his iron shots but is scoring well and will be hard to dislodge. Charles Coe of Oklahoma City, the 1949 champion, is shooting topflight golf.

Buck White Takes Empire

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 9—(AP) Buck White, of Greenwood, Miss., shot a one-over par 72 Sunday to win the $15,000 Empire State Golf tournament by two strokes with a 72-hole score of 284.

Runnerup was Doug Ford, Harrison, N. Y., who shot a 73 for a total of 286.

Tied for third were Fred Hawkings, of El Paso, Tex., who had led at the three-quarter mark but blew to 77 Sunday for a 287 total, and Jerry Barber, of Pasadena, Calif., who had a closing three under par 68.

Garcia Gets 19th, Trims Browns, 4-3

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 9—(AP)—Three bunts paid off for the Cleveland Indians Saturday as they led to the winning run in the top of the ninth for a 4-3 victory over the St. Louis Browns. The triumph kept the Indians within breathing distance of the league-leading New York Yankees.

Jim Hegan opened the ninth with a bunt that went foul down the third base line but it pulled rookie Jack Maguire in and Hegan followed up with a sharp single down the same line. It could have been an out had Maguire been back where he started.

Pitcher Mike Garcia, who got the Indians out of trouble in the eighth with brilliant pitching, bunted to Hank Arft who threw late to second—all hands reaching base safely.

A follow-up sacrifice bunt by Dale Mitchell put Hegan on third from where he scored with the big tally on Bob Avila's long fly.

It was Garcia's 19th triumph this year.

The Browns missed a chance to go ahead in the eighth when they had the sacks loaded on two singles and a walk. Garcia replaced Lou Brissie, striking out pinch-batter Matt Batts and getting pinchbatter Tommy Byrne to fly out.

Satch Paige, who relieved Pillette in the eighth, drew the loss—his third against two triumphs with the Browns.

TECH AFTER ONE WEEK:

Jacket Cripples Bouncing Back But Left Half Position Still Suffers

By EDWIN POPE

Coach Bobby Dodd did not exactly call this first week's practice a total loss at Georgia Tech. But after seven days in practice harness, the Engineers certainly were no better off than when they started Sept. 1.

And possibly, with the Southern Methodist opener looming Sept. 22, they were worse off.

Crippling injuries leveled off Sunday. All but three returned to action. But those three still out were left halfbacks: Leon Hardeman, Dick Goudy and Chappell Rhino. It is not inconceivable that all could miss the entire season.

Rhino

Dodd still pointed to his main problems as (1) defense, (2) reserves and (3) passing.

"Lewis Woodruff is doing an exceptionally fine job on the defensive end, from a coaching standpoint," said Dodd, "and I imagine our secondary will be just a little bit improved from last year.

"Larry Morris, a freshman, figures in both the defensive and reserve categories. He has been a very pleasant surprise. And on our passing, Darrell Crawford has certainly helped our attitude. Still, none of the three categories are strong."

At that, Dodd welcomed back at week's end fullbacks Glenn Turner and Art Ross, tackles Bill Thaden, Hal Miller and Capt. Lamar Wheat and ends Dave Davis and Buck Martin.

"That's a load off the coaches' mind, anyway," he sighed.

McCauley Birds Win Over 355

Sgt. Edward O. McCauley's pigeons captured first and second places Sunday in the Gate City Pigeon Club's Spartanburg, S. C., to Atlanta race.

McCauley's first place winner averaged 1235.35 yards per minute and his runnerup averaged 1223.40. Otis Byce's bird was third and Paul Arrington's was fourth.

Three Winners At Capitol Club

Mrs. Clyde King Jr., Donald McClain and Rhodes Perdue were winners Sunday in the Capitol Gun Club's special Birthday Shoot.

Mrs. King captured the 16-yard trap shooting event with a perfect 50 out of 50. Perdue was first in the skeet event with 45x50 and McClain won the international special event with 24x25.

Other Results:

You're going to be surprised about lots of things the first time you and this Buick get out on the road.

Take the easy way it responds to your every wish—steps away from a stop light—soars up a hill—lets loose a surge of power at the touch of your toe on the treadle—or gentles to a stop at the touch of the brakes.

Take the way it rides the road—with an easy stride, sure-footed on turns, level as a lance on straightaways.

Take the way it steers—so light and true that it seems to guide itself.

Take its ease of control. More than a million owners now know the wondrous freedom from tension and strain that goes with Dynaflow Drive.*

But how about price? Can you afford it?

"Easy does it" is the answer to that one too.

Fact is—if you can afford a new car, you can afford a Buick, at the prices quoted here. Better come in to see us soon.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.
Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Broadway Beat

The Japanese Peace Treaty meetings is teeing off a number of other history-making conferences, in Washington, Ottawa and elsewhere. Three members of the British Cabinet arriving here this month for such meetings. Those on hand full of praise for the emergency handling of victims of the Montauk fishing boat disaster under the direction of Dr. Frank Guidotti, head of the New York Hotel Trades Council and Hotel Association Health Center, who happened to be a guest at the Montauk Yacht Club that weekend and was the first medico on the scene. . . . Mayor Impellitteri privately asking for Mrs. Impy's services. . . . Actors Equity has sent a "confidential" note to all members asking them to steer clear of signing petitions, etc. The organization won't accept responsibility hereafter for members who get mixed up unwittingly with Red-sponsored outfits.

Mayor Impelliteri

Not only 42d St., but Broadway also looks forward to the restoration to the legitimate theatre of a number of former movie houses. And in Atlantic City two film temples will switch to living players in '52. . . . Some of the larger television shows will emanate from the West Coast before long. . . . Musicians union clamping down on U. S. musicians making records abroad instead of in this country because, they allege, the background orchestras are foreign. . . . The spa nite spots (in Saratoga, etc.) dropping around $250,000 for the season. . . . Howard Lindsay's modesty in taking third billing below Jackie Cooper and Janis Paige in "Remains to Be Seen" the talk of Broadway. . . . Russell Nype, who has been holding long metaphysical talks with Joan Crawford in Hollywood, telephones Peggy Anne Ellis in New York when he is in the romantic mood. . . . Jessie Royce Landis has been invited to join London's famous Old Vic troupe this season.

Janis Paige

Marlene Dietrich has signed on the dotted line for a new ABC radio program to feature herself and Yul ("The King and I" Bdynner. . . . Tanquil LeClercq, one of the City Center's better ballerinas, is out of the lineup because of a leg injury but may dance later this season. . . . Billy (Little Club) Reed, a former hoofer—he appeared at the old Palace no less than 15 times—has been invited by Judy Garland to join her act there opening nite, Oct. 16, which will inaugurate return of the two-a-day (they have a routine already worked up.) . . . Jarmila Novotna, senior and junior, going to the Coast this month to discuss their joint appearance in a musical show. . . . Ingrid Bergman's leading man in "Europa, 1951," slated to be filmed in Rome in November, will be Alexander Knox, who played the name part in "Wilson." . . . The late Atwater Kent's son, Prentice, about to take the step with Pat Fitzgerald of the society columns.

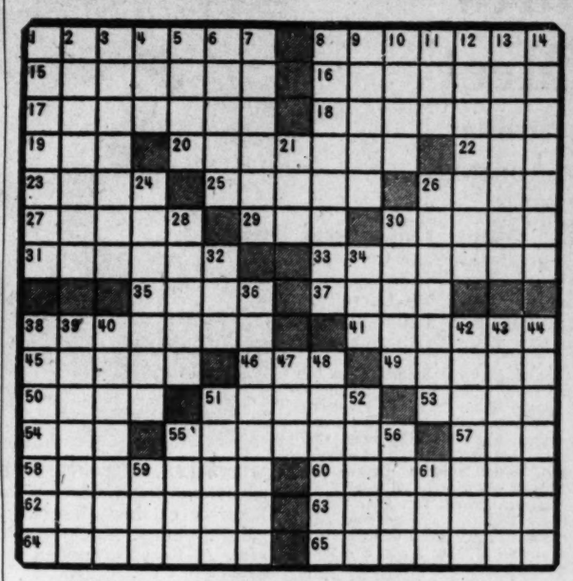

• • •

Sean Flynn, son of Errol Flynn and Lili Damita, clamoring for parental permission to get into his dad's next movie (it's his mother who objects). . . Hermione Gingold's son, Steven, arrived on the Mauretania yesterday to take a post at Iowa State College. . . . A new cafe item is the escorting by Sammy Colt (Ethel Barrymore's boy) of June Knight. . . . Robert Walker was the fifth member of his class at the Academy of Dramatic Arts to have an unusual death. None of the others became famous. . . . Hattie McDaniels' condition at Temple Hospital in Los Angeles listed as serious (currently under an oxygen tent). . . . Former New York newspaperman Norman Ratkow has the green light from Fanny Brice's family to write her biography. . . . Jack Dempsey slated to go into Johns Hopkins Hospital again at the end of the month. . . . Ina Claire on the sick list, though not seriously. . . . Margaret Truman and Sara Churchill attended showing of "The Medium" for the ANTA fund.

• • •

Edna Purviance, most famous of the Charlie Chaplin leading ladies (who even today receives a $250 weekly pension from him) is testing for a mother role in Chaplin's new production, "Footlights." . . . Joan Davis' daughter, Beverly Wills, 18, gets her first featured movie role playing a WAVE in "Skirts Ahoy" at MGM. . . . So many crooners, dancers, etc., now in the Army that there is already agitation for another giant army show like "This Is The Army." . . . Paulette Goddard expected to make more news from London, when she stops en route from Switzerland to Hollywood, where she is due in a fortnite. The young Duke of Marlborough is reported interested. . . . Anatol Litvak and Hildegarde Neff, now in Cannes, may return as Mr. and Mrs. . . . A vacationing New Yorker advises us that a sign over the main exit of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in Boston, which is under repairs reads: "Not An Authorized Egress."

Dr. BRADY

Damn the Women!

When Lala Rookh was born, in Penn Yan, at the foot of Keuka, gem of the famous Finger Lakes, where the great Birkett Mills produce Prize Buckwheat Flour, we had the best doctor in Yates County, naturally.

Also naturally, or at any rate of course, the baby was born where her mother, a graduate nurse, and her father, a one-horse-and-buggy doctor, felt it would be safer for all hands—at home. But, even though we didn't know where next month's rent or oats for Topsy the Beautiful Sorrel were coming from, we splurged to the extent of having a graduate nurse—or a trained nurse, as they were called then, long before registered nurses appeared in that neck of the woods—a doodad which, to the best of my recollection, no patient of mine engaged for mere childbirth.

In Penn Yan at the time there was a doctor by the name of Doubleday, and he was pretty good too, I thought.

When the baby was about 48 hours old the excitement began. Lactation set in. At this juncture the patient's sister—another graduate nurse—arrived, and opps! Sister disregarded professional courtesy and attempted to take charge. The nurse in charge objected. The nurse trying to feed her baby had a sudden elevation of temperature. Her sister demanded that a great specialist from Buffalo be summoned. Her husband ,said uh-uh. For a while there was a difficult situation. But presently I had a happy thought. I called Dr. Doubleday.

He sized up the situation shrewdly enough. Then we retired to consult a bit. 'Brady'" the good man said, as he patted me on the back to reassure me, "damn the women!"

In a few hours all was well.

I am reminded of all this by this query from a young woman:

"I am 31 years old and plan to get married, but something is worrying me. Would I have a lot of trouble if I have children?

"Two women have told me that after you pass thirty it is very hard to go through childbirth. They have me really scared now. I certainly would like to have children. I will appreciate any advice you may give me."

In the booklet Preparing for Maternity (for copy send 25c and stamped self addressed envelope) you will find a chapter titled Her First at Forty, in the course of which I make the following observation:

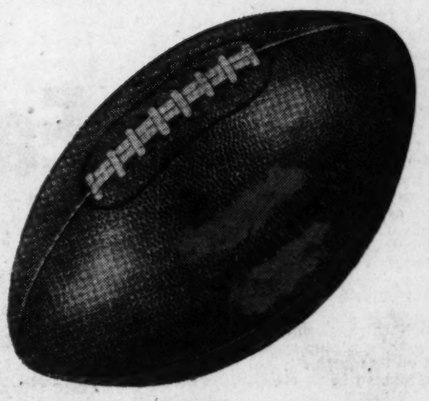

"If the woman around forty can and does roll somersaults and all that sort of foolishness she can face her first or last childbirth with cheerful assurance."

Signed letters not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed and addressed to The Constitution.

In warm and humid weather there is so much moisture in the air that static electrical charges are carried away and do not accumulate. Static electric effects, therefore, occur most readily in cold, dry weather.

Pinza Sings Tonight; Hope Stars in Farce

Ezio Pinza, Bob Hope and Agnes Moorehead will headline the list of visiting celebrities on radio Monday night.

Pinza will appear as star of the Telephone Hour to sing "Se Vuol Ballare" from Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro," "Le Cor" by Flegler and "Il Lacerato Spiroto" from Verdi's "Simon Boccanegra." The time is 9—WSB-TV.

Hope will play the lead in a radio version of his movie, "Fancy Pants" at 9 on WAGA-CBS. Lucille Ball will be featured.

Miss Moorehead will appear in "Suspense" at 8 on WAGA-TV in the chilling drama, "The Evil of Adelaide Winters."

GORDON MacRAE and Dorothy Warenskjold blend voices and dramatic talent on The Railroad Hour at 8 p. m. on WSB-NBC when they star in "Journey Into the Sun," an original musical story by Lawrence and Lee.

Eugene Conley, tenor, is guest soloist on the Voice of Firestone at 8:30 p. m. on WSB-NBC (7:30 p. m. on WSB-TV). Conley will be heard in "Softly as in a Morning Sunrise" by Romberg; the Aubade from "Le Roi d'Ys" by Lalo; "Come, Thou Almighty King" by de Giardini; and "Maxim's" and "Girls, Girls, Girls" from Lehar's "Merry Widow."

Television—Emcee Bert Parks will grill eager contestants on the WSB-TV Break the Bank $2,300 quiz session at 10:30 p. m.

Vocalist Mary Mayo will make a return visit this week, providing musical queries for contestants chosen from the studio audience.

A strange woman of tremendous size and a fanatic aversion to the drinking of wine, provide the nucleus for a suspenseful tale on WSB-TV's Lights Out dramatization at 8:30 p. m.

The story of "Mrs. Manifold" takes place in London in 1890.

young sailor, who had been attacked and robbed by thugs, is taken and given a job by the owner of an inn. The proprietress, a woman weighing 300 pounds, makes only one stipulation; no wine is to be drunk or served on the premises. The reason behind this unusual request for an innkeeper forms the basis of an unusual tale.

Kenny Delmar, radio announcer famed for his portrayal of Sen. Claghorn, will be starred in the WSB-TV Late Show presentation of "It's a Joke, Son" at 11 p. m.

Ellen Corby of the screen will star in "Son of the Rock," story of a young man who had been taught by his father to be ruthless in business, on "Hollywood Opening Night" at 10 p. m WAGA-TV.

A rainy day offers Betty and Jim, played by Pat Kirkland and John Craven, an opportunity to patch up some roof leaks on their ramshackle farm, in the episode of WAGA-TV's "The Egg and I," five-a-week television adaptation of Betty Mac Donald's best seller at 11 a. m.

Students Get Break On Summer Jobs

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—(AP). For the first time in many years, part-time and Summer jobs have been abundant this Summer for college students.

The student placement bureau at Rutgers University reports that jobs this Summer have far outnumbered applicants and only the most lucrative positions have been filled. The bureau stated that demands for technically trained men have been particularly heavy and that one-third the engineering students in the class of 1952 at Rutgers found Summer jobs in their major field.

Seven Georgians Killed In Traffic; One Drowns

Atlantan Perishes in a Day Of Many Accidents in Area

Week-end traffic accidents took the lives of seven Georgians, police reported Sunday, and another drowned in Allatoona Lake.

One of the traffic fatalities occurred in the Atlanta area which police said Sunday had "one of the worst days of the year" in auto mishaps.

U. S. engineers and a diver from Marietta late Sunday still were searching for the body of James B. Byers, 21, of Smyrna, who sank at 3 p. m. Sunday in 35 feet of water just off the docks at Kings Camp on Allatoona Lake, Acworth Police Chief Mitchell Smith said.

Witnesses say Byers, a Lockheed Aircraft worker, fell from a motorboat, apparently didn't see a life preserver thrown him, sank and didn't come up. He was alone in the boat, they said.

10-YEAR-OLD KILLED

Ten-year- old Wayne Fennell of Swainsboro was killed Sunday afternoon when he ran in front of a car and was struck six miles north of Swainsboro, the State Patrol reported.

A 16 - year - old Negro, Jesse Sapho, of Route 3, Conyers, was killed Sunday when the car in which he was riding stalled on railroad tracks and was hit by a freight train, Rockdale Sheriff W. L. McCart said. The boy's father and aunt were injured in the accident.

Another youth, Charles W. Peeples, 15, of Augusta, was killed Saturday three miles outside of Thomson, when an auto overturned, McDuffie Sheriff L. J. Morris said. Melvin Kitchens, an uncle who was driving the car, received a broken collarbone. He was in Thomson jail, charged with driving under the influence of intoxicants and speeding.

Henry A. Rhodes, 48, of Route 5, Moultrie, was killed and four others injured in an accident at the intersection of state highways 112 and 262 in Mitchell county, the State Patrol said.

The patrol reported that Mrs. Lillie Mae Holland, 48, of Rome died Saturday at Howell Quillian Hospital in Cartersville from injuries received in a head-on collision near Cartersville. Mr. and Mrs. Billy H. Gray, her daughter and son-in-law who were also injured in the crash, were in good condition at Piedmont Hospital in Atlanta.

DIES OF INJURIES

A Ray City man died Sunday night of injuries received when he was thrown from hi. car as it left the pavement and overturned on U. S. Highway 41 south of Lake City, Fla. Clarence Hamm, 33, of Route 1, Ray City, was killed. His wife and two children, also riding in the car were unhurt.

An Atlanta motorcycle patrolman, Spurgeon Eckard, 34, of 590 Clifton St., S. E., was in "critical" condition at Grady after his vehicle overturned on him within a block from the police station.

Mrs. Annie Moore Brown, 64, was admitted to Grady with leg fractures received when she was hit by an auto at the intersection of Holderness and Gordon Streets, Southwest.

Two-year-old Walter Edward Durden of 555 Kelly St., S. E., received multiple abrasions and cuts when he was hit by a car on Lucile Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edward Williams, both of Monroe, and their son, Thomas J. Williams, 24, were treated for head cuts and abrasions they recived in an auto crash on Highway 41, three miles north of Jonesboro, hospital records showed.

FIVE INJURED

Five persons were injured in an accident at the intersection of McWilliams Drive and the Jonesboro Road early Sunday. They were Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Norman Hand and Miss Annie Sue Jackson of Griffin, who were treated for facial lacerations and abrasions and George Robert Malone, 22, of Rutledge and James Tillman McCoyt, 27, of 582 McAfee St., N. W., who were treated for face and limb cuts.

Mrs. Nora Mae Worley, 38, of Atco was treated for lacerations and bruises she received in an auto crash near the stockyards and the Peach Bowl race track.

William Franklin Fargason, Jr., 19, of 273 Martin St., S. E., received facial lacerations in an accident on Campbellton Road near Meadowbrooks Country Club.

Miss Frances Jordan, 17, of 344 Ponce de Leon Ave., N. E., received arm cuts in a wreck at the intersection of Peachtree and Harris Streets, N. E.

Two children, Bernice Amelia Berry, four, and Patricia Ann Berry, two, of 1362 Bluefield Dr., S. W., were treated at Grady for face cuts they received in an auto crash at the intersection of Lawton Street and White Street, S. W.

Champ Clam Eater Gulps Down 199

The gastronomical upset was turned in by Postal Clerk John J. Stainees when he out-ate "Izzy" Weintraub, 200-pound jitney driver who had won the event for the past seven years.

Staines downed 199 raw clams in 20 minutes. Former champ Weintraub could do no better than 145. Staines and Weintraub both come from this resort city.

Gromyko Quits Coast for N.Y., 39 in Party

The train's departure was delayed. It was supposed to have left at noon (2 p. m. Atlanta time) but a bus carrying secretarial members of the delegation broke down on the Oakland-San Francisco bay bridge.

And so the train—with the 39-member Soviet delegation in the two rear cars—pulled out of the Oakland terminal 20 minutes late. The chartered bus had to be towed to the station.

However, Gromyko arrived at the station on time in the sleek black limousine sent out here from the Russian embassy in Washington—the car he has been using since his arrival by train a week ago last Friday.

Atlanta Diplomat En Route to Bangkok For Official Duties

By ANNIE LOU HARDY

When Mr and Mrs. Jack Sorrells left last week for Bangkok, Thailand, they traveled with the rank and privileges of diplomats, for Mr. Sorrells will serve as consultant to the Education Ministry there for the next two years under President Truman's Point 4 Program

Sailing to England, the Atlantans will fly from London to Bangkok, stopping at Beirut and New Delhi en route. Mr. Sorrells, who taught in the Atlanta School System for 10 years before the war, took a 20-month course under State Department supervision in preparation for his commission. He holds both a Bachelor's and a Master's Degree in education from the University of Georgia, and in June was awarded his Ph. D. in education from Michigan State University. During the past year he taught a course in vocational guidance at William and Mary.

Though Mrs. Sorrells will have no official duty in Thailand, she will doubtless be a great help to her husband, for she also has an MA in education from Michigan State where she first met Mr. Sorrells.

AFTER FIVE WEEKS of art study, Miss Harriet Grant and Miss Josephine Harrison returned Sunday from New England. The went first to Booth Bay Harbor, Me., where they painted seascapes to their hearts' content. Then they enrolled in the Jerry Farnsworth School of Art at North Truro, Mass.

Miss Harriet Grant

MEMBERS of the younger set are anticipating the arrival on Wednesday of Bruce Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Culkins, of Evanston, Ill., who will enter Emory University. Mr. Wilson is the nephew of Harry Sommers, who is also looking forward to his arrival. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Culkins, will move at an early date to the west coast of Florida.

LATE VACATIONS—Mr. and Mrs. F. Graham Williams are at High Hampton Inn, Cashiers, N. C., for 10 days. . . . Mrs. E. C. Butt, of College Park, is visiting relatives in Franklin, Ohio. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Mills B. Lane, Jr., and son, Mickey, spent the week end in Savannah as guests of Mrs. Lane's parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Waring.

DR. AND MRS. Lee Bivings left Friday by plane for Sea Island where they are guests at a house party at which Dr. and Mrs. James A. Wood of Macon, are entertaining at their new home on the Island. They will return the first of the week.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT Schwab Jr., leave Thursday for Philadelphia, where they will attend the marriage of Mrs. Schwab's brother, Dr. Louis Battey of Augusta, to Miss Mary Mell. Mrs. Schwab, the former Frances Battey, will be a bridesmaid in the wedding, and Mr. Schwab will be an usher.

SAVANNAH visitors here are Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Bailey who are guests of their sister, Mrs. O. Lee White, on W. Pace's Ferry Road. Mr. Bailey is comptroller of the city of Savannah.

HOSPITAL NOTES—J. M. Burks is recovering from an operation at the Central of Georgia Hospital in Savannah. . . . Mrs. H. E. Bird has returned to her home in Brookhaven following an operation at Crawford Long Hospital.

Miss Sohmers To Marry

Capt. and Mrs. Winfred Dana, of the U. S. Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla., announce the engagement of Mrs. Dana's daughter, Miss Hilda Edith Sohmers, to Harold Tanner Gaymon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Gaymon, of Jacksonville, Fla.

The wedding will take place in the early Fall. The bridal couple will reside in Atlanta, where Mr. Gaymon is connected with the Worthington Pump & Machinery Corp.

Auto Games Ease Travel

When the children seem ready to boil out the car windows and parents' nerves are stretched to the breaking point, try some car games. They concentrate attention on something besides mischief and shorten the length of any family expedition.

ALPHABET: Divide the car down the middle into sides. Those on the left own signs on their side of the road and vice versa. Look for letters in alphabetical sequence. The side who reaches "Z" first wins the game.

LICENSE PLATES: Assign one number to each passenger. The child who owns the number "1" watches every license plate and all "1s" belong to him. At the end of your 10-mile game, whoever has collected the most numbers wins the game.

Guessing games are good for young children. Songs are fun. If somebody thinks up a few of these games to play en route, every trip will seem shorter and less wearing.

OH HAPPY DAY!

On Your Way, Son, School Opens Today

By MARTHA SMITH

All over Atlanta this morning homes are being broken, temporarily, as mothers send the young fry off for that first day of the first grade, or kindergarten, as the case may be.

How does a mother feel when she "loses" a child to the great world of education? Does she feel that a new world is opening for her youngster? Does she feel that she herself will be lost in a forest of loneliness?

The answer to all these questions is "yes," but this is what some of the mothers said when we asked the questions:

Henry Pinyan starts to school today. He's the younger of two children. As Mrs. Henry Pinyan watches Judy and her small brother start for school she says, "Of course there's a tug at my heartstrings, because he's the last one. But he's so happy to be starting, it makes me happy, too."

Mrs. Frederick Bull sends small Betsy off this year, too. She says, "I'm so enthusiastic for her. It means a brand-new kind of life for her and it's so good for any child."

Mrs. Roy Pettway feels the same way about young Paul. "This experience means he's growing up, in personality, mentality and every way. It's a great day for the Pettways."

These mothers and hundreds like them today feel that a great new world is opening for that small character trundling off to the classroom. His horizons expand, his friendships grow, his knowledge, of course, will be increased many-fold.

And the same thing is true of the mother. An era in life is over . . . the child will no longer be completely dependent on his home-life. Outsiders from the family circle will exert their influence and he's bound to be affected. Hours that used to be full of his childish prattle are not only silent in the home, but empty.

Here's a chance for the mother to concentrate all her efforts on the next child down the line. Or if there are no more younger children, an opportunity to develop her own life. Time to read and time to sew; time to find the girl you used to be before the children came. It's adventure.

BE FIRM ABOUT IT!

Underneath it all, wear a GOOD Foundation. Every year fashion writers say "this year the fashion figure is normal." The truth is . . . it never is! There is a long history of fashion changes in the female figure that we won't go into now. But whatever it is that transforms the normal figure into the current fashion ideal is well worth the investment.

This year, it would seem that the silhouette is running to full skirts tiny waists, and rounder bosoms. Pointed bras are old-fashioned.

Not all of us have a hand-span waist or the perfect sized bust but we can get darn close to the perfect fashion figure by wearing perfectly fitted foundations, or girdles and/or bras.

The midriff, the new point of smallness, can be further minimized by the waist-pincher which can be had in all shapes and sizes from the six-inch variety to the type that combines a strapless bra and half-corselet all-in-one. It is a short-cut to a figure-fashioned waist without the use of calorie charts.

SKETCH A—This sharp-angled minimizer will help give you a hand-span waist. Made in light summer-weight material

SKETCH B—A strapless bra serves as a firm foundation for bare-top costumes. This line long gives smooth lines, too. The nylon-lace panty girdle is cool, comfortable and controlling.

SKETCH D—A colorful bit of fun in the panty-world. All colors of the rainbow from fuscia to chartreuse in rayon jersey.

SKETCH E—A bra that serves day-long wear. Can be worn regular, strapless and plunging or halter-wise to suit any costume. The tubular girdle (as small as the one on the arm) is in knitted fabric yarn.

General Tendencies — This should be a lively day for all who like to use their wits and common sense. For those who like to depend upon the help of friends it may not be as good. There is some chance for deception here, but also a chance to outguess the opponent. The day offers a challenge. Undoubtedly this is a time for practical consideration, particularly those which involve finances, also for work which requires attention to detail, such as correspondence. News of an important nature may be expected in national affairs but will call for analysis and interpretation.

If It's Your Birthday—The 12 months just ahead will give you excellent chances to progress in your business position, your friendships, your studies and your hobbies, but it may not provide you with any romantic excitement. Love affairs seem backward for you until next Summer, at which time you can make congenial friends even if you do not reach an immediate state of rapture in which they figure. Undoubtedly you will feel better than in the last two years. You are pulling out from a state of restriction which has caused you some distress ever since 1949.

No Need To Sing Sewing-Machine Blues

By SCARLETT BLANTON

What with fall upon us and fabrics at their prettiest, the nimble-fingered home makers are speculating over pattern books and planning a sewing spree.

And now is the time to check up on the sewing machine. Is it well lubricated? Don't expect it to be, if it's been more than a month since you last used it. Buy yourself some machine oil and treat every moving part on your sewing machine to a dose.

We're told by the experts that the best possible duster for a machine is a small inexpensive paintbrush. A whisk or two of the brush keeps the dust and lint from clogging it up.

When a woman buys a machine, she buys it to last a lifetime (which is the normal span of a sewing machine) and according to the manufacturers, for many years it should be in tip-top shape WITHOUT professional servicing. "But," they add, "If something does go wrong, call in a trained machine mechanic to attend to it." Don't tamper with it yourself, because like as not, you'll get in over your head and cost yourself a pretty penny more for the trouble.

News in the sewing machine world is an ingenious contraption called the blind-stitch attachment, which does just what it says. It is a boon to hemming skirts. . . . The material is so folded that the needle only goes through the underside of the fabric giving an invisible (but sturdy) hem to the skirt.

Other handy attachments for the modern sewing machine include a button-hole maker; a zig-zag attachment (for applique, sewing on lace, or insertion); a simplified zipper foot, and a reversible feed (which backstitches for added strength).

With all these innovations in the age-old pastime of sewing, even the busiest homemaker has time to whip up a pinafore for her small fry, with time for the movies to spare.

Longer Glove Life

Never tug or jerk gloves on or off. Remember the seams are strained when you keep pressing down between the fingers. No thread, not even nylon, is strong enough to withstand much of this abuse.

MARY HAWORTH

Mother-in-Law Trying To Break Up Marriage

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I need your guidance in my relations with my mother-in-law, while my husband is in the Army. George is 20 and we have been married six months. I have a two-year-old daughter by a previous marriage that lasted two years. The baby adores George and he has been kindness itself to her.

His mother is very good to the baby and me, calls herself "Grandma," and comes often to see us and asks us to her home, all of which I appreciate. But she also checks my grocery bills, reads my letters from George and tells me what I can and can't do—for example, that I can't go to the movies except with her.

She is trying to get George out of the Army, and writes him that I could if I'd try, but that I don't want him out. That just isn't true. And recently I found a letter to her, from George, in which he writes, "Yes, mother, you let me know if Ann goes out. I don't believe it, but if she ever did I wouldn't want to live. She and the baby are my whole world."

As a result of her letters to George, he is blue, homesick and worried. I am afraid things are heading to a serious quarrel and I don't want to make him unhappy, needlessly. He loves me dearly and I am much in love with him, and never have thought of steping out on him.

Mrs. B is hot tempered, and cries and storms and thinks nobody loves her if you don't do as she wishes. I have a nice disposition, and will let people call me all sorts of names, rather than talk back and start a quarrel. How can I meet the situation?—A. B.

DEAR A. B.: As I get the picture, Mrs. B is a greedy, selfish woman, who wants to be unrivalled Queen Bee in the affections of her son George; and is using a bag of tricks to get around you and keep you under her thumb, while she bides her time to blight his worshipful love of you which overflows in devotion to your child. It is time to put aside timidity and wishful thinking and recognize her hostile character—even if it hides behind an air of good will at times.

Inasmuch as Mrs. B takes the liberty of reading your mail from George, she can't logically get stuffy about your dipping into his letters to her. So don't hang back from asking her for an explanation of the disturbing comment you encountered. As a further gesture of fair play, you ought to write George about coming across the letter. You should tell him how shocked and distressed you are by the shabby implication that Mrs. B is spying upon you, with his consent—especially as your conduct and intentions are above reproach.

It may be that the cards are stacked against your making a lasting good marriage with George. His mother may be unalterably opposed to you. And George may be too childish and vulnerable in relation to her, too much of a Mom's boy, to make a choice for himself and stick to it. Regardless of what the future holds, you've got an excellent opening, right now, to bid for closer understanding with him.

For advice: 1. On the one hand give George a detailed factual report of your side of the story. List the ways in which you have tried from the start of marriage to please his mother and be a good wife. Say that your record is clear, and that you hope he is willing to stand up for you; and if he isn't, there's no use talking. 2. On the other hand, take care of yourself with Mrs. B, when she would treat you as a child. Tell her you can manage without mom-chaperonage, socially. When you wish to go out respectably in other company, do so candidly.—M. H.

Attic Remodeling Offers Free Rein To Whim in Decor

The present trend toward remodeling the attic into extra rooms is the homemaker's big chance to try out style and color ideas ordinarily considered too risky for conservation rooms downstairs.

The stuff which usually is stored in an attic can earn a second life span by being given a coat of paint, new springs, or new upholstery. Suppose it IS out of date? Deliberately plan a room around such articles and you can end up with a lot of charm.

Even Hair Is Going Up

Latest word from the American Hair Design Institute, arbiter of American hair fashions, has it that hair, one of womankind's indispensible accessories after the fact of beauty, is going UP.

More or less inevitable, considering the inflationary trends of taxes and sirloin steaks, hair is also on the upswing—but with a difference.

Not to be confused with the "Bird's Nest" of 1938 nor the skyscraper pompadour of 1940, nor yet the severe upsweep of 1945, the current hair-(up)do is rather "a subtle upward line, a flowing movement, a lifted feeling." In words familiar to all, the hair that best establishes the new up-coiffure is swept up in a graceful line that follows the silhouette of the head and defines the natural contour line, ending in soft waves or loose curls in the most becoming individual location between crown and nape.

Basically, this new trend requires two things: a soft, not-too-tight permanent to impart sufficient body to the hair, and a contour-type haircut to form the necessary foundation for the upward movement.

Incidentally, while the hair

By MAYNITA GERRY

length for the Up-Do is from one to two inches longer than the short Summer crop, it is far from being long. It is, rather, an in-between length that can be arranged to appear short and yet is long enough to achieve a variety of effects.

IT'S CONVERTIBLE

Speaking of variety in hairstyles, a recent invention along this line brings to light the "convertible" hairdo, designed especially for the woman who often finds herself with a one-occasion hair style. Whipped up by Guro, long known for his "adaptable" hairdos, this current coiffure is a three-in-one affair, to be adapted according to occasions for which it is worn.

Mechanically speaking, the hair is brushed in a swirl that starts low on the left temple, continues back and around the head on the right, ending in a cascade of right-profile feather curls. A wide, almost verticle wave is the only accent to the sleek look of the left profile, perfect complement to the head-hugging side of the new fall hats, with addition of pert, wispy half-bang swirls forward over the right temple. To convert into a less sophisticated coiffure, simply recomb, starting from a low left part and comb the hair backwards to end in brushed-up curls around the nape of the neck.

Although Guro failed to mention how number three is achieved, you shouldn't have too much trouble arriving at suitable conversion. After all, two up gives you a head start—there's only one more to go.

KISSING KIN

Since there is an obvious relationship between hair and hats—sort of kissing kin, so to speak—though many women are prone to deny the relationship, hat stylists and hair stylists have been working hand-in-glove for some years now. What goes, fashionably, in one, goes also in the other.

As the millinery silhouette for Fall is still a wanderer, undecided whether to settle on big or little hats, worn straight or tilted, forward or back of the hairline, having only one thing in common, a tenacity to hug the head tightly. Consequently, so will your hair—fit snugly.

ROUND THE HOME

If You Can't Make Both Ends Meat, Make One Potatoes

By AGNES REASOR OLMSTEAD

Homemakers faced with the high cost of living . . . and who isn't . . . will find potatoes a filling, nutritive way to round out smaller servings of meat. Using pieces or thin slices of ham on top of a casserole of escalloped potatoes is one good budget-saving trick. The milk in this dish will add protein to supplement the ham. Pork chops baked in with a large dish of Spanish rice or creamed dried beef on baked potatoes are always appealing main dishes. Meat pies topped with mashed potatoes; potato cakes made with part ground, cooked meat; meat loaf made with a layer filling of mashed potatoes; and meat and potato croquettes are other good meal suggestions. The saving grace to all this is that meat and potatoes is a pretty hard combination to beat.

Potato salad days are over, according to the calendar, but if your Fall plans are to include some entertaining then here is an old Russian recipe specialty for a super dish. It makes an ideal addition to a buffet meal.

CHICKEN POTATO SALAD

4 large boiled potatoes
2 hard cooked eggs
1½ cups diced cooked chicken
½ cup finely cut onion
½ cup finely cut celery
¼ cup sliced green olives
3 to 4 tablespoons mayonnaise
Salt to taste

Boil potatoes the day before. When ready to use peel and slice very thin. Slice eggs also. Mix all ingredients and if you want to be really Russian use mayonnaise made with olive oil. Heap in a bowl, chill and garnish with additional chopped olives and strips of pimiento.

Supper time and lunch time always find a bubbling casserole welcome fare. This one combines the usual meat and potatoes but with a new flavoring touch. To round out the meal, add a large vegetable salad, bread, and a fruit dessert.

HAM AND POTATO BAKE

3 cups sliced cooked potatoes
1 to 2 cups cubed cooked ham or canned luncheon meat
1 small onion, choped fine
2 tablespoons choped parsley
1 can condensed cream of celery soup
½ cup milk

Combine potatoes, ham, onion and parsley in 1½-quart casserole. Blend soup and milk; stir gently through potato mixture. Put some of the cubed ham over the top. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Sandwiches DeLuxe

Here's a brand new idea for making French dipped sandwiches. Combine equal parts chopped ripe olives and grated American cheese with barely enough mayonnaise to hold the ingredients together. Spread between slices of buttered bread and dip in a mixture of egg beaten with 1-3 cup milk and a little melted margarine. Broil until golden brown on one side, turn and broil the other side.

Girls Prepare For College At Seminary

A modern, comprehensive curriculum, based on sound, progressive educational methods, which prepares students for any liberal arts college, junior college, university, business school or schools specializing in art, drama and music is offered by Washington Seminary, one of the South's outstanding preparatory schools for girls.

Located at 1640 Peachtree St., Washington Seminary opens for all departments this coming Thursday, Sept. 13. This marks the 74th consecutive year of Washington Seminary's existence. Many of today's students have mothers and grandmothers who attended this widely known institution.

In addition to the basic curriculum which prepares pupils for higher education, Washington Seminary has long maintained specific objectives to help each girl attain a well-rounded personality. School officials emphasize that "in educating a woman we are educating not only an individual, but a potential family, making it all the more important that desirable traits of character be instilled during this most critical period of her development.

Fitting the girls who will be tomorrow's social, cultural and civic leaders for the responsibility they will take in the community is a primary objective of the Seminary. They are taught how to organize their forces, conduct their meetings, serve on committees, etc., by actual similar school experiences, for organizations such as Red Cross, Tallulah Falls, Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Guilds and Needle Work Guilds of Atlanta eleemosynary institutions.

Washington Seminary also encourages the participation in and contribution to the cultural phase of the community during the pupils' school life. In this connection school officials take special pleasure in announcing the appointment of Mrs. William Lundeen to its music faculty. Mrs. Lundeen, the former Inge Manski, gained wide acclaim as a star of the Metropolitan Opera. Since her marriage, she is continuing her musical career. This season she will be the stage director of the Atlanta Civic Opera Co.

Mrs. Lundeen will direct Washington Seminary's choral program in both high school and elementary schools. She will also have a limited number of private pupils. The Seminary girls are fortunate in having the opportunity of association with and instruction by this talented and charming young singer of such notable achievements. Her choral program will enrich the musical life of the girls both now and in the future.

Top Drivers To Compete in Truck Event

Once again it's "Roadeo" Time in Georgia . . . that special day set aside every year in the interest of highway safety . . . that exhibition of the knowledge and skill of professional drivers . . . and the rewarding of the safest and most skillful ones . . . Displays of the newest in transportation equipment . . . Sponsored by the Georgia Motor Trucking Association, it's the annual event that has everything . . . for it has all this and a beauty contest, too! And . . . admission to this performance of champions is absolutely free!

On Friday and Saturday, September 14th and 15th, all roads in Georgia will lead to the Great Southern Terminal, 352 University Avenue, second largest truck terminal in the world. Atlantians will go Whitehall to McDaniel and South on McDaniel to University Avenue and the exciting scene of Georgia's 8th annual Roadeo . . . where approximately 1,500 specators will sit on the five foot high, cool, shaded dock overlooking the 11 acres of pavement that serves as the Roadeo course.

This year 50 drivers with accident-free records will compete in the three contests: Straight truck, single axle and tandem axle, using trucks of their choice that meet the required specifications. Forty safety experts will serve as a board of judges and will score the drivers on their ability to execute the rigid field test maneuvers. The semi-finals are scheduled for Friday with the exciting final competitions following on Saturday.

The driver winners in the field test finals on Saturday will represent Georgia in the national Roadeo sponsored by the American Trucking Associations and held the latter part of October in Chicago.

On Thursday driver contestants will be honor guests at luncheon in the Dixie Ballroom after which the written examination will be held embracing safe driving rules, the trucking industry, first aid and fire fighting.

The Cow Girl Beauty Contest, which every year attracts hundreds of people to the Roadeo will be staged at 3:00 p. m. Saturday with Lee Jordan, WSB-TV announcer, Ernest Rogers, Atlanta Journal columnist, and Yolande Gwin of The Atlanta Coustitution acting as judges.

Competing for first prize and the title of "Miss Roadeo of 1951" are 25 employes or daughters of employees of members firms of the Georgia Motor Trucking Assn. The winning beauty goes to Savannah and a vacation stay at the DeSoto Hotel as the guest of Delta Air Lines.

Another attraction of the Georgia Roadeo is the chicken dinner served between the hours of 5:00 and 6:00 p. m. on Saturday at the Great Southern Terminal grounds.

Lander Motors has a special interest in the Georgia Roadeo for three reasons . . . first, because so many "champions of the road" prefer to use Dodge trucks for this exhibition of their skill. . . . And, second, Lander is particularly proud of the fact that Georgia's only national winner, S. L. Moon of the Georgia Highway Express, Inc., won his laurels with Dodge performance. Mr. Moon is a three time State winner. The third reason is the Lander Motor beauty contestant, Miss Joan Miller, daughter of the firm's advertising manager, Glenn Miller.

Harry Mayer, manager of Lander Motor's truck division, says Dodge Job-Rated trucks are the outstanding choice of competing drivers in the Georgia Roadeo. "The tests are tough—the drivers are the best—the competition is keen" says Mr. Mayer. "Given the privilege of driving any make of truck, these men who know trucks choose Dodge for extra visibility, greater maneuverability, accurate steering and remarkable handling ease. Last year T. H. Mullinax of Associated Transport, Inc., won the straight truck finals using a Dodge truck, and three of the four finalists drove Dodges."

Lander Motors has been serving Georgia with dependable Dodge Job-Rated trucks since early in 1942 when the firm was established as Victory Motors, Inc. The company sells all models of trucks from one-half ton of 50,000 pound gross combination weight tractor units, including all body styles—pickup, panels, tank and dump. "Seventy-five percent of our truck customers represent repeat business," Mr. Mayer continues, "because the people who do business with Lander Motors realize that they buy the intregrity of the dealer when they buy a truck or a car. That intrinsic quality has always been the big extra with us."

Another percentage of which Mr. Mayer is proud is that 80% of new truck buyers return to Lander Motors at regular intervals for the now-famous Lander service. A special feature of this is preventive maintenance inspection and service. The money-saving inspection is done with specialized truck equipment and precision instruments that locate irregularities with amazing speed. Hoists that lift the trucks are specially designed for the purpose and easily raise even the immense three and four tonners to a position head high. In this manner inspection and repair work is done under ideal lighting conditions.

Lander Motors offers an unusual wrecker service for calls throughout central Georgia. In addition to light wreckers, heavy duty ones capable of hauling loaded trucks are available.

Truck service is given at one of the four well-known "Landermarks of Atlanta," the Lander Servi-Center Plant located at 24 North Avenue between the Peachtrees. Factory method paint jobs are done in Lander Paint and Conditioning Plant at Bishop Street near Northside Drive. The Sales and Main Office of the company is located at 25 North Avenue and houses the sales personnel which numbers 25. Lander Motor's two used car lots are at 352 Spring Street, N. W., and 639 West Peachtree, N. E.

Drives 3-4-Million Miles On Gordy Tires, Says Atlantan

Wade A. Browne, Atlanta real estate executive, has chalked up three-fourths of a million miles on Gordy tires with an average of 40,000 to 50,000 miles per year for the past 20 years, he said yesterday.

Mr. Browne said, "During my 20-year period of business dealings with Herbert Gordy and his associates, they have been most cordial. I have found everyone from the porters up most appreciative of my business and anxious to give me the best tire service that money can buy. I drove one set of Dayton tires 75,000 miles. My long mileage experience has proven to me that Dayton tires have no equal."

Herbert Gordy, president of Gordy Tire Co., says he is extraordinarily proud of the fact that the company is now serving the second generation of customers. Like Mr. Brown, many Gordy customers prefer the new Dayton Thorobreds. Mr. Gordy explains this buying impetus is due to the remarkable new Daycold rubber tread compound which is the first discovery in 175 years that exceeds best natural rubber.

"Cold rubber," says Mr. Gordy, "is a new man-made material so named because it is produced at temperatures of 41 degrees Fahrenheit and lower in contrast to general-purpose synthetic which is made at 122 degrees Fahrenheit. When combined with newly developed carbon blacks and toughening ingredients in the right proportions, the result is Daycold Rubber—Dayton's exclusive new tread compound that resists wear far better than the best natural rubber."

One-third to one-half more miles is the amazing mileage produced with Daycold Rubber expertly compounded in the tread, according to Mr. Gordy. The new Dayton Thorobreds provide super strength against blowouts and tire failure, he says, because rayon cord reinforced with nylon is used 100 per cent thorughout in all sizes. This Raytex Fortified cord is specially treated in one continuous operation on Dayton's electronically controlled multiprocessing train. This regulated method assures uniformity throughout the cord body and virtually eliminates blowouts, the makers say.

Another feature of the new Dayton Thorobred is the road-gripping safety tread—1,296 skid arrestors, molded to the full depth of the tread, assure positive traction and quick, sure straight-line stops. Customers like the smart appearance and the cushioned riding comfort of the new Dayton Thorobreds, Mr. Gordy says, because customers tell him these new safety tires absorb road shock and seem to smooth out bumps in the road.

Gordy maintains electrically controlled precision tire balancing equipment manned by factory-trained servicemen and offers free tire balance checking service. "If balancing is needed," Mr. Gordy says, "a small sum spent now may save the cost of a new tire because an unbalanced condition is hazardous to tire life as well as to safety." Gordy Tire Co. also gives complete front-end alignment which, of course, is closely related to tire balancing. Scientifically designed equipment is used to make the series of delicate adjustments for front wheel suspension with exact precision for control of tire wear, steering ease and safe driving. Gordy also offers complete brake service.

Gordy has perfected tire recapping processes to such a fine degree that this activity is now a major one with the company. Thirty modern recapping molds of special design turn out retreads that look and wear like new. These molds are designed for recapping all types of tires—passenger, truck, tractor and earth-moving vehicle tires up to and including size 2100x25. Relugging tractor tires is an exclusive service with Gordy. All equipment used at Gordy's is factory approved and the recapping specialists are factory-trained men.

A special courtesy service given the customers of Gordy Tire Co. is routine inspection and rotation of tires every 5,000 miles. This equalizes the wear and gets the mileage out of the spare tire while it gives one tire a periodic rest which lengthens the rubber life.

Fleet operators as well as individual owners know the dependability of Gordy service. The company maintains a special fleet of 15 trucks for immediate answer to service calls. Gordy's "quick answer number" is ATwood 7531. The Gordy Tire Co. is conveniently located at Ponce de Leon and Juniper, just one block off Peachtree.

Local Concern Features More Complete Service

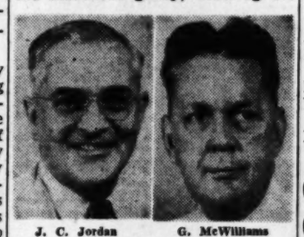

"The modern food merchant of today realizes the importance of modernizing his store, and numerous small and medium-size independent grocers are changing over to the self-service type of super market operation," it was pointed out today in an announcement by Gordon L. McWilliams, president of Refrigeration-Appliances, Inc.

"As a result of the changeover," he said, "the independent grocer thereby increases his business volume and his profits."

In the past few years, hundreds of merchants throughout Georgia have modernized their food stores through the facilities of Refrigeration-Appliances, Inc., and their associate Georgia dealers, by installing Hussman self-service refrigerated equipment and associated items.

J. C. Jordan, vice-president and business manager, also announced that the firm has again expanded its complete food store planning engineering service. This service is free to all present customers, as well as to potential customers.

The planned co-operation with the merchant group, utilizing the facilities of Refrigeration Appliances, Inc., has been of the fullest, Mr. Jordan said. The result: More attractive stores for both the owner and his patrons. "And," said Mr. Jordan, "there is no better time than now to modernize your store. Our equipment is on display for your inspection."

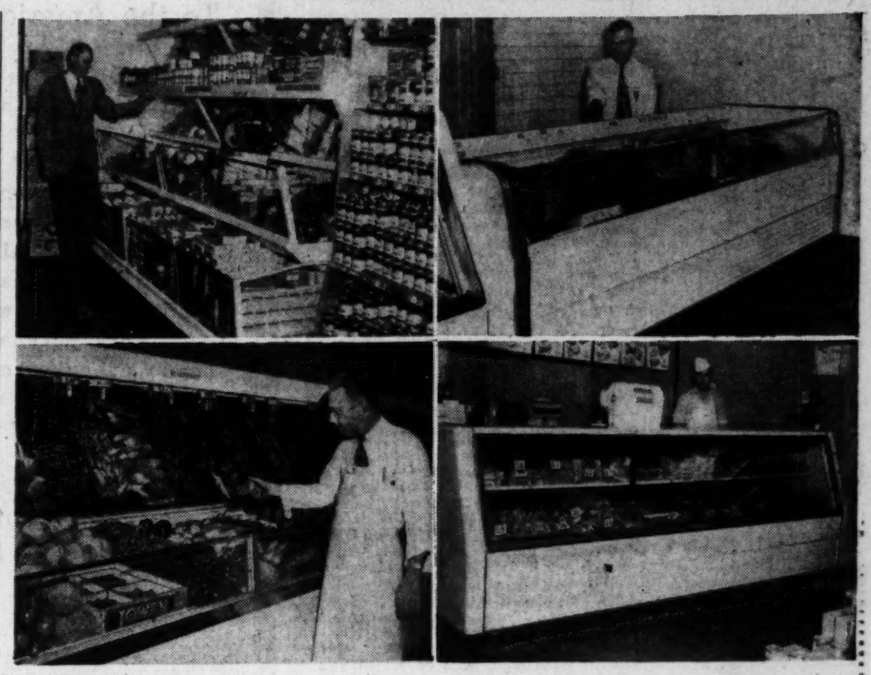

J. C. Jordan — G. McWilliams

The personnel of Refrigeration-Appliances, Inc., at your service, are: G. L. McWilliams, president; J. C. Jordan, vice-president and business manager; W. A. Horn, treasurer; Elise B. McWilliams, secretary (inactive); Mildred M. Brannan, assistant secretary; Jesse G. Bagwell, Jr., store planning engineer; W. A. Jordan, superintendent of works; Lt. Comdr. J. M. Latimer, vice-president (on leave to Navy).

News of Armed Forces

More Georgians are in the news from Korea, including two soldiers who have been awarded battlefield promotions to corporal for outstanding performance on duty. The two, according to Seventh Infantry Division Headquarters, are Milton H. Sasnett, 540 Irene St., Atlanta, and David Byron, of Monticelio.

Cpl. Harvis Jenkins, 579 St., Atlanta, made news when he captured an armed North Korean soldier by uttering the only Korean word he knew. It was the equivalent of "come here," and it brought the surrender of the enemy soldier, armed with a burp gun, after other members of a flushed enemy patrol fled.

Lt. Pinckney R. Brown, 31 Moreland Ave., Atlanta, has arrived in Japan for duty with the Far East Air Forces' 35th Fighter-Interceptor Wing.

Lt. Col. Homer Flynn

Maj. Gen. Ernest Vandiver, Adjutant General of Georgia, has announced the promotion of Maj. Homer Flynn to the rank of lieutenant colonel. Flynn, who served as a captain during World War II and is a charter member of the Air National Guard of Georgia, has been serving as Public Information Officer, and is now on the State Air Staff of the Georgia Air National Guard. Emory Proessors Aid With New Bible Work

Albert E. Barnett and W. Aiken Smart, professors at Emory, helped in the preparation of the Interpreter's Bible, a 12-volume commentary on the Bible being published as a "definitive encyclopedia of Biblical scholarship."

To the American People . . .

Probably never before has there been so much at stake in the preservation of the freedom which we have enjoyed since the birth of our republic. All of us that possibly can do so should participate in its defense and this we can do by regularly purchasing Defense Bonds, thereby maintaining a strong economy essential to our free way of life.

Faithfully yours,

G. C. Marshall

BOND DRIVE MESSAGE—Gen. George C. Marshall, Secretary of Defense, has written this message to the American people urging their support of the current defense bond drive. Georgia has no fixed goal, but Fulton County's defense bond quota is $3,230,000. Quotas of nearby counties are DeKalb, $200,000; Rockdale, $20,000; and Cobb, $125,000. The drive will continue through Nov. 13.

Lawson Cuts Quota Of Patients

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Like a condemned man, Lawson VA Hospital has only a few months to live—but there is no death-cell gloom hanging over the sprawling, 10-year-old institution.

There's a business-as-usual atmosphere throughout the 150 buildings now occupied by the Veterans Administration.

Dr. Horace B. Cupp, Manager of both Lawson and the Atlanta VA hospitals, said closing date for Lawson was June 30, 1952. He said the patient load was scheduled to be reduced to a mere 300 by next February.

The hospital now has a 524-bed capacity—compared with 631 beds a year ago and more than 2,000 beds when it was operated by the Army.

But the reduction in beds has been gradual—and will continue to be so.

MORALE GOOD

"Morale is good among both patients and personnel," Dr. Cupp said. "Everybody has been extremely co-operative."

Dr. Cupp said Lawson was continuing to offer all services except psychiatric treatment.

Hhe said the psychiatric ward was closed because no good, qualified psychiatrist was available.

When the Atlanta VA Hospital (Hospital 48) is opened as a general medical and surgical hospital next June 30, it will have beds for 10 neuro-psychiatric patients, Dr. Cupp said.

"We are in the market for a psychiatrist," he added.

Despite the reduction in bed capacity at Lawson, the turnover of patients has been stepped up so that almost as many veterans are being served now as formerly.

The turnover rate a year ago was 100 percent a month. It has ranged from 130 to 148 percent in the past six months.

Veterans of the Korean conflict as well as World War I and II are receiving treatment at Lawson.

PRAISES HOSPITAL

Dark-eyed, 20-year-old Leslie C. Snoddy, of Nashville, Tenn., who lost both legs in Korea, has been a patient at Lawson since July 13 and insists he has received "wonderful care."

Former Seaman Jack Williams, 21, of Stockbridge, who has undergone three operations recently, dittoed Snoddy's praise of Lawson.

Charles A. Tosch, assistant manager of Lawson, said the number of employees had been reduced from 826 two years ago to 778 full-time employees at the present time. He said the number would be reduced to 717 by Oct. 1.

Remodeling and renovations are under way at Atlanta VA Hospital, where the majority of the Lawson personnel will be transferred.

Dr. Cupp pointed out that a new hospital laboratory and a new research laboratory are under construction.

Besides 10 beds for neuro-psychiatric patients, the 300-bed Atlanta VA Hospital will have 17 beds for tuberculosis patients. Remainder of the beds will be divided about equally between medical and surgical patients.

COLONEL VOICES HOPE

Moslem Iran Not Easy Prey for Communism

By ALBERT RILEY

Because of their intense devotion to the Moslem religion and their fierce and ancient tribal loyalties, there is little likelihood of the Iranian people embracing such and atheistic doctrine as Communism.

This is the personal opinion of an Army colonel who recently returned from Iran and has become Provost Marshal of the Third Army with headquarters at Fort McPherson.

Col. F. A. Kreidel

Col. Francis A. Kreidel readily admits he could be wrong, but he bases his opinion on his observations of the country and its people as Chief of Staff of a U. S. Military Mission to Iran from 1948 until November, 1950.

"The Iranians think too much of their religion to turn etheistic," Col. Kreidel said. "A great many of them are very religious, and I believe they will put up with a great deal before going communistic."

Fears have been widely expressed that Iran may fall within the Soviet orbit as a result of the current oil crisis and unrest in the country's wave of nationalistic fervor.

ENDURE HARDSHIPS

But Col. Kreidel believes that Iranians, long accustomed to poverty and hardships will "take up notches in their belts" and endure much before turning to Communism, despite the activities of the Communist Tudeh party, outlawed in Iran.

"There are 3,000,000 tribesmen in Iran, who place loyalty to their tribes even ahead of loyalty to their country," Col. Kreidel pointed out. He said these tribesmen, largely nomadic, also are a "bulwark against Communism."

The Third Army's new Provost Marshal carefully pointed out, however, that he is no expert on Iranian political affairs and does not attempt to speak as such.

As Chief of a U. S. military mission working with the Iranian gendarmerie, or national police, Col. Kreidel became personally acquainted with Gen. Ali Rasmara, the Iranian Premier who was assassinated by a religious fanatic last June.

Dublin Street Chief Fired

Constitution State News Service

DUBLIN, Sept. 9—Mayor J. E. Bedingfield said Friday that he had ordered the suspension of E. E. Clark, superintendent of the street department of Dublin, and that Chief of Police, J. W. Stubbs, has served suspension notice on Clark.

The Mayor added that Clark is charged with misconduct in administering his duties as head of the street department. Clark will be given an opportunity to answer the charges at the next regular meeting of the city council, the mayor remarked.

Rich's Opens New Store For Men; Fanfare Tonight

By BILL BORING

Rich's Monday opens its new $2,000,000 Store For Men, as colorful as a Baghdad bazaar, as modern as "Come On-A My House," as pleasing as a good game of golf.

Doors of the new store, which Rich's advertises as a "Man's World," open for business—without fanfare—at 9:30 a. m. and will remain open until 5:45 p. m.

Then at 7:30 p. m. they will open again for official ceremonies launching the new store. Special events scheduled for the occasion include:

The public is invited to attend the official opening ceremonies, which will continue until 10 p. m.

The new Store For Men is a complete world in itself, with its own entrance, its own glass paneled escalator (you can see how it works!) that travels from the lower level to the top, and every detail of decor and service planned to please the man and his wife.

Rich's calls the store "the most modern, creative men's store in the country." Before a spade of earth was turned in building it Ben R. Gordon, Rich's executive vice president, and Joseph F. Asher, merchandise manager of the new store, visited every leading men's store in the country—"to be certain," they said, "that we would have the most modern and the most creative."

The building occupies a site 120 by 88 feet, and each floor comprises about 10,400 square feet . . . a whole acre of fashions and accessories-to-living for men to explore, without getting lost in a maze of ladies' hats, perfumes or petticoats.

Colors, materials, fixtures and displays have been designed with a masculine feeling. Special fixture and display tchniques have been worked out to bring the merchandise close to the customer, making it easy for him to see and feel it. New methods of merchandise transportation and stock handling assure the greatest efficiency in service.

The atmosphere of the store is casual, the selling idea is to let the customer select whatever item of merchandise he chooses. This is encouraged by merchandise grouping as to sizes, styles and colors; also by having everything in view. From a single spot, for example, a man may view 14,000 shirts, the colors grouped, the sizes and styles centrally keyed.

Entrance of the Stor For Men is on Broad street, opening into the sporting goods department and the cockerel grill (for men only and where you may mix your own salads and see your food cooked). On the first floor are the sportswear, hats, shoes, shirts, pajamas, smoke shop and shave shop departments. The second floor includes the men's clothing and town and campus (for collegians and junior executives) departments.

AROUND GEORGIA

Irwin county hospital authority at Ocilla has been given the go-ahead in its efforts to obtain a Hill-Burton project hospital for the area. Charles Harris, chairman; Harris Dill, vice chairman; W. J. Paulk, county commissioner; W. O. Wingate, T. J. SYLVANIA, Sept. 9—Gov. Talmadge dedicated a new 34-bed general hospital here Sunday to the service of the people of Screven and surrounding counties.

It was the 19th such structure to be completed under the cooperative hospital and health center building program instituted by his administration.

"Georgia has made remarkably good prograss building hospitals and health centers and the present administration's effort in this regard has been frequently cited during the last three years as exemplary in the nation," the Governor declared.

"I consider the fact that my administration has taken full advantage of this jointly financed hospital and health center construction program its most outstanding and constructive accomplishment for the people."

The chief executive pointed out that so far there are more than 100 communities throughout Georgia which have been approved for the construction of either a hospital or health center or both. Already completed, under construction, approved for construction or tentatively scheduled for approval during the current fiscal year are a grand total of 63 hospital projects with 2,600 beds costing approximately $36,000,000 and 47 health center projects scattered all over Georgia costing about $3,400,000.

The Screven County Hospital cost $322,000. Of this amount both the State and local community each furnished $66,400 while $199,200 was supplied by the Federal government under the Hill-Burton Act. The Governor complimented the hospital authority and the people of Screven County on raising the necessary share for local participation.

Members of the Screven County Hospital Authority are J. A. Mill, Jr., chairman; George B. Lorimer, vice chairman; E. W. Hill, secretary-treasurer; and J. H. Evans, Jr., J. G. Colson, Harry Minkovitz, D. J. Riggs, A. M. Norman, Mayor W. H. Lariscy and J. P. Evans, Trustees and members of the Authority.

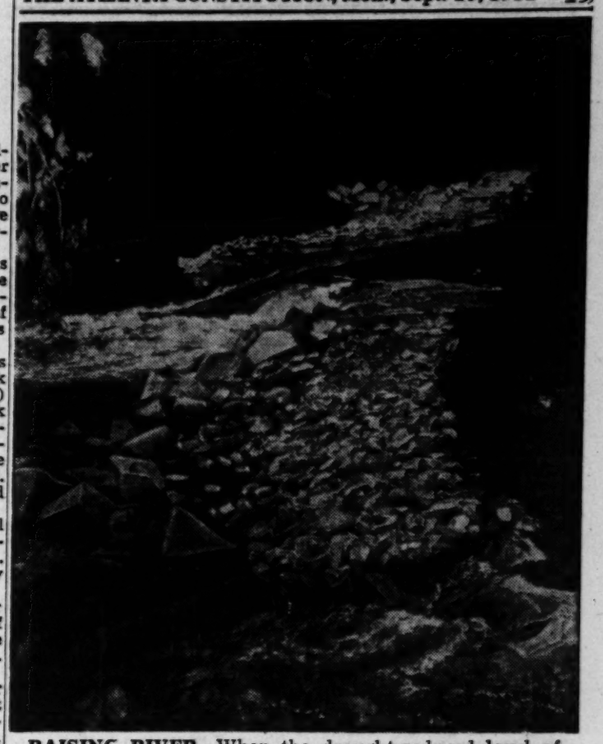

Iron Curtain Luncheons Reveal Diets

During September, in communities from coast to coast and border to border, the Crusade for Freedom will seek to raise money to build more Radio Free Europe stations to pierce the Iron Curtain.

From Radio Free Europe, it is learned what people behind the Iron Curtain eat, all that's available for a luncheon to millions of people in satellite countries is one of these so-called "menus":

1. 2 slices of black bread—that's all. (Polish farm laborers work all day on a few slices of bread.)
2. Bread Soup—made of black bread crusts cooked in salted water and flavored with a few spoonfuls of milk and maybe a cabbage leaf or two. Chunk of black bread.
3. Tiny piece of dried or boiled fish. Black bread.
4. Cold sausage loaf, small piece (a treat, meat once a fortnight, and poor meat at that). Black bread. Ersatz coffee—very bad.
6. Sausage—boiled until water boils away and then fried in fat left in pan. Not at all like our delicious, juicy American sausages. Black bread.

Freedom means not only freedom of action, but freedom of opportunity—to live, to work, yes, to eat well.

RAISING RIVER—When the drought-reduced level of the Chattahoochee River began dropping below the grating on the Atlanta water system intake box, the City dumped 200 tons of rock, shown here, on the submerged dam below the intake to bring the level back up. Paul Weir, manager of the water system, said the water volume through the intake was not reduced, but that the water level had to be kept near the top of the six-foot-deep box to keep floating debris from entering through the grating.

Truck Crash With 2 Cars Injures Three

Two persons were seriously injured late Sunday night when a trailer-truck loaded with coat-hangers hit a parked car on Campbellton Road at the river and turned over on top of another automobile going in the opposite direction.

Identification of those injured was not determined immediately.

Eye witnesses said a late model car traveling away from Atlanta was flattened, pinning the victims inside for 30 minutes.

Reports saying a third car was involved in the accident and that several persons were flung into the Chattahoochee River were unconfirmed early Monday morning.

General Delivery Window Here Gets Perpetual Rush Period

One Atlanta Post Office Department has a perpetual "rush period."

And the thousands of men and women who walk away with a letter . . . or empty-handed and disappointed . . . give General Delivery clerks daily glimpses of true-life drama.

J. H. Plage, head of the General Delivery Service of the Atlanta division of the Post Office, says he and his assistants do everything possible to accommodate their customers. But sometimes, he says, when a letter or check is overdue, there's no calming the inquirer.

IRATE CALLERS

Plage says it is common for an irate caller to go to the postmaster when an expected piece of mail fails to arrive on time.

The four general delivery windows in the old Post Office Building are open from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. daily. A steady stream of callers are at the windows from morning till night. On the first of the month and at Christmas time, business doubles.

First of the month is time for checks "and they had better be on time," Plage says. If not, the clerks at the General Delivery windows are faced with pleading and tears from their worried callers.

"We do everything we can, check and double check," Plage says. "When the checks do arrive, we are just as happy as the recipients."

Plage says the largest percentage of people using General Delivery are permanent residents, despite statements that this service is for transients. Plage says he knows 95 per cent of the callers by name and can tell when he sees them at the window whether they have any mail.

BETTER SERVICE

They prefer General Delivery to home delivery, he says, because it's quicker and better service. Many working Atlantans pick up their mail on the way to work. If they used home delivered service they wouldn't get it until evening.

One of the General Delivery Service's biggest customers at present is the young lady who recently advertised in the paper for a husband. Mail has been arriving for her from as far away as California and Michigan, Plage says. Some of the postcards are pretty rough, according to Plage ——"We're not supposed to read 'em, of course, but sometimes we have to."

Traveling men and other transients depend on the General Delivery, but the bulk of the pigeonholes are filled with mail for long-time Atlantans. Plage says some of the callers have been coming to the General Delivery windows for as long as he's been in the postal service—31 years.

WOMEN EMOTIONAL

"Women are more emotional than men and sometimes it takes a man to cope with our situations," Plage said.

Service beyond the call of duty is often rendered by clerks at the General Delivery windows. A bride was exasperated recently when she failed to receive a letter from her husband. For days she asked for mail before she explained to the harried clerk: "I've been asking for the letter under my maiden name." The letter was found and its precious contents eagerly read.

Plage added that people who have their mail sent to the General Delivery windows should be careful to have their names written clearly.

41 Motorcade In City Today

The 1951 Highway 41 Motorcade, en route from Miami, Fla., to Copper Harbor, Mich., on a goodwill tour, will stop at the State Capitol building at 5:30 p. m. Monday.

Sponsored annually by the Highway 41 Association, the motorcade will travel 1,949 miles on its eight-day tour. It started in Miami Saturday and is scheduled to reach Copper Harbor next Sunday. Stops will be made on an average of 10 times daily and additional cars will join the group at various stops along the way.

Plane Crash Kills 5 In New Jersey

PHILLIPSBURGH, N. J., Sept. 9 — (U.P.) — Five persons, including four teen-agers, were killed Sunday when a light single-engined airplane crashed and burned while taking off from Phillipsburgh airport.

The plane crashed into a field a short distance from the end of the airport runway. Cause of the accident has not been determined.

Police listed the dead as Pilot Edward White, 24, Belvedere, N. J., and Joan Wolfe, Kerry Phillips, James Mayrosh and Charles Noto, all 16, and all from Easton, Pa.

WELL, BOYS?—Miss Pat Barrow, Emory University medical school freshman, has Tom Engle, left, and Dave Morgan confused as she arrives at their fraternity house, suitcase in hand, to accept an invitation to spend two weeks as the fraternity's guest. The Theta Kappa Psi fraternity sent the invitation to freshman Pat Barrow, and "Pat," accustomed to receiving mail intended for mail students, decided to accept the invitation as a gag. She didn't stay.

Marietta Strike Report Denied

Reports that workers at Tumpane, Inc., Marietta, would go out on strike Monday were denied by a union spokesman.

"I'm reasonably sure the rumor is false," declared J. C. McGlon of the International Association of Machinists, whose A. F. of L. union has a number of workers at the company.

Tumpane has contracts to clear aircraft tooling machinery from the huge Lockheed bomber plant.

City Clerk Resigns At College Park

S. D. Johnson, for the past eight years city clerk of College Park, resigned last week, and ended his duties Saturday, Mayor Mal T. Anderson said Sunday.

The Mayor said Mrs. Mary Hunt, assistant clerk for 17 years, will serve as acting clerk. Johnson left the city to go with Crawford Sprinkler Supply Co.

Care Urged In Handling Insect Spray

A warning against careless use of new insecticides whose effects on human beings are not well understood has been sounded by Dr. S. W. Simmons, scientist director of the technical development services of the U. S. Public Health Service in Atlanta.

Dr. Simmons, speaking before a symposium in connection with the American Chemical Society's Diamond Jubilee being held at the Hotel New Yorker in New York, said that "it is difficult or even impossible" for the average individual to escape eating insecticides, but he emphasized that the amounts ingested by the public are very small—much smaller than the amounts taken in by workers with the anti-insect poisons who show no symptoms whatsoever.

He blamed the unfamiliarity of physicians with the signs and symptoms of poisoning as well as analysis of many of the newer lack of adequate methods of pesticides and the lack of adequate antidotes for many of the problems associated with these chemicals.

COUPERIN: TWENTY-FOURTH HARPSICHORD SUITE, Eta Harich Schneider, Harpsichodist. (Urania.)

This one is not for the Saturday night be-bop crowd—but Urania Record, Inc., salutes connoisseurs of the unusual in music with a new long-playing recording of Couperin's, Twenty-fourth Harpsichord Suite with Eta Harich Schneider at the harpsichord.

The delicate, tinkling rendition of the suite may strike some listeners as lacking body and richness. Others will enjoy the harpsichod's limited but gracefully articulated trills and turns.

BRAHMS, SONATA NO. 1 IN G MAJOR FOR VIOLIN AND PIANO, OP. 78. Isaac Stern, violinist; Alexander Zakin, pianist. (Columbia)

Isaac Stern, acclaimed as one of today's great violinists, plays the beautiful "Rain Sonata" masterfully. He gives vent to all the tender and romantic lyricism of the composition.

Popularly known as the "Rain Sonata" because it evokes the impression of a gentle downpour, the Sonata No. 1 in G Major is in three movements. The first is Vivace non troppo; the second, adagio; and the third, Allegro molto moderator. The "rain" theme is heard in all three, but it makes its greatest effect in the final movement.

Stern's interpretation of the sonata, which has an elegiac and almost melancholy tinge, is admirably restrained. The accompainment by Alexander Zakin is flawless.

The recital includes three hauntingly romantic songs by Franz Schubert, "Viola," "Der Blumen Sprache," and "Der Blumen Schmerz;" five songs by Peter Cornelius, "Mochte im Walde mit Dir gehen," Komm wir wandeln," Hirschlein ging im Wald spazieren," "Im Lenz" and "Morgenwind;" three by Hugo Wolf, "Der Knabe und das Immlein," "Wiegenlied" and "Citronenfalter im April."

Longest and most eloquent of the group is Schubert's "Viola," which Miss Lemnitz sings with impressive interpretive skill. "Viola" is a definite highlight.

Federal Action Promised On Phoney Trade-in Terms

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP)—The Federal Reserve Board moved Sunday night to stop the granting of "fictitious" trade-in allowances to get around cash down payments required under consumer credit controls.

To halt a rash of what it considers phoney "no money down" offers on television sets, refrigerators and other controlled appliances, the board laid down new rules for judging trade-in deals. It said non-conforming deals will be treated as violations of the control regulations.

Under the law, violators can be dealt punishments as stiff as a year in prison and a $5,000 fine.

The Board stressed that the new rules do not prevent any dealer from giving "any trade-in allowances, rebates or discounts that he desires," so long as they are "not used as a cloak to conceal evasions of the down payment requirements."

15 PERCENT ALLOWED

The chief requirements laid down by the Board are that allowances for trade-ins bear "a reasonable relationship" to their true value, and that the necessary 15 percent down payment on installment sales be figured at 15 percent of the new article's "cash p ice . . . net of any rebate or sales discount."

"No money down" sales offers have flourished since Congress passed a law July 31 easing the control terms and specifying that trade-ins may be counted toward the required down payments for TV sets and the like as they always have been for autos.

Board officials said a racket has grown up of offering ridiculously high trade-in allowances and then rigging selling prices so that the trade-in is accepted as the "down payment," the installment buyer still pays as much as I would have paid for an outright cash purchase with no trade-in.

HOW RACKET IS RUN

In many cases, they said, it works like this:

A dealer who ordinarily sells for $100 cash an article with a $120 list price must require a down payment of at least $15 on an installment sale, if he is obeying control terms.

Since July 31 some dealers, who have found sales dragging under those terms because installment buyers haven't had the $15 cash to plunk down, have come up with new offers to increase their business volume.

They have offered the article for the $120 list price, then allowed $20 to an installment buyer for an old trade-in which had only a nominal real value, at most, and counted the allowance as the down payment, leaving the buyer the real cash price to pay off in installments that can run as long as 18 months.

Better Grooming

Several hundred Georgia 4-H club girls are participating this year in a better grooming project. Local home demonstration agents have information concerning the project.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my dear husband, Deacon Luther M. George, who departed this life one year ago, Sept. 10, 1950.
Only God knows how much we miss you,
Never shall your memory fade,
Loving thoughts shall always wander,
To the spot where you were laid.
God knew your cross was heavy,
And your pains were hard to bear.
So he closed your weary eyelids,
And whispered peace be thine.

Money to Loan 72

MONEY
While You Wait
AUTO LOANS
The fastest and easiest way to get a loan is to borrow the money on your car. There is only one thing to do—park your car either in our lot or near our office, come in and show us proof of ownership. The entire transaction takes only a few minutes and you can drive away with the cash in your pocket. There is absolutely nothing else to it.
FURNITURE LOANS
SIGNATURE LOANS
You can get up to $1,000 on your signature. Immediate cash.
OTHER LOANS
No matter what type of loan you want, we make it a point to give you the money without delay.
We will be glad to reduce present payments on any loan or obligation you now have, and give you additional cash besides.

Businessmen Pray For Atlanta Revival

By THOMAS M. ELLIOTT

It's a mistaken idea to think members of the Christian Businessmen's Club are a bunch of "sissies." This reporter finds them red-blooded he-men, with hair on their chests and grit in their gizzards, ready to tackle a big job for God, as well as being shrewd businessmen.

For instance, one of the men snapped up a chance to buy 80 acres of Oklahoma land for $185. Today coal is being surface-mined on the place, and oil has been discovered within a mile.

Another man's business requires him to pay about $1,000 weekly in telephone calls. One day recently, so he told me, he made sales of more than $1,000,000 in one day. That man takes off his shoes when he prays. In a prayer meeting I saw him in humble prayer, when he broke down and wept.

That's the type of men who are sponsoring the Atlanta Revival that starts next Sunday afternoon at the Municipal Auditorium, and will continue for two weeks, Atlanta's noted evangelist, Dr. Jesse M. Hendley, will do the preaching. My impression is, it takes a regular he-man to be a God's-man.

For years this reporter has been riding trolley buses from five to 25 times each week. Time spent on buses is utilized in reading, conversation, observation and rumination, as Bill Arp would say. Now and then the car stops, lights go out, there is no movement whatever by the bus except downhill. If the stop is in wintertime and at night, heat goes off and confusion arises. Inquiry is made as to the cause of it all. The simple answer invariably is, "Trolley is off the wire." Until that trolley is again in contact with the wire, increasing confusion abounds.

Thereby we Georgians and others may learn a lesson. Everybody is wondering and asking what's the matter with folks and the world? The answer is simple. Our trolley is off the wire, so that we are not in full touch with God and the divine will. That explains it all, and points to the only reasonable remedy.

Under the inspiration of Satan, man's favorite pastime is taking off the wire God's ordained trolley. Adam and Eve started it in the Garden of Eden. Then came King Saul and Solomon in his last days, together with unnumbered kings of Israel and Judah, who, like high school boys, delighted in taking the trolley off the wire.

Sacred and profane history illustrates in a thousand ways how this was done, and emphasize the dire results that followed such shenanigans, with added illustrations of benefits given when the trolley was again brought back into harmony with God's blueprint for the world.

King Nebuchadnezzar stands out as the trolley-remover supersuper. That Babylonish king was the economic and military master of the world. In his glorification of himself and position, he ignored God and changed entirely God's economic blueprint, thereby adding untold billions of wealth to his bank account, and inflicting misery upon untold billions of people even to this very day. Not only was God's standard of wealth changed, but also God's righteousness was disregarded in human affairs.

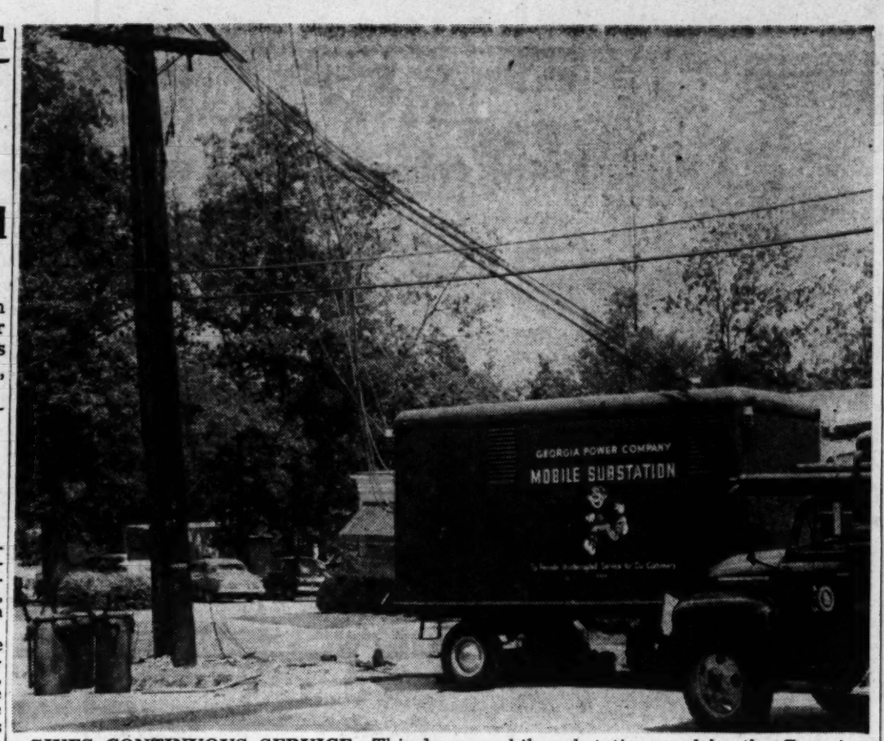

We are off God's trolley wire now, with utter confusion in the world. We will get happiness, peace, prosperity and security when we get back in touch with God's trolley wire in obedience and faith.

YPO to Meet Here Sept. 18

The Young Presidents' Organization, composed of men who become top executives of large corporations before they reach 39, will hold its first Southern area meeting in Atlanta Sept. 18.

Ivan Allen, Jr., and Mills B. Lane of Atlanta; Claude P. Cook, Hazlehurst; Peter S. Knox, Thomson, and Homer G. Ray of Moultrie are Georgians who will participate in discussions on "What Incentives Are Necessary to Stimulate Personal Initiative and Enterprise," along with nine out-of-state presidents.

John W. Rollins, owner of a chain of Southern radio stations, is YPO area chairman. Headquarters for the nine-state meeting will be at the Citizens & Southern National Bank.

GIVES CONTINUOUS SERVICE—This large mobile substation used by the Georgia Power Co. insures industrial and large commercial users against extended lack of power service because of faulty or wornout transformers. When a stationary substation goes out of commission, or must be taken out of service for repairs, the big trailer is towed to the trouble point by a line truck and replaces the regular transformers. Three 50-kilowatt, 2,300-volt transformers are carried in the trailer, with all safety devices found in regular substations.

OUR NEGRO COMMUNITY

High Schools, Colleges Girding for New Term

J. H. Bohannan, principal of Carver Vocational School, announces that the Carver vocational evening program will offer the following courses in business education for the first semester: Typewriting, shorthand, dictation and transcription, bookkeeping and filing.

Registration for these courses will be held Monday through Sept. 17 in the main office of the school, from 2 to 6 p. m. Registration for evening extension courses in homemaking will be held Monday at the following schools: Carver Vocational, 7-9 p. m.; Booker T. Washington, 7-9 p. m., and David T. Howard, 4-6 p. m. and 7-9 p. m.

New High School

The Henry McNeal Turner High School will open its 1951-52 school term for the first time in its new building Monday.

The three-story brick structure is located on Anderson Ave. and is adequately equipped. There are 29 classrooms, a library, an auditorium adapted to gymnastic activities, a large study hall and an audio-visual room.

There is also a modern cafeteria, a studio fitted for broadcasting two-channel programs. The homemaking education department, industrial craft, and the science department are in one wing, while the classrooms, auditorium, study hall, library, cafeteria and the administrative offices are in the other.

The approximate cost of the building is $750,000. It is the largest Negro school project that will be brought into the school system by the Plan of Improvement.

The staff of teachers, named by the county superintendent includes: Daniel F. Davis, principal; Mrs. Sara Bond Davis, librarian. Teachers transferred from the county are: Miss Martha Taylor Johnson, commercial department; Mrs. Thelma Irene Jones, English; Miss Mignon Lackey, music; Mrs. Alma Vaughn Simmons, arts and crafts; Mrs. Victoria Simmons Sutton, English; Mrs. Beulah Jones Tipton, English; Mrs. Annie Nelson Wood, homemaking education; Miss Annie Watkins, social studies; Marshall Burton Arnold, mathematics; William D. Bell, mathematics and language; Joseph Scruggs, industrial arts; Borah Wayne Walton Jr., music and band; Daniel Arthur Williams Jr., science.

16 Die as Plane Crashes House

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Sept. 9—(AP)—A Brazilian airliner rammed into a home at the edge of the city airport just after take-off Saturday night, killing 16 persons. The victims included six passengers, four crew members, four persons dining in the house and two unidentified persons found in the wreckage Sunday morning. In addition 15 persons were hurt trying to rescue the victims.

The plane, a Douglas DC-3 owned by Viacao Aereo Sao Paulo (Sao Paulo's Airline), crashed into the house and exploded 10 minutes after leaving the city airport for Rio de Janeiro.

65 EARN CITIZENSHIP

Young Mother in Group Pledging U. S. Allegiance

By CLARK HOWELL, JR.

Raven-haired Marie Gabriele Nadau Trotter could hardly wait for Monday morning.

After completing their citizenship schooling which includes learning the story of the U. S. Constitution, the 65 initiates will take the oath of allegiance before U. S. District Judge Boyd Sloan.

Mrs. Trotter who lives with her husband, Russell Trotter, a foreman at the Atlanta Paper Co., and five-year-old daughter at 1645 Newton Ave., S. E., said simply:

"My husband and child are citizens of the United States and I want to become one too. The United States is now my home."

The Trotters met and married when Trotter was stationed in Paris while he was in the army.

Others in the group to be presented for citizenship are: Bertha Antionette Nelson, Dutch; Gertraude Kellert Pendergrass, German; Berta Hertel Scott, German; Otto Edelstein, Czechoslovakian; Gieuseppe Busicchia, Italian; Johanna Elisabeth Heil Eaves, German; Ilse Emma Ryan, stateless (last of Germany); Maria Magdalena Stambaugh, stateless (last of Germany); Gertrude Thea Paul Walker, German; Alberto Antonio Colombo, Italian; Felicitas Guevara Kilgore, Filipino; Maria Reed, Italian; Helga Sundlind Smith, German; Ursula Luise Pittman, stateless (last of Germany); Fannie Shavin Pottlitzer, Russian; Alice Leontine Patterson, Belgian.

Rush Crime Laws, Congress Is Asked

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP)—Sen. Kefauver (Dem., Tenn.) Sunday urged a spurt in congressional action on anti-crime legislation to match stepped-up activities of state and local law enforcement agencies.

So far none of the 23 bills introduced by the Senate Crime Investigating Committee as a result of its 15-month probe of the underworld has been passed, even though some of them were filed last May.

In contrast with the blank the committee has drawn in Congress, Kefauver, told a reporter that a notable upsurge in local anti-crime work has followed in the wake of its exposures and recommendations.

The committee in its final report to the Senate on Sept. 1, devoted several hundred words to reciting what has been done on the state and local level since it undertook its nation-wide probe. It called the reaction very encouraging.

COMMITTEE DISSOLVED

With the submission of the report, the Crime Committee went out of existence. Kefauver served as its chairman for the first year and then turned the reins over to Sen. O'Conor (Dem., Md.) for the final months.

But to date, with Congress aiming for adjournment by Oct. 1, only one of the Crime Committee's bills has won the approval of a Senate legislative committee.

It is a measure to strengthen the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission to rid the transportation industry of racketeering elements. The Senate Commerce Committee favorably reported it Aug. 29 and it now is awaiting Senate action.

ACTION STILL LAGS

One factor in the delay on acting on the crime probers' recommendations has been the failure of executive departments to respond to requests for their views on the legislative proposals.

The Senate Commerce Committee said it has received no reply from the Justice Department to a request submitted at the end of May for its recommendations on a bill designed to deny wire service to bookmakers through a new licensing system.

Conservation Week Set By Talmadge

The week beginning Monday has been proclaimed "soil conservation week" in Georgia by Gov. Talmadge.

Meetings will be held throughout the state by various farm organizations. Everywhere the main topic will be soil conservation.

During the next few months Georgia farmers will be planting winter crops to insure good soil for next spring's big cash crops. This year, however, it will be tougher than usual because the ground is hard and dry.

The purpose of the "soil conservation week" is to promote activity in winter planting—to approach the goal of two million acres in cover crops.

Farmers throughout the state agree it will be one of the toughest jobs they've ever had to face.

Alabama Doctor, Wife Suffocated

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 9—(AP)—Dr. Forney C. Stevenson, 78, prominent Montgomery physician for more than 50 years, and his wife died of suffocation when fire razed a portion of their home early Sunday.

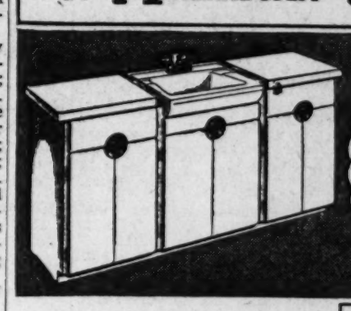

Dr. Stevenson's daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Fritz, and a granddaughter, Mrs. Hugh O'Donovan, were in the two-story structure at the time of the blaze but were rescued by firemen.

The flames apparently had been burning for 30 or 45 minutes when the alarm was received at 3:07 a. m., Lampley added.
